

Lone Pier Bid Goes To Streets Committee Of Council; Action Taken On Five WPA Proposals

C. T. Whitehead Makes Tentative Application For Construction Of Pier.

GROUP SEEKS FEDERAL AID FOR CONSTRUCTION

Permanent Street and Curbing Improvements Planned Within Town.

Construction of a proposed fishing pier and amusement pier on the Ocean front at Virginia Beach ran into unforeseen difficulties last Monday night when, in response to council's request for bids in conformity with recent advertisements, none was forthcoming. Finally, to avoid the expense of readvertisement, C. T. Whitehead, whose former bid had been withdrawn, resubmitted a tentative proposal which was referred to the streets committee for action at the February meeting.

Mr. Whitehead's bid, binding on neither party, was submitted with the hope that oak piles he plans to use can be secured in January. The swampy nature of the ground in which these piles are found, he explained, makes impossible any action at this time, though he expressed the conviction that a pier started in February could be completed in time for the early summer visitors.

Expenditures Ahead of Receipts For Year, Town Audit Reveals

Deficiency Occasioned by Collection of Considerable Part of Revenue During September; Delinquent Taxes Are Reported at $122,357 by Survey.

Reporting total disbursements of $217,079.88 for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1935, as against total receipts of $210,304.48 for the same period, the audit report of the financial condition of the Town of Virginia Beach, made by Jackson, Goodman and Company, of Norfolk, this week was completed and turned over to the council for approval. An adjusted cash balance as of September 1, 1934, totalling $30,315.20 offset the difference between receipts and expenditures for the current year, permitting a cash balance of $34,540.00 to be recorded on August 31.

Because a considerable portion of the Town's revenue is collected from summer residents during September, the creation of a deficit in actual disbursements over receipts is a purely temporary condition, offset by collections following the close of the fiscal year. Taking this factor into consideration, it is noted that the financial condition of the Town is a reasonably good one, although future debt requirements are set at a total of $592,000. These future debt requirements include water, sewer, school and street bonds, county road bonds in which the Town must share, the walkway light fund and the Cavalier Shores bulkhead notes.

Taxes Collected

Of receipts from local sources, current taxes from 1934 levies produced $47,284.53. Delinquent taxes for former years netted another $20,698.53, with penalties and interest adding $5,892.27. Water accounts produced $39,880.31; licenses...

RED CROSS DRIVE ENDS; VIRGINIA BEACH NETS $250

Increases Are Reported From All Sections of County; Over $400 Seen.

KEEN PUBLIC RESPONSE

Mrs. J. E. Woodhouse Leads All Other Collectors.

Concluding one of the most intensive membership drives ever staged in Princess Anne county and the Town of Virginia Beach last Thanksgiving Day, the American Red Cross chapter of the county smashed all former records for amounts collected and, according to incomplete returns from the many districts, approached closely to the $420 goal set for this year's activity. Last year, $309.92 was the total collected.

E. N. MacWilliams, county chairman, without complete returns from the county yet received, was loathe to hazard an estimate of the total amount collected, although he did state that at least a 20 per cent increase was anticipated. Miss Julia de Witt, energetic chairman of the Virginia Beach committee, reported that a total of more than $250 had been collected by her co-workers in the town limits this year, marking an increase of almost $100 over the $150 collected locally last year.

Mrs. Woodhouse Highest

Individual honors in the local campaign went to Mrs. J. E. Woodhouse, who turned in a total of more than $50. Mrs. Woodhouse canvassed the business houses of the town, and the contributions received by her did much to insure the success of the local drive.

Scattered and incomplete returns from other county workers indicate that a 20 per cent increase or more will be general when all reports are made. If these figures should be substantiated, the $420 goal will be achieved, a most satisfactory report for the county to submit to the state and national officers. All workers contacted thus far have reported better results than were...

Postoffice Building Assured, Says Darden; Opposition Tale Scouted By Political Leaders

Woman's Club Asks For Toys, Clothing For Christmas Party

Gala Celebration Is Planned For Needy Boys and Girls of County; Assistance of Residents and Clubs Urged to Insure Greatest Success.

Monday afternoon, December 23, the Woman's Club of Princess Anne county will hold its first Christmas Party for the needy white boys and girls of the county at the clubhouse in Uebermeier. Poor children between the ages of four and sixteen will be brought to the clubhouse by a specially organized motor corps, there to be greeted by a glowing Christmas tree, an imposing Santa Claus, a gala party and entertainment and, as a final gesture, one or more presents of toys and warm clothing.

Wishing to make the party all inclusive and so to heighten the good work to be accomplished, the Woman's Club is appealing to all residents of the county for contributions for the party. The need is great, the field is large, and it is the hope of everyone associated with the project that the response will be as generous and as cordial as the spirit of Christmas itself.

County's First Party

This is the county's first attempt to stage a Christmas Party for the needy children residing here. Its success is assured from the very start by the zeal of the organization and the preparations being made by Mrs. Edward H. Herbert, the club's president and the party's sponsor, but its scope will be broadened materially by the contributions made to the project by persons not affiliated with the club's program. Next year, if present plans materialize, a party will be staged for the Negro children as well as the white.

Tucked away in the homes of this community are many toys no longer used by the children, many items of clothing which the young folks of the home have outgrown. In other homes there are children who have no toys, whose clothing, if a few rags can be called such, is of the meanest and shabbiest, unable to keep out the cold winds that now sweep in from the sea. Toys and clothing will not be their lot this Christmas, unless the generosity of the first group responds to their need.

Varied Gifts Sought

The Woman's Club needs tree decorations, candy and food for the party, as well as toys and clothing. It will welcome every contribution, whether made in materials or money, and it is appealing to every resident, to each church and organization, asking that, whatever can be done, be done to ease the frowns of hunger and cold children, to bring back a note of happiness that now is lacking, to keep alive the spirit of Christmas through the practice of that injunction laid down by the Christ himself: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Baskets of food and filled stockings, the latter especially designed for the young babies not included in the party, are sought. Anything, indeed, that will be useful in bringing joy into the homes, whether it be toys, clothing or food, is sought in this most humanitarian effort.

Contributions Made

Several contributions already have been reported. Mrs. B. D. White and the Woman's Auxiliary of the Princess Anne Medical Society have contributed $5 each. Miss Grace Keeler has sent Mrs. Herbert 100 pounds of nuts for the party and Mrs. H. F. Dornier has contributed a load of toys, all of which are now being reconducted by the Girl Scouts.

Additional contributions may be sent or brought to Mrs. Edward H. Herbert, at the Norfolk Water Works, to Mrs. C. M. Hodgman, R. F. D. No. 2 or to the office of the Virginia Beach News. All will be turned over to the proper persons in due time to accomplish the greatest good.

This is a sincere appeal to our readers to brighten the life of some county child this Christmas season by bringing into his poverty-stricken home some tiny portion of the cheer and thrill of the Yuletide which you and your family will know. A few minutes of time, perhaps the expenditure of a dollar or two, will bring the sound of childish laughter into one of those dark and cold houses which line our countryside, brightening the lives of all with whom they come in contact, and bringing to the contributors a comfortable feeling of having done a good deed in the true Christmas fashion.

Coast Guard Site at Twenty-fourth Street Selected By Postal Group.

STRONG SUPPORT GIVEN PROJECT BY RESIDENTS

Mayor and County Chairman Stress Personal Interest in New Building.

Virginia Beach's new postoffice, made possible under a blanket building appropriation act passed by the last Congress, will be erected on the present Coast Guard property at Twenty-fourth Street and Atlantic Boulevard, it was learned this week. Negotiations are now nearing completion between Postoffice and Treasury Department officials for acquiring the desired land, which postal inspectors believe to be the most suitable site for the new Federal building.

Such information was obtained this week following a conference in Norfolk between Roy Smith, mayor of Virginia Beach, and Colgate Darden, representative in Congress from this district. No indication was given as to a possible date on which construction will be begun, the preliminary matter of securing the land from the Treasury Department having not yet been settled.

Other Sites Urged

Popular sentiment urged selection of a site nearer the business establishments of the town, and it was currently believed that property would be acquired somewhere on the ocean front between Seventeenth and Fifteenth streets. However, persistence of the report that the Coast Guard property would be utilized is justified by recent action.

In a letter addressed to the office of the Virginia Beach News, Mr. Darden takes exception to the editorial comment carried in these columns relative to the delay in announcing construction. In that comment, political leaders of the town and county, including himself, were asked for some expression regarding their stand on the building and notice was taken of current rumors that an organized opposition had developed to forestall its building. Mr. Darden's reply, in its entirety, follows:

Revised Plans Ready

Should be determined to go ahead with his plans late in the winter, a set of revised plans will be submitted to the council for approval and work begun immediately. In the event that Mr. Whitehead should decide against construction, the pier will become a dead issue, unable to be acted upon until the publication of another set of specifications.

Street Projects Sought

Five projects for street improvements, to cost approximately $4,800, were approved by the council and will be submitted to WPA as local projects. Approximately two-thirds of the cost of construction will be paid by the Federal agency if acceptance of the plans is agreed upon. According to F. W. Dunn, general manager for WPA in this district, funds are now available through Richmond for the desired projects, and he expressed the belief that work could be begun within the next few weeks.

The approved projects include: 10,000 feet of concrete curbing and gutters, cost to Town, $2,500, cost to government, $11,426; resurfacing of portions of Pacific Avenue and Holly Road, cost to Town, $700, cost to government, $2062; resurfacing of Mediterranean Avenue, Fifteenth Street to Princess Anne, and Princess Anne, Mediterranean to Atlantic, cost to Town, $400, cost to government, $1428; construction of sand-clay road from Fifteenth to Sixth Street and clay fill at Sixth Street over Lake Holly, cost to Town, $400, cost to government, $9116, and additional sheet piling on ocean walkway, cost to Town, $800, cost to government, $5600.

Poll Tax Due; Local Election Next June 9

Local voters are given final warning that next Monday, December 9, will be the last day on which poll taxes can be paid to qualify for the town election contest next June 9. According to law, a six-month period must elapse between such payment and the date of voting.

Interest in the town election of next year will centre about the election, or reelection, of three councilmen.

CHRISTMAS SEAL PURCHASE URGED

Interesting Case Study of County Patient Outlined By Local Chairman.

"Tuberculosis," says Dr. I. C. Riggins, State Health Commissioner, "continues to be one of the major public health problems in Virginia. The death rate from this disease has declined continually in the state, but still Virginia has proportionately the second highest number of deaths in the Southern Conference area. Last year there were 1,948 people who died from this disease. The majority of these were in the prime of life, when they were of the greatest economic value to the state and their families. The greatest number of these deaths was between the ages of twenty and twenty-four. A great deal remains to be done in controlling not only the deaths from tuberculosis, but also in preventing its spread."

"The Tuberculosis Out-Patient Service of the State Health Department held more chest, tuberculin and X-ray clinics during the past year than ever before. X-ray clinics are extremely valuable and, while done at less than cost, they were made possible in practically every community by the state and local tuberculosis (Continued on Page Four)

WATER SERVICE FOR LYNNHAVEN

Construction of Branch Line From Boulevard Planned With WPA Funds.

If present plans are approved, citizens of Lynnhaven soon will be drawing their water supply from the line which feeds Virginia Beach and the boulevard residents. The plan to hook on to the main line and to make another city service available to the village has been discussed for several months, and the creation of the Lynnhaven Cooperative Water Association last week established a focal point about which the majority of residents have rallied.

According to H. W. Ozlin, chairman and sponsor of the association, the project has been submitted to the district office of the WPA for action, with approval by that agency anticipated in the near future. F. W. Dunn, Works Progress Administration chief in this area, concurs in Mr. Ozlin's belief, expressing the hope that actual work on the branch water line can be undertaken shortly. Approval of the project, he believes, will be easily secured.

Mr. Dunn, accompanied by C. F. Bryant, supervisor of county projects, addressed a meeting of the Lynnhaven association Wednesday night, explaining that under the act, concurs in Mr. Ozlin's belief, expressing the hope that actual work on the branch water line can be undertaken shortly. Approval of the project, he believes, will be easily secured.

GROUP HOSPITALIZATION IS OFFERED TO RESIDENTS OF PRINCESS ANNE

The Tidewater Hospital Service Association is sponsoring a plan designed to eliminate the worry of hospital costs for their subscribers and to make it possible for more people to have the advantage of modern hospital care when they need it.

Service contracts in the association are available for any persons gainfully employed, living in Norfolk and Princess Anne counties, Norfolk, Portsmouth and South Norfolk, who are in definite or organized groups of five or more. However, it requires at least 60 per cent of the group or any one to get a contract and if there are less than 10 in the group, all must subscribe.

The subscriber does not require physical examination and hospital service will be furnished on the recommendation of his physician or surgeon. The patient has the right to select any one of the six participating hospitals and may choose his own doctor or surgeon.

If the subscriber shall require and receive emergency hospitalization (health or accident) while more than 25 miles distant from all of the participating hospitals, he will be paid $5.00 per day on account of his hospital bill (within the limit of 21 days) if a certificate from the attending physician is furnished to the association. The certificate must show that an emergency existed and hospitalization was necessary and patient could not be readily returned to any of the participating hospitals.

In consideration of a payment amounting to about three cents a day or $10 per year, payable quarterly in advance, pay ward hospital service is provided for any 21 days, during the period covered by the contract. The contract becomes effective immediately after it is issued, providing the first quarterly payment is made.

YOUNG STUDENT ATTENDS RALLY

Oliver Brown, Jr., Represents County at 5-Point Session In Richmond.

Selected as the county representative to attend the statewide 5-point rally held at the State Capitol in Richmond, last Friday, Oliver Brown, Jr., of Virginia Beach, a third grade pupil in the Willoughby T. Cooke School, reports that the day was one of the most interesting and informative he ever has spent. From 10 o'clock in the morning until 5 that night, Oliver and his 73 companions toured Richmond, visiting scenes of historic interest and generally enjoying themselves on a gala vacation and sightseeing trip.

Representatives of the various county and city schools of the state who had complied with the health requisites of the 5-point program met at the State Capitol in the morning and were conducted on a tour of the building by Dr. Bagby, their guide for the day. Later, they were received by Governor and Mrs. George C. Peery in the executive mansion, where they were presented individually, from which point they went to Miller and Rhoads for luncheon as the guests of the department store management.

The Confederate Museum, St. Paul's and St. John's churches and many other landmarks were included in the sightseeing tour. In the afternoon, Oliver and his associates were the guests of Radio Station WRVA, where members of the party were interviewed on health subjects by Dr. I. C. Riggins, state health commissioner.

The session ended at 5 o'clock, and Oliver, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Oliver Brown, returned to Virginia Beach.

FAILURE TO USE HOME MARKETING FACILITIES HAMPERS AGRICULTURE

"Virginia's overproduction of agricultural products is in many instances an underproduction, in fact, and even a greater underproduction if the bulk of Virginians lived by accepted standards of proper diet," the Virginia State Planning Board points out in the agricultural section of its report, which has just been completed.

While a study of existing records has furnished the Board with figures showing productions of apples, potatoes, peanuts, cotton, and sweet potatoes to be in excess of local demand, the Board finds that Virginians could consume 11,550,000 pounds of wool, 3,200,000 bushels of wheat, 4,100,000 pounds of cheese, 2,084,000 pounds of butter, 23,169,000 pounds of processed milk and 146,858,000 pounds of meat in excess of present production and still have none of these commodities to sell outside its own borders.

If nearby markets which legally should be served by Virginia farm products, such as Washington, are considered, then even greater underproduction is shown. The Board points out.

Not only is there an underproduction by the farm for the home markets, but figures gathered by the Board show that the farmers themselves fail to provide their own necessities of life.

"Of the total number of farms in the State in 1930, 15.3 per cent reported no gardens, 9 per cent no chickens, and 24.7 per cent no milk cows," the Board points out.

Not only do Virginians in many instances fail to live up to proper dietary standards, but they have failed to utilize local production in supplying local markets. Such local products as chickens are consumed in Virginia from production points in Missouri, Iowa, New York State and North Carolina. Turkey and geese were shipped to Virginia markets from California. Eggs, New York and North Carolina, and mutton from Texas, Minnesota and Pennsylvania.

A CAUSE FOR SATISFACTION

It was not so many years ago that tuberculosis was regarded by the medical profession as an incurable malady, a dread disease from which there was no escape for him caught in its life-taking toils. Although it was one of the chief causes of human death, little was known of its construction and while an occasional scientist labored in his laboratory to effect a cure, men, women and children succumbed in alarming numbers to the ravages of the disease.

Today, though tuberculosis is still a chief contender for highest death rate honors, remarkable headway is being made in its elimination. No longer is the disease considered incurable, and even advanced cases have been known to respond to modern scientific treatment. Many thousands of instances of completed cures are reported annually, many more are now being nursed back to health and happiness and each succeeding year will find greater strides accomplished than ever before in the past.

All of this is a cause for sound satisfaction, but the battle cannot be construed as won. Much work remains to be done, and the greater portion of the fight is being waged under the double-cross banner of the National Tuberculosis Association, the most important factor in the world today fighting the accursed white plague. Only the consideration of insufficient funds with which to pursue its course can check its effectiveness, and the public response in recent years gives every indication that such is highly improbable.

The annual Christmas Seal sale is now being conducted in the county, the chief means of raising the funds needed to carry on the splendid work of the local association during the coming year. Seals have been sent to every resident, and early indications suggest that the drive will be the most successful ever staged, meaning a greater measure of hope for those who now suffer from tuberculosis.

The cost of participating in this movement is so small as to insure the cooperation of each man and woman. The effectiveness of the program being pursued by the county unit is a matter of record, a tale of splendid performance, and it is our belief that all will want to share in its continuance. No greater life-saving project has ever before brought such results, or offered such hope to the ailing.

Your purchase of Christmas Seals may save a life. Do your part to insure continuance of the work by sending your check to the county officers today.

RECOGNITION FOR COUNTY LANDMARKS

Some weeks ago, in the columns of this newspaper, we called attention to a survey of historic buildings and landmarks now being made in Virginia, the purpose of such survey being to bring to the public notice the many bits of man-created interest which dot the Old Dominion. When all records are assembled and photographs of the many buildings and landmarks secured, there will be opened in suitable quarters in Richmond a permanent exhibit of interesting Virginians, to which both residents and visitors to the state will have access, a valuable charring ground for those who are planning trips within the state's borders.

In order that the many historic items in Princess Anne county might be listed in this worthwhile undertaking, we asked that each reader having knowledge of any old church, public building, house, mill, bridge or whatnot notify this office, giving a brief description of the structure, its age and its present ownership. The only stipulation was that all such structures be at least 100 years old.

To date, the returns from that request have been most disappointing, and it begins to look as though Princess Anne county will have poor representation in the notable collection planned for Richmond. So, believing that a certain pride in local relics must eventually bring the reaction we desire, we again are repeating our request. With the county properly represented, there is every reason to anticipate an increased tourist business, which means, in turn, more added dollars for all types of business in our communities.

Yet, aside from the commercial aspects of such a survey, the historic attractions of our venerable buildings merit sufficient attention without further considerations. We are proud of these structures, proud of the history that has been made within them, and such pride should father the wish to see them included in the state collection. We shall welcome the cooperation of all who will give us this survey the little time required to uncover the necessary evidence of age. Your support is earnestly solicited.

MR. DARDEN REPLIES

There is little need for further comment on the Hon. Colgate Darden's letter relative to the postoffice building. He has, he asserts, done everything possible to insure completion of the project which he states is assured Virginia Beach. The news is interesting and gratifying, although we prefer to check most of our enthusiasm until we can see construction actually begun.

Mayor Roy Smith's position is equally clear. Actually, we have had no quarrel with the Mayor, urging only that he redouble his efforts to secure some affirmative reply on the proposed postoffice. His interest in the matter from his acceptance is deserving of sincere appreciation.

The communication from Floyd Kellam, chairman of the county Democratic committee, is equally clear. We are entirely willing to believe that his position is as stated, and we thank him for his interest.

However, enthusiastic as we may be because of the news that the postoffice project will be completed, we are quite unwilling to accept Mr. Darden's use that we have been unfair in our comments. We have asked for an expression on the matter from those who represent us politically—as we see it, their constituents were entitled to such expression—and insinuations of other than good faith on their parts derive from minds other than our own. They have answered, and we are content with their replies.

Nor would we pursue further the gossip of opposition to the new building. As we have stated repeatedly, our information relative to opposition came from unauthorized sources, though the story of such attempt to frustrate the will of the people has traveled from end to end of this county, a matter of common comment. If we have given space to purest rumor, which we are willing to believe in spite of not wholly unfounded reports to the contrary, our apologies are extended to those who merit them. This newspaper is concerned only with the truth, and it is our desire to injure no man or reflect upon his motives unjustly or maliciously. Too much of that sort of action has been taken in this county by individuals.

If Mr. Darden will be so good as to keep in touch with this newspaper, we shall be more than happy to accord him due recognition of his efforts in behalf of the residents of Virginia Beach. We are concerned only with the securing of the postoffice allotted to this community under a Federal appropriation, and opposition or no opposition, we are determined to pursue our action in its attainment to the very end. To do less would be to break faith with the residents of Virginia Beach.

THE CHILDREN'S CHRISTMAS PARTY

Two thousand years ago, in a manger in Bethlehem, there was born unto Mary and Joseph a son whose life was to change the course of the civilized world, bringing a pledge of hope out of a long night of despair, a promise of peace into a world filled with strife and suffering. Humanity was the field of his labors, and the lesson he taught was one of love and consideration for one's fellows.

Today, as we plan our celebrations for the birthday of the Christ, our thoughts turn back to that lowly scene and we visualize again the picture of poverty which first greeted his eyes. And, as we contemplate that scene, we realize that a similar condition of poverty and want exists in a modern world which has not yet learned the full meaning of his life and the doctrine which he espoused in the years devoted to the uplifting of mankind. Children are still born in a condition of squalor and wretchedness, reared in an element of poverty and turned loose in the world, inhibited and maladjusted, poorly equipped to face the struggle for existence.

Society is still far from a realization of the ideal of living. The children of the poor, isolated from the comfort and the joys of their more fortunate brothers, look upon the scene of our festivities as through a glass window, unable to appreciate our happiness because of the maladjustments which hunger, of the mind and spirit, has placed in their way. One cannot laugh "when the stomach is empty, nor can one understand the pleasures of childhood when the simple joys of imaginative existence are denied.

Thinking along such lines, we would make a spirited plea for the whole-hearted cooperation of all residents of the county in the staging of the Christmas Party planned by the Woman's Club, as individuals, as a club, as a school and as a congregation we hold the power of bringing a great measure of joy and happiness into the lives of one or more unfortunate, simply through the expenditure of some little time and effort, and, perhaps, a few dollars, in the selecting of a few useful gifts for those who will know no Christmas unless we respond to the full extent of our ability.

In past months, it is true, we have been called upon time after time to meet some emergency in the name of charity. Many of us have given liberally of our slender means, contributing to each cause which bore the stamp of merit. Perhaps we can ill afford to do more, but we cannot permit this year to come to a close without some little gesture toward the unfortunate children of our community. Our offering may be small but if it comes from the heart it is certain to bless with equal fervor those who give and those who receive, making the spirit of Christmas more apparent to us all as we seek, with the giving of well-being such as can come from no other charitable act. There is a simple beauty in the gratitude of children which will more than repay us for the tiny sacrifice we may make in their behalf.

The greatest need of the poor at this season is warm clothing. Suitable garments for school use will do much to raise the morale of the students, not to mention the elimination of sickness possibilities and the bringing of greater physical comfort. Never in the history of modern living has there been a more urgent need for adequate clothing on such a wide scale, and the giving of suitable garments, whether new or second hand, should be our first consideration.

Then, with the proper garments selected, let us remember that Christmas is a time of impracticability. The childish spirit delights in a bit of candy, in a non-utilitarian toy or two, and the receiving of such is enough to send any youngster into a paroxysm of rapturous delight. Tucked away in the playroom or in the attic are many toys which our children have long discarded. They may not be new and the glow of their first finish may be gone, but the child unaccustomed to such playthings will find them wholly to his liking, a means of willing away many hours that otherwise will be filled with gloomy forebodings of the sort that poverty and its attendant evils alone can provoke.

To those who wish to insure a really happy Christmas for some child or family, we would suggest the giving of a basket of food, the ingredients for a tasty and balanced meal such as few who feel the pinch of want will eat on the coming Yule unless it is provided by an outside source. Our own meal will taste the better because of our realization that we are bringing solid physical comfort to some one considerably less fortunate than ourselves.

This is the first time that a community Christmas Party has been attempted in Princess Anne county. It is certain to be successful because of the spirited planning now being engaged in by Mrs. Herbert and her efficient associates, but its success can be materially increased by the further cooperation of each man and woman in the county able to assist in such a worthy cause. The more received from outside contributions, the more gala will be the celebration and the happier the children who are privileged to participate in it.

We should like to see the classrooms of the county schools, the individual associations, lodges, clubs and church groups take the steps needed for active cooperation, each unit promising to clothe one or more child, to insure a toy or two for his Christmas and to provide the food necessary to give him that satisfied feeling which can only come from a good dinner. The cost for such would not be great, but the happiness resulting therefrom will be more than ample repayment for the effort expended.

Christmas is a time of sharing, a season when the whole world is kin and peace is the dominant note. The season, for both pagan and Christian, is one of happiness and pleasure, but such ideals cannot be achieved where the spectre of poverty and hunger lurks upon the doorstep. It is a time, particularly, when children are sent against the wall of a few unfortunate, robbed by a cruel chance of their rightful due is not a pretty picture. Yet, unless the citizens of this county are prepared to assume a small burden of sympathetic assistance, the season will be a black one for many children now residing in homes where laughter long since has fled because of economic distress.

The world today is in need of a return to the ideal of the Christ. The true meaning of the Christmas season has been lost to many of us, and only the commercial aspects have any significance. We know of no finer way in which to evoke the return of meaning than by the stretching forth of a helping hand to those who need material assistance.

We bespeak the cooperation of all in this worthy effort. Each little gift will be of value in brightening the life of some youngster and nothing will be so insignificant as to escape appreciation. It is our belief that the citizens of this community will not be found lacking in a duty which, if cheerfully borne, will result in an outpouring of great good.

"God bless us all," cried Tiny Tim, and so will all of us cry when our gesture of helpfulness has been made.

TWO DAWNS

Down on these hills . . . and the autumn colors dying Relentlessly
And, like pale stars, the last leaves falling, flying
From every tree—
And an echo, out of the southward sky, of the gray birds' crying!
Summer is long since dead, and winter is sweeping
In on the tide
Gathering all to itself for silent keeping Where snows abide . . .
Cool in a chrysalis of white, the world will soon be sleeping.

Down on these hills . . . and April's youth defying Perilously
The stark old earth—and the dreams of April lying Over the eaves—
And an echo, out of the northward sky, of the gray birds' crying.

There shall be other dawns—and Dusk of wonder
Of death and birth—that ever have dared to sunder Beauty which knew Once on a time the autumn's tremulous flame and the sea's spring thunder!

BUYING CHRISTMAS TOYS

Christmas is just around the corner, and children throughout the land are waiting for the happy day with eager anticipation.

But the children of America are no more concerned about what Santa Claus will stuff in their stockings and leave beneath the family tree than are the toy-makers of America, who have built up an industry with an output estimated at about $200,000,000 annually.

The greatest sales of toys, naturally, is at Christmas time, when mother and father, grandparents, uncles, aunts and others imbued with spirit of Christmas-giving find joy for themselves in buying toys for the kids. The toy-makers recently staged a pre-view of current fashions, and it was evident that those who designed toys for the young, ever ready to capitalize upon the sentimentality of the masses who make the purchases, have sensed that there is a growing opposition against war and its implements of death and a greater respect for law and order, as evidenced in popular admiration for the exploits of government agents who fearlessly run to earth criminals and kidnappers of the Hauptmann and Dillinger type. There are fewer toy soldiers, tanks, and cannon; more policemen. To notice such change in public attitude in support of outlawry of war and crime, for the manufacturers of toys to have built a $200,000,000 business must be keen in sensing the thoughts of the adults of a nation, to us is a hopeful sign that real progress is being made in this direction.

It will not be long before the products of the toy manufacturers will be in the closets and attics of homes all over the Roanoke-Chowan section wherever there are children, placed there by fond parents and waiting to be arranged on the night before Christmas where they will bring bright-eyed delight and happy excitement to childish hearts on Christmas morning. The following comments from the Christian Science Monitor under the title "Toyland—Views and Previews" upon the world of toys are worthy of consideration by all who anticipate Santa Claus shopping:

"In one respect there is a noteworthy change in adult provision for juvenile pleasure, as previewed by the manufacturers, in that toy soldiers and military equipment are far less in evidence than they used to be. The thoughtful manufacturer senses a decreased demand for playroom armament. In some instances, it appears, he thinks there will be a market for juvenile G-men outfits, rather overlooking that, admirable as the activities of the G-men are, theirs essentially is not a childish game, even the alphabet block on which S used to stand for Soldier shows S standing for Scout.

"Such an exhibition is interesting as showing the growth of a modern industry and what the toy-makers think that adults will think that children will think desirable to play with. A reporter remarks that the manufacturer has taken more thought than ever to provide for the toy-loving parent. In other words, the trend is to do away with make-believe and substitute realism cannot go farther.

"Realism in toys undoubtedly appeals to adults, but these, say the critics, have lost and no longer remember the joy of make-believe. The secret of make-believe is that it needs only the simplest materials. But if the toy-makers tried to produce on this theory, what would become of a $200,000,000 industry? And what would be the state of mind of the toy buyer conscientiously trying to find just the thing that the child would most enjoy imagining to be something else?" — Jackson (N. C.) News.

THE DAMNED PROFIT MOTIVE

A Federal grand jury indictment against a grain and feed company and others in this city for conspiracy to violate the internal revenue laws, comes as no surprise to people in this city and section. It is a notorious fact that not only the defendant feed company, but other wholesale feed and grain dealers in Elizabeth City have been working hand in glove with moonshine distillers for many years. They succeeded so well in flouting the old Prohibition laws that they failed to note in the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment the restoration of internal revenue laws that had teeth in them.

When liquor was illegal and untaxable, Uncle Sam was lax in liquor law enforcement. But when liquor was again legalized and meant money for the Treasury, the manufacture of moonshine whiskey became tantamount to defrauding the Treasury. Uncle Sam is jealous of his Treasury.

If it should go hard with the grain and feed company in the Federal courts the only regret should be that this company is made the scapegoat for a tribe of similar offenders. The defendants at law are victims of a profit motive in human behavior that is debasing to human character and threatens the destruction of civilization itself.

The profit motive is one of the most degrading influences in life: it eats like a cancer at those basic virtues of honesty, integrity and sincerity; it warps men's judgments; it reduces church members to the low estate of liars, cheats and hypocrites; it translates the Golden Rule to read, "Do the other fellow because some one else will prey upon him if you don't." It closes its eyes to the beauties of the gospels of the New Testament and feeds upon the sand of debauching another man's wife or selling diseased meat to a stranger. It robs widows and orphans and the feeble of mind. It is the sire of short weaves, adulterated foods and faulty workmanship. It is the God of Wall Street, the Hearst newspapers and the Liberty League.

Right now and right here in America this damnable profit motive is trampling upon the bleeding heart of the world and inviting another World War. Dealers in oil, cotton, copper, scrap iron, rubber and food stuffs who are rushing supplies to Italy in defiance of the sentiment of fifty other nations, and of the will of Washington, may any day precipitate a crisis that would surely involve America in another World War with all of its consequent bloodshed and grief. But what do those actuated by the Profit Motive care for the prayers of motherhood, the preservation of the home and the blood of its country's youth! Their only concern is for profits. Profits and more PROFITS. For an immediate gain of profits they would crucify humanity, even as they have crucified every god that ever warned them of their sins or lifted a voice in behalf of their victims.

Feed companies and other firms in this city who have stooped to the low business of aking and abetting the manufacture of illicit hooch are victims of a base motive that has been made highly respectable in America because it is subscribed to by great leaders of finance and industry, who are at the same time leaders in our churches, fraternal and civic organizations. This motive prostitutes the press and the radio, and insinuates itself into the pulpit. It is the curse of humanity, the most destructive force in civilization, and, if not arrested, will ultimately bring humanity to penury and grief.—Elizabeth City Independent.

DICTATORSHIP AND REVOLUTION

Fortune Magazine, in a rather alarming article, sets forth its fear of a dictatorship in America arising from "personal government." Opinions for and against this theory will be largely colored by the political or economic bias of observers. But it is interesting to set alongside of "Fortune's" assumption an article appearing simultaneously in the weekly "Today." The editor is Raymond Moley, a former New Dealer, the writer, James E. Abbe, is a newspaper man whose business, he says, is "covering revolutions." He studied them in Russia, Italy, Germany and other countries, and then came home to see what was going on here.

"It's two years now," he says, "that I have been hunting for the makings of revolution in my native land. I can't find them. I don't believe they exist."

He says he has gone all over the country, circulating among all classes of people, and has found hardship, bafflement and discontent but no revolution. Attending press conferences in the White House, he has found the newspaper men not overawed by the President, and no appearance of the President trying to overawe anybody—in short, Chief Executive acting like an elected representative. From such a conference he went out and marched in a Communist parade, getting acquainted with the Reds, and found in them none of the fiery zeal and confidence he had found in revolutionary bodies abroad. He concludes:

"If we had all the troubles post-war Germany had (which we haven't), and were we Germans (which we're not), and we let things go from bad to worse (which we won't), it would be years before we had a revolution providing enough of us wanted it (which we don't).—Portsmouth Star.

In general, there are two types of Republicans. One wonders where the country is going to, and the other is concerned over whether Ham Fish will be a presidential candidate. —Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Governor Sholtz, of Florida, announces that he too has balanced the State budget. Unfortunately, he belongs to the wrong party.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

JOHNANKE-NEWBORN

Mr. and Mrs. Levy E. Newborn, of Oceana, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Louise Ellen Newborn, to Richard Nugent Johnnakin, of Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Johnnakin, of Norfolk.

The ceremony was performed Monday, December 2, at 4 p. m. by Rev. W. H. T. Squires at his home in Riverview, Norfolk, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends.

The bride, who was unattended, was attired in a brown tulle suit trimmed with racoon, with hat and accessories of brown. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Preston Johnnakin of Norfolk.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Johnnakin left for a wedding trip and upon their return will reside at 1901 N Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

The bride has a wide circle of friends here, having been associated with Anne's Kimono Shop for the past seven years.

Mr. Johnnakin is an assistant auditor in the Bureau of Public Accounts office in Washington.

Dance

One of the most attractive dances of the season was held last week at the Cavalier Country Club when more than 30 couples came in masquerade and happily danced the hours away in the make-believe world of being someone else. Prizes given by the management were won by Miss Agnes Corprew, who dressed in 18th Century costume, wore a handsome gown of moire and old lace, the tiny waistline and bustle, seen by this generation only in rare paintings. A. F. Homer, of New York, guest at the Cavalier Hotel, presented a more modern picture, in the role of the Cavalier Chef, won second prize. Other attractive costumes were Mrs. Margaret Groner, as a Russian Princess, Miss Grace Tritton as a Gypsy, Mrs. Charles Schuford as Evening Star, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Caulfield in a "Brother and Sister" costume, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Plain in Spanish costumes, Mrs. Constance Moore a little girl in Blue, Miss Roberta Christian made a most charming maid, while Mrs. Louis Fisher came as a Dutch girl. Miss Mina Duschung was lovely in a Chinese costume, and many other costumes ranging from pixies to pinafors—points East and West. Lou Fisher, as Graucho Marx, Lieut. A. J. Benz as a Russian, and Lieut. Smiley as a Spaniard were very good. This dance marked the official beginning of the winter dances at the Cavalier Club, where there will be dancing every Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Feature Dances, with prizes, will be announced later by the manager.

House Party

The Tri-K Sorority of the College of William and Mary, Norfolk Division, entertained at a house party over the weekend at Ocean Terrace Cottage. A banquet was served Saturday evening to 26 guests. The Sorority colors, green and white, were used in table decorations and refreshments. Attractive favors and place cards bearing the Tri-K emblem added much to the beauty of the dinner. A dance at the Cavalier Country Club followed. Miss Kathleen Peek, president of the Sorority presided, and other guests included: Misses Rose Davis, Phyllis Hornsby, Ruth Herforth, Lucy Arnold, Marcha Holloway, Selma R. Hart, Sara Sampson, Jean Schoppe, Joyce Coleman Dail, Jene Nichols, Dixie Whitehurst, Margaret Wood, Frederica Scherberger, Mary Bright, and Laura Lee Forman.

Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Garrison celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary on Thanksgiving Day at their home on Sixteenth Street. The hours for calling were from four to eleven in the evening and about 120 guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrison were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

associations" which are entirely supported by the sale of Christmas seals.

With such effective work being done by the local tuberculosis associations, the general public is urged to buy as many Christmas seals as can be afforded. Tuberculosis cases have increased here in Princess Anne county in recent years, Mrs. Rufus Parks, county chairman, has reported, and the need for additional funds to combat the disease is apparent to all familiar with local conditions.

Many thousands of seals were distributed throughout the county last weekend and the first report of acceptances will be available through these columns one week from today. All who receive the seals are urged to keep their full quota and to make their returns as promptly as possible. The local goal has been set at $616, a considerable increase over the amount collected last year, and each worker is redoubling his efforts to insure the success of this season's campaign.

As an instance of the type of work now being done in Princess Anne by the tuberculosis association, Mrs. Parks has submitted the following case study of but one of the many patients treated here.

"Two years ago," she said, "there was a young woman in the county who found that she had tuberculosis of the lungs. She had no immediate family and her relatives were unable to contribute anything towards her support. The case was brought to our attention, and the Princess Anne Tuberculosis Association bought her the necessary clothing and sent her to the Blue Ridge Sanitarium."

"She was a bed patient for a year. Then, as her improvement continued, she was allowed to be up for half a day. Last summer, her doctor wrote us that her tonsils needed removing as she wasn't continuing to increase in weight, and asked for funds for this operation. This money was sent him at once."

"Now she has improved so much that she has entered training to be a nurse at the sanitarium, where her health will be under constant supervision. She is very happy in the fact that she is earning her own living. This is but one of the many gratifying results of the work done by the County Tuberculosis Fund."

To continue such work, purchase your Christmas seals early.

 From Princess Anne county came $25,706.30 in current and delinquent taxes; $2,720.52 allocations of school funds; $100.35 from dog taxes, and $65.27 for mosquito control work. The Commonwealth of Virginia contributed $604.30 in gas tax refunds; $66.63 from bottle beverage control funds, and $33.12 from motor vehicle taxes.
 Uncollected taxes, as of August 31, including accrued penalties, total $122,357.66. Of this amount, $63,000.41 is in the offices of the county treasurer and clerk of courts. Most of this money, of course, will be collected in future years as the delinquent properties are sold.
 Departmental expenses, capital outlays, temporary loans and bond interest coupons paid account for the majority of the funds disbursed. Departmental expenses totalled $68,006.62; capital outlays, $13,623.20; temporary loans paid, $40,000.00, and interest on bonds, $39,251.78.

 outlay for the coming year will be largely consumed by the above improvements. Council voiced the hope that further street and curbing construction can be put aside until late in 1936. Holly Road, however, will be repaired, council requesting that residents of the district appear at the next meeting and present their views on the type of repairs desired.
 Council also voted to purchase a road machine at a cost of $1400 and a one-ton truck for use by the water department, the cost not to exceed $570. In addition, a new automobile and motorcycle will be purchased during the spring to replace outworn equipment now in use by the police department.

 Concerning the Virginia production of milk, the Board points out that the deficiencies in supply of processed milk, butter and cheese would more than absorb any apparent excesses of liquid milk now available.
 "The problem here is one of distribution and manufacture of this important agricultural product and its sub-products," the Board comments, "and the question arises as to whether Virginia should take steps towards creating suitable facilities for processing the milk or transforming it into butter and cheese, or be prepared to abandon possible use of its land for dairy farm purposes, leaving the market in the manufactured milk products to other states."

ELECTRICAL GIFTS MAKE CHRISTMAS Merrier!

CHRISTMAS comes but once a year, but those fortunate folk to whom you give electrical gifts will think gratefully of you, the year 'round!

Electrical gifts successfully combine beauty with utility, luxury with practicality, and sense with sentiment—and your dealer has dozens of happy answers to your Christmas gift problems.

The Electric percolator, waffle iron, or toaster, for instance, that makes such a nice appearance under the Christmas tree will make an even more welcome appearance on the breakfast table all the days after.

The new Electric vacuum cleaner that will clean up the scattered mica snowflakes when the Christmas scene is cleared, will do more prosaic work later . . . but what a welcome help it will be! The gift lamp that casts its rosy glow over shining Christmas faces will provide better light for better sight when it's time to get back to studies, to books, to bridge!

They are only a few of the Electrical gifts that will make Christmas merrier!

Business Trends From Important Cities Indicate Upturn in Trading.

"Business trends as reflected by reports to the Department of Commerce from more than 30 important cities indicate that the depression is over," Secretary Roper said at his weekly press conference in connection with the statement that holiday business "will far exceed that of last year and may be the best year since 1920." He attributed the improved conditions in retail trade to increased farm income, employment gains, higher payrolls, expanded credit sales and freer consumer spending.

Referring to the estimate recently made by the National Retail Dry Goods Association that the Christmas volume of trade will reach $4,500,000,000 and result in the employment of 500,000 extra sales people during the holidays, he proceeded to report on trends in several individual cities. Gains are running from 5% to 30% ahead of last year, depending of course upon the city and the community. Leading New York department stores expect a gain of at least 5% over last year. In Minneapolis holiday trade is running ahead of expectations. Atlanta reported the need of 1,000 additional postal clerks to handle the rush, the figure being larger than 1920. Official opening of the holiday season in Chicago was moved up a week earlier and the opening day was reported the best in recent years. Dallas and Houston reported trade 10% to 30% better than last year. Memphis ushered in the season with a street parade witnessed by 100,000 and 10% to 20% better business is expected. Early buying was also reported by Kansas City, St. Louis and other areas. In some sections, unseasonable weather continued to have a depressing effect, but in most instances volume was substantially ahead of last year. Last week, department store sales in Pittsburgh were 22.5% ahead of the 1924 week; 18% ahead in Detroit; 10% in Los Angeles and moderate gains elsewhere.

Reports also indicated that private business and industry were vying with WPA for labor. Job placements were especially heavy in industrial centers where there has been a considerable upswing of activity among the durable goods groups. An illustration of the widespread absorption of employables was noted in Cleveland where factory payrolls for the year are estimated at $148,840,000, an increase of $17,000,000 over 1934. In Detroit, 3,900 families are dependent on relief rolls in the week and the relief total was only 43% of the same period last year. Other Michigan industrial cities showed peak employment. Increased placements in Pittsburgh were attributed to increasing demands on the steel industry. Laborers long idle were being absorbed in the building trades in Georgia. Andover, Mass., reported employment in textile and rubber plants had reached such a high point that few workers are available for WPA projects. Payrolls in Worcester, Mass., in the first ten months of the year were 39% greater than for the same period last year. In Maine, a decided improvement was reported in employment in the textile and paper mills and railroad repair shops.

Miss Rosa Batten Accident Victim

Miss Rosa Batten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Batten, of Maple Run, is seriously ill in the Jefferson Hospital, in Roanoke, as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident in Roanoke last Wednesday night. Miss Batten, who graduated from Oceana High School last spring, is a freshman student at the Harrisonburg State Teachers College. Accompanied by several other students, Miss Batten had gone to Roanoke for the V. M. I.-V. P. I. game on Thanksgiving, and the accident occurred after completion of the trip. While riding about the outskirts of Roanoke, a wheel came off the car, overturning the vehicle and throwing Miss Batten to the road. Investigation disclosed that her pelvis bone had been broken.

Miss Batten will remain in the hospital for at least two weeks, it is not expected that she will be able to walk for at least another six weeks.

Court House Group Features Exhibits

The November meeting of the Court House School Junior League was held last Wednesday afternoon, with Cleon Harrell, president of the organization, presiding. During the business session, favorable reports were given by the committee chairmen, and substantial sums were collected for the Junior Red Cross and the Tuberculosis fund.

Leisure time exhibits were featured. From second grade, Floyd Lowry showed a log house made from corn stalks. Laura Mae Goodwin showed a braided doll rug. Billy Harrell had a bird house made to represent a log cabin. David Goodwin, from fourth grade, showed a log house, and Frances Peele, a seventh grade student, exhibited a crocheted collar.

The fifth and sixth grades were in charge of the program. Two interesting plays, The Postmaster's Dream and The Story of the Mails were presented.

Theater Previews

The enchantment of the South Seas lends glamour to the romantic episodes in "Mutiny on the Bounty," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's tremendous sea drama currently playing at the Bayne Theatre, with Charles Laughton, Clark Gable and Franchot Tone heading a cast which includes hundreds of natives. The picture, a true story of the voyage of H. M. S. Bounty 150 years ago, on a scientific expedition to the South Sea, will be shown today and tomorrow, December 6 and 7.

In the tenderest, most eloquent love story the screen has ever presented, Fox's picturization of "Way Down East," comes Sunday and Monday, December 8 and 9 to the Bayne Theatre, Rochelle Hudson and Henry Fonda share starring honors. "Way Down East," is the story of a girl who, after tasting the bitter fruits of betrayal, tries to fight her way back into society against malicious gossip, bribery and deceit.

Tuesday, December 10, the Bayne Theatre presents "Personal Maid's Secret," A Warner Bros. comedy hit with Margaret Lindsay, Warren Hull and Anita Louise in the leading roles. The picture is based on a story by Lillian Day, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. It is a rare and novel tale of a struggling New York family, ambitious to get ahead, but lacking the proper contacts.

FISHING DECLINE CITED IN REPORT

Diminishing Oyster and Fish Supply Adds to Local Employment Problem.

How the decline in the supply of fish and shell fish in Virginia waters has added to Virginia's employment problem is graphically depicted in the fisheries report of the Virginia State Planning Board, which will shortly go to Governor George C. Peery. The report shows that due to the closing of oyster rocks due to pollution, the over-cropping of oysters and other abuses, men employed in catching oysters have declined from a high in 1907 of 15,326 to 3,344 in 1933, the last available report. The men who were employed in the industry also have decreased from 7,613 to 1,672 for the same comparative period.

The loss to the Hampton Roads area from decreased employment and the lessened purchase of materials and supplies in the local market on the basis of the decrease in the production of market oysters due to sewage pollution alone has been estimated to be about $70,000 annually," the report states. "Whether or not this estimated annual loss of over half a million dollars is representative of the actual losses is doubtful in the absence of sufficient data on the changes in oyster production during the period of increasing sewage pollution, but it is believed that the losses to the oyster industry and to the Hampton Roads area in general have been appreciable and will tend to increase with the continued discharge of untreated sewage into Hampton Roads."

Vessels employed in fishing have decreased since 1920 from 170 to 134, and tonnage from 6,222 to 3,819. Motor boats in use in fishing in 1920 numbered 8880. The number in use in 1932 was 8,232. The number of men engaged in commercial fisheries, including oystering, totaled 10,386 in 1920, compared with 12,129 at the present time, but of the latter figures 4,227 were in part-time employ.

"It is said by woodmen that the largest immediate cash returns are obtained by the most destructive methods of lumbering. Somewhat the same principle holds true in commercial fishing," the board comments in condemning this system as bad.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks puny, don't swallow a lot of salts, mince, laxatives, or other drugs that make you sweat and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out is that your liver is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. The bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. The bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two points of bile flowing freely and get the cause of your down-and-out. They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, assuring you it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. See at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Out-of-Town RATES

make your TELEPHONE more useful than ever

More than a million out-of-town calls a year in Virginia are affected by the new low rates that began December first.

Approximately 4,400 rates between points up to 64 miles apart are affected by the change. These rates are now based on airline distance. Thus, although your voice may actually travel by wire, say 40 miles, you are now charged for only 30 miles if that is the actual distance "as the crow flies." This will save Virginia's telephone users more than $100,000 annually. Rates between points more than 64 miles apart were already measured by airline distance.

Take advantage of these new low rates to visit friends and relatives and to keep in more frequent contact with business associates.

In Days Gone By

Ten Years Ago With The Virginia Beach
News

During the past week 992 has been distributed by H. W. Ozlin, County Agent, to six boys and girls in Princess Anne as a reward for their efforts in club work by showing their pigs and corn at the State and Petersburg fairs.

If Virginia Beach has life guards patrolling the beach during the season when thousands of people are bathing, they will be furnished from some other source than that of U. S. Coast Guard.

Walter C. Maher, president of the Virginia Beach Improvement League, is in receipt of a letter from Congressman J. T. Deal saying that he has been advised by Admiral F. C. Bullard, Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, that it is impossible to respond to the request made in a petition forwarded to him asking that the Coast Guard on duty at Virginia Beach act as life guards during the summer months.

November 28, 1875, a wedding of much interest to the residents of Princess Anne County took place. Margaret Anne James, of Sigma, was married to Sylvanwood Floyd Garrison, of Pleasant Ridge. Half a century ago this would appear in the county paper had there been such a thing. On November 28, 1925, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Garrison, who reside on 16th Street, at Virginia Beach, will celebrate their fiftieth Anniversary with a Golden Wedding. Fifty years of married life has failed to tarnish the beauty of life that started in this county some seventy odd years ago for Mr. and Mrs. Garrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maher are moving from their home in Sea Pines to Norfolk, where they will spend the winter.

Mrs. H. B. Grown, sister of Mrs. E. R. Dyer, has returned to South America to join her husband, who is an army officer stationed there. Mrs. Grown has been visiting her sister here for several months.

Dr. H. F. Dornire has recently been appointed surgeon for the Norfolk Southern Railroad, and is also examining physician for the Aetna Life Insurance Company in this district.

A sure indication of prosperity and progressiveness in this community is shown by C. W. Kornegay, owner and manager of the Ford agency, who started a large and modern new home for his business enterprise on 17th Street, just west of Holly Avenue.

Much interest is taken locally with reference to the sale of the Rifle Range by the State Military Board scheduled to be held in the office of the Governor next Monday.

It was to have been considered last Saturday but the failure of the Board to attend made it necessary for meeting next Monday. It is understood that several prospective purchasers from Virginia Beach will make bids for it.

Between three and four thousand Knights of Pythias of Tidewater Virginia will invade Virginia Beach on January 18th at which time an all day session of the order will be held. Five hundred candidates are expected to be given the first degree with a general social event following the business meeting, provided the use of one of the casinos can be obtained.

A LESSON IN ORCHESTRA LEADING

THE candid camera here has caught Red Nichols, well known orchestra leader heard on the Kollage College Prom on Friday, demonstrating the proper stance in directing a large dance orchestra. Red, whose baton is the common schoolroom variety of lead pencil, proves here that with a baton every little movement has a meaning of its own. The redheaded maestro ought to be familiar with the baton and what can be done with it, since, although only thirty years of age he has been leading orchestras from the time he was in knee breeches.

HEART THROBS FROM VIRGINIA'S FARM REHABILITATION CLIENTS

"Now I'm A-Walkin'!"

"When you found me I was a-crawlin'—now I'm a-walkin'!" Thus did a 56-year-old Louisiana County, Virginia, farmer express his gratitude for aid of the Re-settlement Administration, through which he was able to make a crop this year and stay off of relief. He was one of a number of typical rehabilitation cases reported recently by county resettlement supervisors in Virginia. The supervisors operate under H. H. Gordon, of Richmond, state rural resettlement director.

This farmer was supporting his wife, two children and three grandchildren on a farm of 57 acres, of which 18 acres were in cultivation. He was approved for rehabilitation "in place" and provided with livestock, seed and fertilizer. His attitude, as indicated above, was hopeful and the resettlement supervisor reported he would "pay out."

Nothing But Bare Hands
An even more touching example turned up in the reports of the county supervisors in Virginia was that of a 55-year-old negro farmer of Richmond county, trying to make a living for his wife and six children on a small, rented farm. "If it had not been for the government, me and my family would have starved," this colored man told the supervisor. A careful study, the supervisor reported, showed the client should be entirely self-supporting by 1936. The negro was destitute when he moved to the farm on which he was being helped, and, as stated in his report, he had nothing but his "bare hands" with which to work. Working hard and following advice of the supervisors, he was able to lay in an abundance of food and fuel for winter, buy school books for the children and make a substantial payment on his loan.

Asked what he would have done if the government had not come to his help, a 25-year-old negro farmer of Dinwiddie county, Virginia, with a wife and six children, replied:

"Anything but steal to get off of relief." This hard-working colored man was located on a farm of 370 acres, of which eleven and one-quarter acres were in cultivation. He obtained his mule from the government in June, and in spite of the late start made a good showing and paid a substantial sum on his loan. He told the supervisor he applied for rehabilitation "to get a mule so he could make his own living."

Example of Grit
Then there's the case of a one-armed farmer, 49 years old, with a wife and seven children, in New Kent county.

"He is willing to work at anything he can get," the supervisor reported. "He lost an arm several years ago but did not let this make a beggar of him. He does almost as much work with the one arm as many men do with both."

With one mule this man farmed this year five acres of corn, five acres of sweet potatoes, five acres of watermelons, two acres of cabbages, four acres of hay, one acre of Irish potatoes and a one-acre garden.

And that's not all. His wife does three washings a week besides caring for seven children and the house. There's a real case of "grit."

Here are a few reports of clients' accomplishments: Dinwiddie County farmer, with wife and nine children: "Has paid $265 on loan and has tobacco and cotton on hand to pay balance in full. His wife canned and stored more vegetables and fruits than any client in the county."

Sixty-year-old widow, Halifax county: "Young son is managing farm but this woman has gone into the field with a plow when there was more than the boy could do."

Forty-year-old Halifax County farmer, with wife and ten children: "Produced excellent crop, has enough feed for livestock and food for family for coming winter. Canned 550 quarts. Grew four acres of tobacco for cash crop of $800. He believes the rehabilitation program will put him on top."

King William County farmer, with wife and four children: "He struggled along for year with two old army horses barely able to work. Land was poor. But all times he and his wife worked side by side in the fields, always cheerful and hopeful. They were always grateful for advice and help."

POSTOFFICE IS SAID ASSURED

"The articles are inaccurate and unfair. Had the trouble been taken to secure the facts, which would have been supplied by either the Post Office Department or by my office here in Norfolk, there would have been no occasion for the ugly insinuations.

"The new Post Office building proposed for Virginia Beach came as the result of the survey conducted by the Post Office Department. Having determined to erect the building the question of location was next given consideration. After a careful study of the territory, the postal officials decided upon a plot of land already owned by the Treasury Department and with this in view they set about to acquire it. These negotiations are still in progress.

"There has been no effort on the part of any of the citizens of Virginia Beach or of Princess Anne County to interfere in any way with the erection of the new building. As a matter of fact, there has been widespread interest and support for the project.

"Your mayor, Mr. Roy Smith, has been active and of great help in the attempts to bring the matter to a successful conclusion. He has kept in constant touch with me from the beginning. Several weeks ago at his request I attended a meeting held in his office at which were present a number of prominent citizens who were interested in the new building.

"Mr. Floyd Kellam, who is also referred to, was present at this meeting and both before and since he has interested himself in the proposal and has offered to do whatever he could to forward it.

"Not only is this the case, but the owners of the present Post Office building advised me at the outset that, notwithstanding their own interest in the situation, they wanted to take no steps which might in any way interfere with the town securing a new Post Office building.

"So far as I know everything that can be done is being done to have work started at the first possible moment.

"Those of Virginia Beach and the County who have interested themselves in this work deserve better treatment than they have received at the hands of their local paper. In view of the publicity

Mr. Smith, who has been active in behalf of the project since first publication of the new building's plans, arranged the conference with Mr. Darden and brought back word of the progress made to date. The Mayor expressed the conviction that plans would go through without further delay, adding that his wholehearted support was behind the new building project.

Floyd Kellam, chairman of the county Democratic committee, in another communication, expressed his interest in the building and pledged his support to the local community in securing it. The text of his letter follows:

Kellam's Statement

"I saw editorial appearing in your paper of last week, with reference to appropriation for new Post Office at Virginia Beach and agree with you that it is very important to the Town of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County that the appropriation for Post Office be secured for the Town, and I am greatly interested in the same.

"I appeared with a delegation of citizens of the Town of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, in the office of Mayor Roy Smith, quite a while ago, at which time Honorable Colgate Darden, Congressman from this District, was present and in which all advocated very strongly the new Post Office project, and Mr. Darden assured us he would do everything possible to aid in the matter.

"I am ready to assist and co-operate with Mr. Darden, the Town Officials and the people of the County to aid in every way possible to secure the new Post Office."

obtained last year.

The work of the Red Cross in the county has increased materially during the past years of depression, and the increased subscription this season will go far towards continuance of that work, both here and elsewhere. The generous response of the public is most gratifying, indicating a developing tendency on the part of those who have to share with those who are unable to pay their own way.

ance and support. In the event the subscriber remains in the hospital longer than the 21 days paid for, a reduction of 25 per cent is allowed on subsequent bills.

Up to the present time, the Bayville Farms is the only Princess Anne county concern to become affiliated with the association. All business or professional groups in the county with five or more employees or members are qualified to become contract holders.

The association has recently received the unqualified endorsement of the Norfolk County Medical Association and more than 60 per cent of its members have already been admitted as subscribers. The participating hospitals are the Protestant, St. Vincent's, Memorial and Sarah Leigh, of Norfolk, and the Parrish Memorial and King's Daughters, of Portsmouth.

Under the plan, no maximum or minimum age limit is specified with the privilege of enrolling extended to any employed person, providing 60 per cent of his fellow workers become subscribers. Employees who lose their positions for one reason or another and continue their payments during the term of the contract remain beneficiaries of the association.

SEWING PROJECT IS APPROVED BY COUNTY; FEDERAL SHARE IS $13000

Board Appropriates $400 For Work; Building Plans Are Discussed.

SANITARY PROJECT GETS STARTED DURING WEEK

Government Will Buy All Supplies for Construction Of New Offices.

Voting to appropriate $400 for the use of additional sewing rooms to be established in the county under WPA supervision, the board of supervisors, at a special meeting called last weekend, rescinded its former action of non-participation in this project and approved the plan of operation drawn up by the local office of the Works Progress Administration. A Federal grant of $13,000 will supplement the funds pledged by the county.

At the present time, only one sewing room, for colored women, is in operation, the Seaside project having been established earlier in the fall. With the funds now available, additional work rooms for white and colored women will be opened, probably at New Light, Davis' Corner, and, possibly, in Oceana. Materials and supplies will be furnished by the government for the making of clothing for the indigent families residing in the county, and the women engaged on the project will be paid a monthly wage of $18.90, the same as that paid to unskilled labor on other WPA jobs.

Government to Buy Supplies

The board also agreed that the supplies needed for the construction of the addition to the present clerk's office will be handled by the Federal government's purchasing office, through which will be bought the government's quota of building materials. It was pointed out that a large saving will be accomplished by means of this bulk purchase, with the Federal unit providing the greater part of the needed supplies.

F. W. Dunn, district manager for WPA, advised the supervisors that the funds set aside for the addition to the building would be in Norfolk this week. Construction plans have been agreed upon, and actual work on the building will be started as soon as materials can be shipped here and men engaged for the work. If it doubtful, however, that much will be done prior to the new year, although Mr. Dunn is hopeful that the project can be put under way this month.

Another new project begun in the county during the past week concerns the construction of modern, sanitary privies for farm-

Mary Sinton Leitch Contributes Original Poem As Christmas Plea

"I was deeply touched by your plea for the children in this latest issue of the NEWS. . . I am sending you some verse that I wrote under the stimulus of your own petition, and if you can use it in your paper I shall be glad in the hope that it will help the cause of the little children."

So writes Mary Sinton Leitch, this county's outstanding contribution to the world of poetry and beauty, enclosing the inspired bit of verse which we are more than happy to publish. May its message strike deeply into the hearts of all who have not yet contributed to the Christmas Party.

INASMUCH

Can you not hear young, wistful, pleading voices?
Will you not listen when the night is still
To poverty, that while all earth rejoices,
Moans by the river, sobs upon the hill?

Do you not see the children who are raising Chill empty hands while Christmas carillons Make sweet the world that once again is praising Him who had pity for His little ones?

Do you not feel a throbbing lamentation
In the bells' song? Oh innocent, undefiled Young hearts!—God grant we heed that supplication, Remembering that the Christ was once a child!

Christmas Party's Fund Appeal Nets Wide Response In County

Returns From First Week Are Encouraging; Many Additional Contributions of Money and Materials Needed to Insure Greatest Success.

Public response to the first effort of the Woman's Club of Princess Anne county to stage a Christmas Party for the needy children residing here gained in momentum as the first week of the campaign for money and materials drew to a close. Other contributions than those listed below have been pledged, which will bring the total to a substantial level, although the next few days must show a considerable increase if the demands of the 150 children who will attend are to be satisfied.

Mrs. Edward H. Herbert, the club's president, and Mrs. Charles M. Hodgman, general chairman for the party, report that plans for the Christmas celebration, to be held at the clubhouse in Uเบอร์mer, Monday afternoon, December 23, are shaping up splendidly. Appropriate decorations will line the walls, a huge tree has been secured and a splendid program of music and games has been arranged.

Women Sewing For Children

From Oceana comes the report that Mrs. Morrison and a group of ladies who have been sewing weekly for the pupils of the Oceana School are now interesting themselves in the making of clothing for the local boys and girls who are going to the Christmas Party. None will be forced to stay home, says Mrs. Morrison, because of a lack of suitable clothing.

Many contributions of clothing have been sent to the Woman's Club from residents who have realized the acute need existing for suitable garments. Wherever possible, these items will be distributed in advance of the party, thus assuring the attendance of the children at the festivities planned for them. All white children between the ages of four and sixteen living in poor homes have been invited, the lists of such needy having been compiled by school officials and by FERA leaders at the Court House.

Motor Corps Organized

Reports of the transportation committee, charged with the organizing of a motor corps to bring the children to the party, indicate a splendid cooperation on the part of local car owners. Next week, the schedule of transportation will be completed and will be announced in these columns and in the schools, notifying the children of the loading stations agreed upon. If necessary, several school buses will be drawn into service to augment the specially arranged motor corps.

CORN-HOG PLANS R. C. EVERETT IS AAA MANAGER ARE ANNOUNCED

New Contracts Will Be Offered to Virginia Farmers During Next Month.

The 1936-37 corn-hog adjustment contract has been approved and contract applications will be offered to Virginia farmers in January, J. R. Hutcheson, State extension director, has been notified by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The new contract follows closely the recommendations made by producer-representatives and State agricultural specialists in conference early last month in Washington. Mr. Hutcheson said. Details of the contract soon will be discussed at a meeting of State corn-hog officials, and will be fully explained at local meetings which will be held during the application sign-up campaign in January.

The two-year contract, effective as of December 1, 1935, requires that the signer produce for market in 1936 at least 50 percent of his market hog base and not more than 100 percent of his base if he is to receive the maximum hog adjustment payment. The cooperating producer also must plan to corn at least 25 percent of his Appointed District Head of Tidewater Association; Club's Program Outlined.

R. C. Everett, of Virginia Beach, this week was appointed district manager of the Tidewater Automobile Association for Virginia Beach and Princess Anne county. In announcing the appointment of Mr. Everett, J. E. Timmons, executive manager of the Association, made the following statement:

"The association locally has grown over 1,000 members within the last twelve months, having a total membership of around 3,500 in the Tidewater area alone. The local club is a part of the American Automobile Association, with a total membership of over 1,000,000 members. It is a civic, non-profit organization, organized in 1902, the officers and directors of which serve without compensation. J. B. Day, of London Bridge, is the director for Princess Anne county and is now chairman of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Division of the TAA.

"Among the many accomplishments of organized motoring justifying its existence today is the work among the schools in safety

HIGHWAY FUNDS' DIVERSION INTO SCHOOLS URGED

Ozlin Would Have Tax on Commercial Vehicles Allocated to General Fund.

GOVERNORSHIP BID SEEN

Highway Commissioner Objects to Latest Proposal.

The school-road controversy loomed large in the news from Richmond this week with Highway Commissioner Henry Shirley standing out against any diversion of road moneys to schools. Corporation Commission Chairman Thomas W. Ozlin taking the other side of the argument and Governor George C. Peery promising to jump into the fight.

The Governor didn't say with which of the department heads he would side, but did say he would make specific recommendations to the General Assembly. These recommendations, the Governor continued, will be based on facts furnished him by Ozlin, Shirley, the motor vehicle commissioner and other sources.

Would Replace Lost Funds

While emphasizing that he advocated no sweeping diversion of road funds, Ozlin said he believed proceeds of the franchise or road tax on commercial vehicles should be used to replace similar money lost to the general fund because the traffic has gone from the railroads to the highways.

Ozlin's remarks are of significance because of prominence recently given to his name as a possible organization candidate to succeed Governor Peery.

INSURANCE RATES DROP FOR TOWN

Private Dwelling Assessments Curtailed From 8 to 15 Cents Per $100.

Effective December 9, insurance rates on private dwellings with single occupants were reduced an approximate 25 per cent within the corporate limits of Virginia Beach, according to advice received this week from the Virginia Insurance Rating Bureau of Richmond, supplemented by additional information from the bureau in Norfolk. This latest ruling, however, does not apply to existing contracts but only to that insurance written on or after the date specified in the order.

Henceforth, instead of a base rate of $32 per $100 for a frame dwelling with approved fireproofed roof, free of hazardous exposures, the rate will be $24, or a reduction of $8 per $100 on this type of building. Apartment houses of similar construction, according to the announcement, will be similarly benefitted in the matter of rates.

Frame dwellings with shingle roofs will benefit to the extent of $15 per $100 of insurance, and the rate of $8 will apply to brick or veneer brick buildings equipped with fireproofed roofs. Brick buildings equipped with shingle roofs will be subject to a $10 reduction.

It is understood, of course, that these changes in rates will apply only to homes within the corporate limits of the town, classified for insurance purposes as a third class city, and within 500 feet of a fire hydrant. Those outside of the town's boundaries and further than the nearest hydrant than the specified distance will continue at the same rate as previously charged.

MILESTONE

Even making a scrap book can be a thrilling adventure when it marks an important step in one's recovery from tuberculosis. This young woman, after weary months in bed, has improved enough to sit up a short time each day. But she still faces many weeks of "curing" before she will be able to go home.

Girls between the ages of 15 and 25 are among the chief victims of tuberculosis; fifty per cent more are stricken as are boys of the same age group. The reason for this is not known. Tuberculosis associations, financed by Christmas Seals, make special efforts to protect young women.

Seal Campaign Report Reveals $190 Collected In First Week

Tuberculosis Association Plans to Increase Efforts to Attain Goal of $616 Set for Section; Beach Leads in Initial Report of Workers.

Reporting a total of $190.55 for the first week of activity, ended December 7, the county chapter of the National Tuberculosis Association last night issued another stirring appeal for funds, pointing out that the $616 goal set for Princess Anne county and Virginia Beach is still far away from accomplishment.

Mrs. Rufus Parks, chairman of the local unit, commended her co-workers for their spirited assistance and urged those who have received their quota of stamps to remit their contributions as promptly as possible. The goal set for this year is higher than ever before, but an increasing number of tubercular patients seeking assistance from the association makes imperative its attainment if satisfactory progress is to be made during the coming year. The sale of Christmas Seals is the chief means of raising money for the conduct of the life-saving program.

The Virginia Beach District, of which Mrs. Edgar Trant is chairman, reported the greatest amount for the first week of the campaign, turning in a total of $50.45. Mrs. B. D. White, chairman of the Kempville drive, was second, with a report of $42.80. One Lynnhaven district, of which Mrs. H. C. Old is chairman, turned in $20.50, and another Lynnhaven unit.

LOCAL UNIT NOT HIT BY RULING

Supreme Court's Action Does Not Affect Status of Beach Association.

Recent action by the United States Supreme Court in declaring invalid that section of the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation which deals with the abridgement of contracts between the individual states and corporations will not affect the policies of the Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association, it was emphasized yesterday by W. H. Terry, Jr., secretary of the association.

The local unit, it was stated, has had no contact with the State of Virginia since its inception and is dependent wholly upon Federal jurisdiction and guidance. That section of the Federal law set aside as contrary to the Constitution deals only with those building and loan associations which have abrogated their contracts with the state and have taken a Federal charter without the approval of the Commonwealth.

Reporting on the activity of the local association, Mr. Terry stated that W. F. Hudgins, of Kempville, had recently been added to the board of directors of the Virginia Beach unit. He will serve with Roy Smith, F. E. Kellam, Edward Hardy, P. W. Ackles, C. T. Whitehead and W. H. Terry, Jr. in guiding the future policies of the association.

At the last meeting of the board, held at the offices of the group last Wednesday night, three applications for loans were approved, two in the county and one in Virginia Beach. Other loans are now in the process of approval, it was learned.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan Association will be held on the third Wednesday in January at 8 p. m. At this meeting, all directors of the association will come up for reelection.

Mrs. Smithers' home was beautifully decorated with flowers and Christmas greens. Tea was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

SEASHORE PARK BODY ORGANIZES TO TAKE FIGHT INTO ASSEMBLY

Action on $13,000 Option Will Be Pressed, Grandy Tells Associates.

GOVERNMENT PROPOSES LYNHAVEN ANCHORAGE

Need For New Road Around Fort Story Is Stressed by War Department.

Approving a concerted effort by Tidewater civic and business interests to have the State Legislature appropriate $13,000 to renew for the next two years a $260,000 option held by the State on 2,373 acres of land in the Seashore State Park, at Cape Henry, Captain H. W. Cochran, area plans officer of the Coast Artillery Corps located at Fortress Monroe, Wednesday told a group of interested parties that the War Department is considering plans for the construction of jetties at Lynnhaven Inlet and the dredging of a channel into Lynnhaven Bay for a harbor for mine sweepers and other large boats.

These plans, Captain Cochran admitted, are still in a "dream state," but are being pressed for completion by interested parties close to the War Department.

Grandy Calls For Action

C. Wiley Grandy, executive vice-president of the Virginia Seashore State Park Association, was the principal speaker at the meeting, called to press for action on a park project before the coming meeting of the State Legislature. Unless the State renews its option, Mr. Grandy pointed out, all the work of the CCC workers, where $363,659 of Federal funds were spent between October, 1933, and November, 1935, will be a complete loss. Too, he continued, the people of the state will suffer because of inadequate park facilities near the Virginia seashore.

Captain Cochran stressed the need for a new road through the park area, a total of 3,438 acres, of which 1065 acres were given to the State by the Cape Henry Syndicate, and 2,373 were deeded to the State, subject to a vendor's lien of $260,000, held by the syndicate. The new road plans, announced in these columns some months ago, would eliminate the present highway through Fort Story and permit it to be developed as it should be, Captain Cochran said. The need for strong fortifications at this point first was illustrated in the War of 1812, when, had a fort been there, the British might have been prevented from sailing up the bay to Washington and destroying the capital.

To Contact Delegates

It was decided that the various organizations interested in the project would write members of the General Assembly, urging them to appropriate the $13,000 needed to renew the option, with the hope that acquisition of the property for a State park can be had before the renewed option expires.

Former Delegate J. B. Day, of Princess Anne County, who said he favored the park movement, reported he recently was in Richmond and was told by Wilbur C. Hall, chairman of the Conservation and Development Commission, that both Mr. Hall and Senator Byrd were making efforts to have the needed funds included in the budget to be presented in the assembly next month. He said that Mr. Hall was of the opinion

Oyster Roast Given By Jack Woodhouse

County Clerk J. F. Woodhouse was host last Saturday afternoon to a large number of Princess Anne county friends at the Woodhouse home, located on the Lynnhaven River. The occasion took the form of an oyster roast and was held on the banks of the river. Norman R. Hamilton, publisher of the Portsmouth Star, was a guest of Mr. Woodhouse at the roast.

PRESERVE OUR EVERGREENS

At this season of the year, when the countryside of Princess Anne is annually ravaged of its holly, evergreens and cedars, it is well that we should speak a word of counsel to those who persist in destroying one of our rapidly dwindle-ing scenic attractions. To extend such aid to the Garden Club and to all organizations fighting for the preservation of these trees is a sincere pleasure on the part of the Virginia Beach News.

To those who regularly uproot trees and strip the branches of their berries, we would plead for a bit of consideration. If the present onslaught continues unabated, forestry officials estimate that holly and evergreen soon will be a mere memory, seen mostly in pictures as are so many former abundances of early American life.
Substitutes can be purchased at little cost, drawn from forests that are raised commercially and which regularly are replanted to insure against depletion. Use these, if you will, but spare to future generations a beauty of scene which rightfully belongs to them.

Forest fires, it has been said, do less damage to this type of plant than do the hordes of decoration seekers that regularly descend upon the innocent groves, without thought of the methods used to satisfy their own ends. Let us keep what we have in a natural habitat. All will benefit from such a wise and community inspiring course.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY

With little more than a week remaining before the Christmas Party, sponsored by the Woman's Club of the county for an approximate 150 needy children, is held at the clubhouse in Uebermeier, we would appeal again for contributions of money, clothing, food and toys. So far, the public response has been a gratifying one, but much work yet remains to be accomplished before those in charge of the party can rest upon the satisfying assurance that every needy youngster residing here will have some bit of the Christmas spirit brought into his life through a common, countrywide effort.

Dark and dreary is the outlook for many a poor child who of year long has known the pinch of hunger and want. The cold, bar-ren shack in which he huddles, as poorly clothed as he is fed, radiates none of the Christmas cheer of which he has been told in his school or church, and the apparent poverty of mother and father promises no more on Christmas Day than the mere pil-lance on which he now exists.
Without your help, here is the forgotten child, more pitiful and more deserving of assistance than any forgotten man lost in any economic morass.

Never before has the need for assistance been so great and, fortunately, not in recent years has there been a greater opportunity for service on the part of plain Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen to these needy. Let us give thanks for our own improved state by doing for others that which we would have done to us were we in a like condition. The doing of such a good deed will make our Christmas a happier one, while brightening in untold measure the day for him who is the recipient of our assistance.

One cannot feel the spirit of the Yule, as that spirit has come down to us from the first offerings made in a Bethlehem stable by wise men from the East, without offering some gesture to those less fortunate than ourselves. Toys and food and clothing will go far towards making their Christmas a happy one, though such offerings do no more than alleviate temporarily the distress in which they live, and we who give will be rewarded by the smiles of pleasure, the expressions of heartfelt gratitude that will come from those who receive. It is more blessed to give than to receive, particularly when the giving is to those who otherwise will be overlooked.

Many additional contributions are needed to insure a truly successful Christmas Party. Each of us must share in the responsibility which it presents, and each must give insofar as we are able to give.
If all will share in this project, tremendous and significant will be the resulting outpouring of good, truly in the spirit of the real Christmas.

THE PENDULUM SWINGS UPWARD

From all sections of the country, in both rural and urban centers, the comforting news that holiday trading this year will set a new high record of merchandising activity for the depression years.
Not since 1930 have conditions been as promising as today, and a reassuring note of confidence in our continued economic development is apparent to all observers.

Employment gains by private industry, particularly in the field of durable goods, keep step with steadily increasing payrolls. The onslaught against depression is far from completed, but hope of gainful employment runs higher for the average man than at any time since the dark days of 1929. Careful planning and competent leadership will go far toward increasing the pleasure on the part of the Virginia Beach News.

Such signs of increasing good fortune are most welcome as the year 1935 draws to a close. To begin the new year with a renewed confidence in our lot, with the thought uppermost in our minds that a measure of sound prosperity gradually is overspreading the land, will make for a truly happy holiday season. Cooperation of all the forces in our national existence, backed by the guarantee of peace with our neighbors, will, we believe, contribute in great measure to the splendid record of performance which we anticipate for 1936. We have surmounted most of our barriers, and an even field lies ahead. That traditional American aggressiveness will carry us forward to the desired goal now seems certain of accomplishment.

THE HAUPTMANN MESS

Politicians and publicity seekers —menaces to an ordered community when they overstep the bounds of their own special callings—are finding the aftermath of the Hauptmann trial and his subsequent conviction a fertile field for their own purposes. The disinterested opinions of the New Jersey Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme Court that the trial was ordered and fair and the conviction justly have been set aside by them as the remarks of persons wholly partisan, the while they give voice to unproved suspicions and unfounded rumors.

This is no time for sentimentality or side-stepping of the real issue, too much of both has marred the conduct of this celebrated case since the introduction of the Norfolk hound. According to the evidence presented, Bruno Richard Hauptmann is guilty, the brutal crime has been traced to his disturb and he must pay the just penalty. If there was one iota of evidence to the contrary, we should be quick to call for a postponement of his death sentence, but months of tireless investigation by a variety of experts have failed to produce such. Therefore, to postpone further his sentence is to delay an honest end to a case that can only be considered as closed.

We would urge an end to present temporizing. The sooner the little green door at the end of the corridor closes on him, the quicker will we breathe with more ease, surer of the safety of our own children, happy in the certainty that the arm of the law is still strong enough to protect us from the brutality of diseased minds and unscrupulous, criminally acute monsters in human form.

INDUSTRY BUILDS ITS PLATFORM

Less than three years ago, during those desperately despairing days of March, 1933, the whole of American industry set up such a pitiful howl for governmental assistance that their means of impending disaster moved even the poor devil who had been thrown into the street the week before because that same industry had tossed him ruthlessly from his job.
The myth of rugged individualism and that of the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover regime as the natural guardians of property were dissipated over night, organized business tottered on the brink of the greatest catastrophe it ever had imagined, and assistance of a vigorous, vital sort alone was recognized as of sufficient power to stave off disaster.

However bitter the medicine dished out, they were ready to take it. Their not-so-subtle march to fabulous wealth had collapsed in its tracks, and the threat of rapid disintegration hung like a trembling sword of Damocles over their heads. Their economic philosophy, which knew no law save that which W. O. Saunders, of the Elizabeth City Independent, cited in these columns last week as the "damned-profit motive," had gone berserk, they knew not where to turn.

What followed is a matter of record. A banking system which today has all but eliminated the memory of what then occurred enjoys the respect and confidence of the people. Billions of government money were literally dumped into the treasuries of banks, insurance companies, railroads and stock concerns, without which there would have been no course save that of liquidation. A vast governmental program of charity and work relief was developed in record time and furnished some measure of succor to an unimagined number of American citizens, gradually restoring confidence in our economic life and removing the pall of pessimism which hung over us like a London fog.

A ready mind and a stout heart were needed to succeed in such unprecedented activity. The picture was changed without serious loss, and industry was first to applaud the efforts of its protector.
But times have changed, and today we are loud by that same industry that the present administration has been and continues to be nothing short of a vicious instrument of destruction, flaunting every truly American principle and paving the way for an advance of anarchy. This, we take it, is less than the gratitude of dogs who turn upon the hands which feed them.

No consistent reader of this newspaper can bring the charge that we regard Mr. Roosevelt as one unable to err. His seemingly willful evasion of almost every plank written into the Democratic platform has brought and will continue to bring sharp protests;
his scandalous spending spree along a whole series of misguided avenues has been viewed with displeasure, but one cannot remain loyal to truth and assert, as does the National Association of Manufacturers, that no good has come from the present Democratic Administration. One need only look at the futile efforts—if a policy of unmitigated do-nothingism can be called such—of Mr. Hoover during his closing months as President in comparison with what was accomplished since March, 1933, to realize just how vital was the work of an aroused Democracy.

To sum up, the surest argument that these Democratic policies have restored confidence and begun anew the interrupted march to prosperity lies in this revival of the doctrine which characterized life in the early 1900s. Were their feet not again on solid earth, the same pitiful whinnies and pleas for assistance would still be coming from those whose greed is matched only by their insolence and whose charity stops at their own doorstep.

"The profit motive," said the Independent, "is one of the most degrading influences in life; it eats like a cancer at those basic virtues of honesty, integrity and sincerity; it warps men's judgments; it reduces church members to the low estate of liars, cheats and hypocrites; it translates the Golden Rule to read, 'Do the other fellow because some one else will prey upon him if you don't.'
It closes its eyes to the beauties of the New Testament and feeds upon the Old Testament where it can find sanctions for debauching another man's wife or selling diseased meat to a stranger. It robs widows and orphans and the feeble of mind. It is the sire of short weights, adulterated foods and faulty workmanship. It is the God of Wall Street, the Hearst newspapers and the Liberty League. . . . Their only concern is for profits, profits and more profits. For an immediate gain of profits they would crucify humanity.

Mr. Roosevelt may be the focal object of their attack, but that business deliberately seeks to forestall today is the universal clamor for justice in our economic life as in all other fields of human endeavor. We will not be fooled by their specious demands, and if the Republican Party takes their platform as its own, we can safely predict as inglorious defeat in the next election as was true in 1932.
Parties may well be split asunder in the next few years, because of present progressive aims, but we cannot foresee a return to those standards of yesterday. A depression in whose coils we still are lapsing to some extent has exposed our master minds of business in their true light.

Yet, as has been pointed out by the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, the platform of these manufacturers is not wholly an empty document.
With many of its criticisms of the New Deal we are in accord, and with its statements of many basic principles of economic and government procedure we can find no fault. Were they content to stop there, to evince some interest in the changing scene without such stupid insistence upon a return to a philosophy of laissez-faire that no longer is tenable, we would be inclined to uphold them. But, if the bases of their argument are without fault, the structure they have attempted to build on such support-reeds of an old day and an old order which is buried and which will stay buried.

Industry must adapt itself to this new order, must realize that the principle of evolution holds as much in this field as in others and must cooperate in the working out of a satisfactory program. The failure to do so will bring about the head-on collision of an aroused citizenry, to which has been exposed in all of its hollowness the philosophy of an earlier year.

The situation is not unlike that which confronted the colonies of the New World and Mother England in the years prior to the actual outbreak of the Revolutionary War. Changing conditions made, then as now, for acknowledgement of additional steps in governmental procedure. The Tories of the time were against change, and, instead of England retaining her colonies, though under a lighter yoke of control, the United States of America came into being, the result of revolutionary tactics that have since continued to spell defeat for an intolerant monarchical system. "For want of a crust, the whole loaf was lost."

Governmental control of the forces of production has gained many recruits in recent years, and the many criticisms hurled at an unwarranted selfish policy which continues to be pursued by industry cannot be set aside as of no matter. It is our sincere belief that the temper of America is such as to accomplish the desired reforms without revolution and without recourse to a tailor-made doctrine of Socialism, Communism or what you will, but a spirit of evident cooperation, though at the expense of some profits and some centralized control, must be shown by industry. Continuance of such tactics as this week greet our eyes may induce a situation the results of which no one can predict.

Business has declared war, and the amping of highly paid propa-gandists will be a fearsome thing between now and next November.
When the people again will be spoken, as we are certain they will speak, business will be forced to the realization that their day is the main force in politics is over.
Then we may anticipate the desired result, with a day of reckoning in which all will share. That such cannot be accomplished without the tactics of the moment cast a lasting blot upon the cachet of American industry.

Java plans to start a cotton industry and hopes eventually to establish 300,000 spindles, 10,000 looms and kindred industries.

INTERROGATIONS

What food has stained your mouth my son?

The food of Love that's colored red.

I break it up for my daily bread
And grant the crust to everyone.

Now tell—do they accept and eat?
The greedy take, and never taste;
But others let no crumb to waste,
Even though dropped beside their feet.

And do you feed your sullen foes?
They have their choice to eat or bleed!
Of my two hands they well must feed—

They offer either bread or blows.
II
Where is the girl you slept beside?
One morning when I woke it seemed She muttered curses while she dreamed.

I bade her leave my house and hide.

And she was Love, your true sister?

Neither my sister nor my friend.
I shall begrudge me to the end
For having unclothed and kissed her.

Where will she be at cold nightfall?
Oh, safe enough and warm enough
I think, under a neighbor's roof.
And near enough to hear—my call.

WHEN THE DULCIMERS ARE GONE

When the dulcimers are mingled with the dust
Of flowering chestnut, and their lean fretted necks Are akin maple stalks, their strings dull threads of rust, Where shall the mellow voice be heard upon the hills, Upon what pennyroyal meadow, beside what rills?

Where shall the gentle words in mild abandon sing
With sweet design in loitering melody
As flights of swallows aimless on the wing,
Yet skilled as scythes that curve through yellow grain And fragrant as jasmine after freshening rain?

Or may the heart's breath on the slender reed Sing bright virelays to match the oriole?

The tulip-tree the lyre that one must heed
When the dulcimers are gone,
when afternoons attend
The silver underleaf of poplars in the wind?

SONNET

When your work's done, banish it behind you, forget its beauties and its failings both;
you've done your part by the child, borne, bred it,
given it your blood, at your heart fed it, clothed it with care, taught it your hard-learned truth, now that it's grown let nothing remind you of what's forever lovely now, or marred—no, turn to what you've still the power to guard.

Visit not often the past that bore you not the too-friendly pleasures at your gate not your mind's offspring married to their fate—
keep your house, the every need procure you of those to come, your works yet to be born;
toll, plan and pray for them noon, night and morn.

FRIVOLITY

In knowing you, I learned to be
As care-free as the birds.
Our hours were gay. There seemed to be No place for solemn words.

In loving you, there were no thoughts
For seriousness meant.
'Twas just a careless rapture, Dear,
That ended in content.

In parting, now, let's be the same.
We'll leave behind all care;
And now I'll find a new love here—

THE NEED FOR 10,000,000 HOMES

Economists are generally in agreement on the theory that a comprehensive and well-organized home building program would lend aid to economic recovery in the United States the stimulus necessary to make permanent the gains already made in the war on depression. On this theory the Committee for Economic Recovery has submitted to the President, and has released to the public, the details of a suggested home-building program which would provide for at least 750,000 new homes a year for the next ten years to provide housing for the 10,000,000 families who have been shown in recent surveys to be inadequately housed. The President is, naturally, giving the plan his earnest consideration.

Private building, under this plan, would cover 85 per cent of the entire program. The government would be expected to provide housing through a public building program for families whose incomes are less than $1,000 a year.
Cash payments would be made as low as 5 per cent for those in somewhat higher groups. The Federal government would guarantee mortgages on a basis somewhat more liberal than that on which the Federal Housing Administration now operates, and the interest rate, including all service charges, would not exceed 4 1/2 per cent.

It is proposed to build homes in the price range of $2,500 to $6,000, most of them to cost not more than $4,000. The government's low-cost housing projects thus far have failed to provide houses actually at low cost. The success of the English plan, to which is attributed in considerable measure the economic recovery in England, lay in the fact that it actually did provide homes at low cost. There was need for more homes in this country even before the depression. Since the depression, the construction of homes for families in the lower income brackets has been negligent. In 1935 about 70,000 homes will be built here, as against 330-000 in England.

The suggested plan merits careful examination. It goes without saying that a nation of home owners is a stable nation. Economists argue, too, that such a construction program as this would practically eliminate unemployment and stabilize economic as well as social values. But one important factor which the Committee for Economic Recovery does not discuss in its report is the matter of real estate taxation, which is pyramiding in the United States.
Before it will be possible to launch such a comprehensive plan as this it must be determined whether or not our system of taxing homes can be so revised as to lift some of this burden from present and prospective property owners. Excessive taxation would defeat this or any other plan for universal home ownership.—Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

OUR THIRTY "RULERS"

It is fashionable nowadays to draw up lists of the men who rule the world or who run the country.
A book was recently published which purports to name the 25 most powerful living individuals and now comes the New York Post with a series of articles on the 30
"men who run America."

It is noteworthy that some of those listed are not known to the average citizen, as, for example,
M. W. Clement, executive of the Pennsylvania Railway; Frederick Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company;

John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company; Earl D. Babst, New York sugar tycoon; or Frederick H. Prince, chairman of the executive committee of Armour & Company. Two of the 30 "who run America" are not even listed in "Who's Who in America," although that ponderous tome contains 31,081 names. They are Floyd B. Odum and Sam Zemurray. Can you identify them?

The other names on the list are familiar to almost every one:
Winthrop W. Aldrich, the Astors, George F. Baker, Edward J. Ber-wind, E. L. Cord, Henry L. Duherty, Stanley Dollar, the Du Ponts, Harry Firestone, Henry Ford, Walter S. Gifford, the Gus-senbergs, W. Averell Harriman, Arthur Curtiss James, Lehman Brothers, the McCormicks, Andrew
W. Mellon, J. P. Morgan, David Sarnoff, Swift & Company, Myron C. Taylor, the Weyerhaeusers, and the Whitneys.

The Post states that there are undoubtedly "many other men and families who represent as much economic influence as those listed." The 30 were chosen by Arthur D. Howden Smith, who worked for a year preparing the series of articles on them, and it is stated that this is "the most powerful group of men on earth."
Mr. Smith's conclusion is that "representatives and senators, Governors, the Supreme Court—even our Presidents—are usually overwhelmed by economic forces more powerful than the Government itself."

It may be that the Post over-emphasizes the pulsance of these men, but they unquestionably exercise a tremendous influence over the affairs of the nation. From the time of the Constitutional Convention in the late eighteenth century, as Dr. Charles A. Beard has shown, down through the years economic power has often been superior to political power.
A knowledge of the economic processes which have contributed to the development of America is essential to a true understanding of the American spirit. Mr. Smith's series deals with something fundamental in the history of this country.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

STUDENTS AND PUBLIC PROBLEMS

Editors of college newspapers, representing many institutions in the East and South, plan to devote more editorial space to a discussion of social and economic problems of the day. The president of the National Student Federation of America not only urges such activity, but thinks the college press ought to be a sort of clearing house for news and ideas relating to national issues.

It is a good thing to have the college publications take a lively interest in public affairs, studying political and economic developments and telling each other and the public what they think. The boys and girls may be immature, but their thinking should be at least as good as the average citizen's, and perhaps better.

They have time and opportunity for honest study under scholarly teachers, whose judgment is probably less warped by their jobs than most people's. They can take a more objective, disinterested view of life while in college than most of them will ever be able to take when they get into active life.
Let them study, talk and speculate with free minds while they can. All too soon old man Economic Determinism will get them, in the form of jobs that put thinking and talking and voting into fixed patterns.—Portsmouth Star.

BOOKS TO OWN

DISCOVERY: The Story of the Second Byrd Antarctic Expedition.
By Richard E. Byrd
Putnam's, 32c pp., $3.75

A Review by Archibald Bolling Shepperson, Assistant Professor of English, University of Virginia.

The world of science is notoriously lacking in men who can interpret for the rest of us the significance of scientific inventions and discoveries. The very great majority of human beings, for example, are forced to accept the statement that Einstein's theories are of paramount importance, without having the slightest inkling of why they are important. Polar exploration, to the average inhabitant of the middle latitudes, seems only a shade less esoteric than the theory of relativity. The reader of Admiral Byrd's narrative of his second expedition to the Antarctic will find a clear, straightforward exposition of the reasons for and the achievements of this heroic undertaking. For Byrd is a rare aviator in several senses of the term: he is an intrepid aviator, a courageous explorer, and a competent scientist who is also a writer of understandable, readable prose.

"Discovery" contains the three important elements of scientific information, adventure, and human interest. Of these the most difficult to convey an impression of is the scientific material. As Admiral Byrd says in his first chapter, sufficient time has not elapsed for the data collected by the expedition to be examined and evaluated. We learn, however, that 450,000 square miles of hitherto unexplored area on sea and land, including a new mountain range, was added to the map. Several new forms of animal and microscopic life were discovered. The depth of the ice cap was taken for the first time by means of seismic soundings. Meteorological observations were extended, as were observations of land and ocean currents. Important research was conducted in the cosmic ray and in polar magnetism. Fossilized semi-tropical vegetation was discovered for the first time as near as 180 miles to the pole itself. Altogether, twenty-two branches of science will profit from the expedition's findings.

There is no lack of adventure by sea and by land, or rather, by ice. Days are spent in groping through a fog-dimmed sea sprinkled with treacherous icebergs. Journeys by tractor and dog-sledge are made a hundred and two hundred miles away from base over snowy wastes in temperatures as low as 70 degrees below zero. Journeys complicated by the unpredictable giving away of an apparently solid surface and the dropping of a tractor, or a sledge, or a load of indispensable supplies into a deep crevasse. Numerous flights are made by plane and autogyro, two of them ending in crashes that prove fatal to the machines and all but fatal to the men. Two major surgical operations are performed successfully, one of them an appendectomy, under the most rugged and pioneer conditions imaginable. And then there is the heroic, solitary sojourn of Admiral Byrd himself in Bolling Advance Weather Base, 123 miles south of the rest of the party. Ill from the noxious fumes of an oil stove and with a badly wounded shoulder, he remained there—alone—from March to August, refusing to allow anyone to risk his life in coming to the rescue.

The whole story of the expedition abounds with humor and with homely incident. With easy, unaffected simplicity, the author makes us realize that even in the Antarctic men are subject to very much the same tastes, prejudices, and emotions as they would be in more normal surroundings. With boyish delight, they discover in the buildings of Little America, hastily abandoned four years before, certain familiar articles which remind them intimately of their former stay there. A creaky phonograph, the needle and the record still in place, tells forth "The Bells of St. Mary's," a tune so dear to the heart of Quin Blackburn that he has played it, Admiral Byrd drily remarks, almost continuously for fourteen months. This and many similar anecdotes add interest to a narrative which even without them would be readable and appealing. Obviously Admiral Byrd has set out to write a book that would ing and morning worship, 11 a. m. Sacrament of the Lord's Supper every second Sunday.

Old Donations: Episcopal, Rev. Marshall E. Travers, rector. Sunday Service at 10 a. m. Sunday School at 11 a. m.

prove interesting to all kinds of readers, and one that would answer the often repeated question, "Why explore the Antarctic?" He has succeeded, well.

After having been informed by a specialist that children's books in general aren't what they should be, we beg leave to comment upon the eight that measure up. Of them, "Youth's Captain," Hildegarde Hawthorne's story of Ralph Waldo Emerson, is a fine thing for older boys and girls. So are Lincoln Steffens' "Boy on Horseback," Western adventures taken from the first part of his "Autobiography," and Frances Clout's "Our Wonderful World," a science book that is as fascinating as a wonder tale. "He Went with Marco Polo," Louise Kent's story of Toni's journey to the court of Kublai Khan, can delight anyone from ten years up (Leroy Baldrige is one of the illustrators). "Lost Corner," a pioneer story by Charlie May Simon, should intrigue the "ten-fifteens," especially the girls. Young children are going to like Richard Bennett's "Skookum and Sandy," the story of a meddlesome little goat and his master, and grown-ups the woodcuts. Youngsters will also like the d'Aulnais' "Children of the Northlights," a true story of little Lapland children, which is one of the loveliest publications of the year. Tiny tots will howl with glee over the simple tale of the bad little runaway "Bear Twins" as told by the artist-author, Inez Hogan.

Marion Rubenstein's "Adventuring in Palestine," though a shade less than distinguished, presents interesting facts and photographs about life in the Jewish country. "Who Goes There?" Dorothy Lathrop's story of some squirrels, and "Piper's Pony" by Paul Brown, both for the smallest reader, fall a bit shy on the story side, but the illustrations in the first are breathlessly lovely. The biggest disappointment of the year is "Around the World with the Alphabet"—children of alphabet age will hardly understand what H. W. van Loon is giving them.

We should like to call attention to Stanley Horn's "Boys' Life of Robert E. Lee" as fine, unbiased and inspiring. "Don't forget A. A. Milne's 'Winnie-the-Pooh.'" Though children as a rule cannot appreciate Pooh Bear fully, the grownups will enjoy reading it to them anyway.

For loan of children's literature or for further information, apply to your local library, or the Extension Division, University, Virginia.

Attend some church and Sunday School this Sunday.

They Make Things Happen

INGENUOUS BRITISHER
H. G. Wells, British author, has just sold a motion-picture scenario to American publishers as a novel, to be offered first in The American Magazine. The scenario is to be produced under the title "The Microbe Maker."

ASIA'S COLOSSUS—The Panchen Lama, ruler of Tibet and head of the Lamasist religion, is about to return to his homeland after twenty years of self-imposed exile. His life story, from his miraculous birth to the present day, is told in a new book, "Nowhere Else in the World," published simultaneously in New York and London.

WOMAN'S UNUSUAL JOB—Mrs. Dorothy M. Beck has been appointed by President Roosevelt as Director of Rural Resettlement in the 11 Eastern states. She comes of a long line of Indiana farmers and has the added advantage of many years of business experience.

NEW PLAN FOR FARMERS—Wheeler McMillen, editor of The Country Home, national farm magazine, has devised a new farm plan to take the place of the A. A. A. Subsidies for farmers, he proposes, should be devoted to commodities now imported. His proposal caused a sensation in Washington.

Methodist Revival Will Close Sunday

The Methodist revival at Oceana will continue through Sunday night, with the Rev. Walter C. Gum occupying the pulpit. C. S. Benjamin, of Norfolk, will lead the singing.

Attendance upon these services and the interest shown in the revival have been particularly high, the Rev. B. B. Bland, pastor, reported.

The Sunday night services at the Virginia Beach church will be held at five o'clock instead of the usual hour of eight. Services at Oceana will be held at eleven o'clock and at seven-thirty Sunday.

Snake venom is not always poison, and that of many "poisonous" snakes can be swallowed without harm, provided it does not enter the bloodstream.

Christmas Program Will Include Plays

The Junior League of the Court House School will give its annual Christmas program on Friday night, December 13, at eight o'clock in the school auditorium.

The first four grades will present a musical play "Mr. Moon and Merry Christmas" and the fifth, sixth and seventh grades will give a play "A Strike in Santa Land." The real spirit of Christmas is shown in both plays and it is hoped that many will attend. A small admission fee will be taken at the door.

Darden On Oyster Roast

Alumni members of Columbia University now resident in Tidewater Virginia enjoyed an oyster roast on the shores of the Lynnhaven River, at Croonenbergh's, last Saturday afternoon. Congressman Colgate Darden was in the party.

BAYSIDE NAMES ROOM MOTHERS

New Group Will Provide Needs Reported by School Children of District.

The Bayside School teachers have appointed several mothers from each room of the school to form a committee of home-room mothers, working within the school's P. T. A., of which Mrs. E. H. Herbert is president. The purpose of the committee is to learn the needs of the various rooms and to arrange to have these provided wherever it is possible and to do any other active work for the P. T. A.

The first meeting of the committee, held December 6, in the Bayside school, was presided over by Mrs. Bannish, the principal. It was decided to hold regular meetings on the second Wednesday afternoon of every month. Mrs. T. F. May was elected chairman of the group; and Mrs. H. T. Cook, secretary-treasurer. Discussions were held concerning increasing the membership of the P. T. A. and projects for raising money for some immediate needs. It was decided to hold an amateur hour in January to raise funds for some present needs. The following women compose the committee: Mrs. G. H. Wallington, Mrs. A. F. White, and Mrs. H. T. Cook representing the first and second grades; Mrs. G. W. Yarrus for the third and fourth grades; Mrs. T. F. May and Mrs. W. T. Pugh for the fifth and sixth, and Mrs. A. R. Robshaw for the seventh.

Paris Shows Sparkling Rayon Lace

Du Pont Style Service
Paris Office

PARIS—Rayon lace has an important part in the realm of evening dresses here this season and some of the smartest of formal frocks are seen, when the lights are on, developed in the new lace fabrics. Chanel has designed the model shown above, at the left, in dull black albene lace embroidered with slit cellulose film in the shape of leaves. The costume is completed by a cape in the same lace and Moynoux. It is in blue slate rayon with threads of slit cellulose film encircling the designs. It is trimmed with a large bunch of rayon velvet flowers in faded pink matching the long evening gloves.

Miami Beach News

By Curtis S. Jarvis
Peter de Witt, Arthur James and Bud Croonenburg were seen riding around Miami Beach on bicycles this week, and are going to work with Mr. Reed at his bicycle shop on Miami Beach.

Spratt Edwards, George Barnes and Sol Tepper arrived in town last week in their open air taxi and went to work for the city that night cleaning up the storm damage. Harrison Braithwaite, Nubby Seaman, and Baby Braithwaite are also working for the city on the day shift.

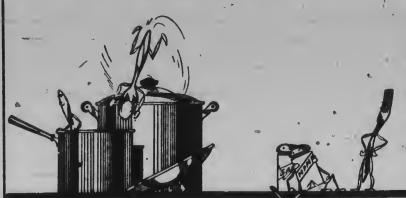

Shorty Edwards after working on the golf course several days has gone back to work at the same position he had last year, The Game of Fortune.

Dropping in on Billy Sterling last night I found that the storm has left him none the worse and that his hotel is filling up very fast.

If any Virginia Beach people are planning on coming down this winter they had better wire for reservations in advance.

Major Paul R. Forbes arrived this morning with a lovely Scotch lassie sitting beside him, and the Virginia Beach boys here are somewhat at a loss to determine whether or not the Major has launched upon his fourth or fifth marriage adventure. He will remain at Miami Beach until after Thanksgiving and then will proceed to Bradenton and Clearwater for the remainder of the season.

The Cook's Nook

Furnished to the women of Princess Anne County by the Virginia Electric and Power Company Home Service Department, Naomi D. Shank.

It's fruit cake time again—the stores have been filled for weeks now with all the crystallized citron, pineapple slices, fat tasty cherries, nuts, and other things which our Mothers have used for years now in their pet recipes. Fruit cakes have become a Christmas tradition—a food which has remained in it the treasures of the East such as were carried to the Child in Bethlehem so many years ago. Frankincense, Myrrh and spice! Fruit cake is more than just a cake—it is a mixture which should be combined by members of the family on one's own hearth stone. Do not create a fruit cake hastily. Purchase the fruits and nuts carefully—then cut and shred them several days in advance of the mixing, also line the pans with paper (parchment commonly known as Patapar is best but brown paper or several thicknesses of heavy wax paper will do) buy only the best butter and eggs because "A fruit cake is not better than the ingredients which go into it." Try to arrange the mixing to take place when all the family and your closest friends are there and can put a few stirs into it—stirs made with happy Christmas thoughts which can be consumed by those tasting on Christmas day. One hour should be allowed for the mixing time—a fruit cake cannot be overmixed by hand, but it very frequently is undermixed which will cause the fruit to sink. In arranging the cakes to be of definite weights allow 2 ounces to each pound for shrinkage. In baking we suggest 275° for cakes under 5 pounds, 250° for cakes over 5 pounds. The average time check is helpful in cutting down your "peeking time"—allow:

2 hours for the first pound
30 minutes for each additional pound.

For a 12 to 14 pound cake cover pan with greased paper or pan for the first two hours and allow 8 to 10 hours for entire baking time. Always cool the cakes in the baking pans at least 12 hours. Do not remove the paper wrappings until cake is cut. Store cake in a tin can until ready to use—first wrapping it in wax paper. A dark cake should be baked at least 3 weeks before Christmas—a white cake can be made 3 days before. If you have your Mother's and their Mother's recipe before them for fruit cake, why use it—keep your fruit cake for a family tradition, but, if you have been looking for a good pair of fruit cake recipes we suggest the following:

White Fruit Cake

¾ lb. butter
1 lb. sugar
8 eggs
1 lb. flour
1 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. nutmeg or mace
½ c. water or white wine

1 lb. almonds, blanched
1 lb. white raisins
½ lb. citron
½ lb. cherries
½ lb. candied pineapple

Cream butter-add sugar then whole eggs one at a time. Beat well—Add liquid alternately with half of flour to which dry ingredients were added before sifting. Flour fruit and nuts with remainder of flour—Combine mixtures and stir well—Bake in large angel food size pan 3 hrs. at 275°. (Fruit and nut mixture may be soaked for 1 hr. in the liquid).

FRUIT CAKE NOTES: Have ingredients at room temperature. Prepare fruit, nut mixture and paper linings for baking pans the day before—Cool all cakes in pans. Do not remove paper until ready to cut cake—Store in tin can with a sound apple.

If you have any fruit cake questions about mixing, baking, decorating, or glazing, and if you are interested in having Christmas gifts for your kitchen just call for the Home Service Department at your nearest Virginia Electric and Power Company office.

CHRISTMAS FUND APPEAL IS MADE

Mrs. Margaret Causey's Girl Scout troop at Chesapeake Beach announced this week that a benefit card party will be sponsored by the group next Tuesday. Proceeds of the party will be used to purchase a basket or baskets of food for needy families selected by the Woman's Club. Other similar parties may be staged for like purposes.

Contributions Sought

Persons desiring to contribute to this worthy cause who have not yet done so are urged to send their money, toys, clothing, food, candy or tree ornaments to Mrs. Edward H. Herbert, at the Norfolk Water Works; to Mrs. C. M. Hodgman, R. F. D. No. 2, or to the office of the Virginia Beach News, any and all items will be appreciated by those in charge of the party, and no contribution is so small as to be unworthy of presentation. The need for these varied materials is great and the field sufficiently large to absorb every article of clothing and recreation which is contributed. The major portion of the expense will be carried by the Woman's Club, but the work accomplished will be greatly increased by the support of the individual citizens.

Added to the $10 in cash and other contributions reported last week, are the following donations: Princess Anne Garden Club, $5; Mrs. R. L. Dawson, $5; Miss Gertrude Lovell, $3; Mrs. Willoughby Cooke, $2; Mrs. J. E. Addenbrook, $1; Floyd Dormire, Jr., $1; Mrs. C. B. Ryan, $1; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Huston, $1, and a Friend, 40 cents. Toys or clothing have been contributed by Mrs. Stuart Johns, the Mills Hill, Mrs. Harold Cooke, Mrs. Martha Bryant, June Fortescue, Mrs. Louis Fisher, Arlene Forester, Corinne Falconer and Mary Lou Schroeder.

Committees For Party

Committees and committee chairmen working with Mrs. Herbert and Mrs. Hodgman include the following:

Chairmen of transportation committees—Seaboard, Mrs. Floyd Kellam; Kempsville, Mrs. E. H. Henry Smith; Mrs. R. C. Herbert and Mrs. George Hugh Watlington; Lynnhaven, Mrs. Webster Hiteshaw; Virginia Beach, Mrs. Oliver Brown and Mrs. E. R. Harden, Jr.; Pungo, Mrs. N. A. Nicholson; Blackwater, Mrs. Guilbert. General transportation committee—Mrs. W. Frank Cox, Mrs. J. P. Woodhouse, Mrs. William Ashburn, Mrs. T. D. Stokes, Mrs. W. C. Schroeder, Mrs. Yarus, Mrs. W. M. Bratten, Mrs. R. P. Trant, Miss Gertrude Lovell and Miss Dorothy Herbert.

Decoration of Clubhouse—Miss Mae Martin, Mrs. Maclin Simmons and Mrs. J. A. Callenbach. Decoration of tree—Mrs. J. Jeffers and Mrs. Margaret H. Causey, in charge of Girl Scouts.

Entertainment—Mrs. J. E. Addenbrook. Distribution of presents—Mrs. R. B. Taylor and Mrs. R. G. Barr. Filling of boxes of candy—Mrs. Blair Poteste.

Building Activity Reported In County

Building contracts recently awarded in Virginia Beach and in Princess Anne county, all to be developed by D. W. Gregory, include the following:

Residence for Clarence Barco, located 25th and Baltic Avenue, Virginia Beach, Frame, $4,500. Residence for J. S. Jackson, located 123rd Street, Virginia Beach, Frame, $4,000. Residence for Herbert Lee, located at 56th Street, Virginia Beach, Frame, $3,500. Gasoline service station for Floyd Kellam, located Princess Anne Court House, Brick, $4,000.

Students Sponsor Own Amateur Hour

Next Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, the student body of the Oceana High School will sponsor an Amateur Hour in the school auditorium, proceeds of which will be given to the local athletic association. Any type of vocal or instrumental numbers, reading or dancing acts will be welcomed. Cash prizes will be awarded for the best act presented by pupils and outsiders, and many participants are expected. Miss Ruth Gornio will supervise the contestants. All amateurs are asked to communicate with her prior to the performance.

History was made today—read the newspapers.

CORN-HOG PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Corn base next year but not more than a percentage which is within the permitted optional range of 70 to 90 percent of its corn base. Corn and hog bases under the new program will be established by appraisal by community committees in accordance with standards prescribed by the Secretary. This undertaking, new to commodity adjustment programs, is designed to permit the assignment of equitable bases to all producers regardless of whether or not they have previously participated in corn-hog programs or farmed previous to 1936.

Soil-Improving Program

An additional major change from the 1935 contract is the provision that an acreage equal to the land held out of corn production, known as the "adjusted corn acreage" under the new contract, be devoted to soil-improving or erosion-preventing crops. The area used for these crops must be in addition to the acreage normally devoted to such uses on the farm.

For complying with the hog adjustment provisions of the 1935-37 contract, the participating producer will receive his entire hog payment as soon as possible after final compliance has been checked after the close of each year. The 1936 rate will be at $1.25 per head for each hog in the base, less the pro rata share of the local administrative expenses. Deductions will be made at the rate of $2.50 per head if the producer fails to raise 50 percent of his base hog numbers and $5.00 per head if he raises more than his assigned base number.

Corn adjustment payments in 1936 will be made in two installments, about August 1 and December 31, at the rate of 35 cents a bushel multiplied by the appraised yield and the number of adjusted acres. Deductions will be made for local administrative expenses as heretofore.

Adjustment Rates Set

The rates of adjustment and rates of payments for 1937 will be announced by the Secretary by November 30, 1936, and will be determined from the outlook for supplies and prices at that time. A contract signer, however, will not be required to plant more than 25 percent of his corn base nor make an adjustment below 75 percent of his base in 1937. To secure the maximum hog payment in 1937, the signer will not be required to produce more than 60 percent nor asked to produce less than 75 percent of the assigned market base. The rate of payment on corn in 1937 will not be less than 30 cents per bushel and the rate on hogs will not be less than $1.25 per head on the number in the base.

The new corn-hog contract is to be in full force from December 1, 1935, through November 30, 1937. The Secretary: (1) terminates all corn-hog contracts with respect to 1937 by an announcement not later than November 30, 1936, or (2) approves an application made by a contract signer not later than April 1, 1937, for termination of his original contract because of non-compliance.

NEW WRAPPING IDEAS FOR YULETIDE GIFTS

UNUSUAL ways to trim gift packages for everyone on your list are illustrated in the above photograph—each one easily developed with bright wrappings of Cellophane cellulose film and transparent ribbons.

For the youngsters, there's an amusing candy doll, costumed in red wrapping and appropriately holding a Christmas card book of gift paper. This figure has a body of small candies enveloped in clear wrapping, a head of two large gumdrops, and arms and legs of striped peppermint sticks. He wears a flowing cape, knee breeches and a jaunty cap. The cute doll beside him is all ready for the great day with a Christmas bow of red transparent ribbon.

Two gift packages that have masculine appeal are the golf ball figure at the upper right, and the box at the lower right-hand corner which ingeniously uses cigars to represent Yule logs. The golfer is made on a wire frame, with one ball for the head, covered with clear wrapping, and another for the body, wrapped in green. He has a rakish cap of transparent red wrapping, and a bright ribbon neck bow. The symbolism of the Yule log package is further carried out by wrapping the box in crushed Cellophane to give a frosted effect. The little man who is hauling the "logs" is fashioned from red and green wrapping.

At the lower left is a rolled towel showing through a clear covering

Modern Home Decoration Service and finished with fountained ends of colored wrapping and gay ribbons. Two novel methods of applying Christmas tree motifs are shown also. The upper one is cut from pieces of red wrapping and pasted on in layers to give varying shades of color. On the box in the center, the tree design is worked out by pleating blue wrapping and using it against a box covering of yellow. The box at the center right is wrapped in a clear sheet and decorated at each end with pleated bands of green transparent wrapping. The cylindrical box at the front has a wrapping of dark blue and tyings of silver ribbon.

supervised by Mrs. E. J. Smith, reported $14.50. Seaboard district, according to Mrs. Bruce Dixon, realized $27.30 in its first week with the Pungo chairman, Mrs. L. Hancock, reporting $35.00. There were no reports available from the other districts into which the county is divided.

Officially, the campaign will come to a close on Christmas Day, and it is the hope of Mrs. Parks and her committee that the needed sum can be raised by that time. Every possible effort will be expended during the coming week to reach the goal.

Disease Held Curable

Public health officials have pointed out repeatedly that tuberculosis can be cured and eliminated from our daily life. Although remarkable strides have been made in recent years, the dreaded disease still claims the honor of leading the death list with most of its victims succumbing to its influence between the ages of sixteen and twenty-four. In past years the death toll among girls and young women has been particularly heavy.

The Tuberculosis Association is the greatest factor today engaged in the eradication of the white plague. Working through a vast network of local units, it seeks out those whom it has been unreported and extends to the poor sufferer the opportunity to work for recovery. Here in Princess Anne, many interesting cases have been uncovered and, by virtue of the funds raised from the sale of Christmas seals, have been given the needed treatment to insure return to good health.

All officers of the association work without compensation. Every cent realized goes directly to the program of relief which is supervised by state and national health authorities.

Mrs. Grimstead Dies At Creeds Residence

Mrs. Fannie Smith Grimstead, aged 78, died at her residence in Creeds Monday morning, after a short illness. A native of Princess Anne county, Mrs. Grimstead was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Smith. She is survived by a son, Russell Grimstead; a daughter, Mrs. W. L. Whitehurst, and two grandchildren, all residents of the county.

Funeral services were conducted at Kala Christian Church Tuesday afternoon, by the Rev. B. L. King, pastor. Interment was in the family cemetery in Creeds.

Lynnhaven Social Items Of Interest

By MAUDE V. MILLS

The Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Mills, Devotional exercises and business were conducted by president Geradine Midgett. Kiddie bags will be filled by the group as their Christmas contribution.

The Nanny Cline Sunday School Class of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Marshall, Monday evening. Mrs. Cline and Mrs. Marshall presented several readings, following the devotional exercises, and games were played. Later, refreshments were served. Mrs. Grace Harness left Tuesday to spend some time with her sister, Mrs. M. Aylesworth, in Assanoman.

Mrs. Ellen Van Nostrand, of Atlantic City, is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cline.

The amateur program given by the Girls' Circle at the Hall Tuesday evening was well attended. Master Rodgers and the Misses Brister were first prize winners. Billy Edwards and friend, of Norview, were second, and the Cole Family, four singers, won third prize. Mr. Odlin acted as master of ceremonies.

Mrs. John P. Mills entertained at two tables of bridge Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Lucille Shirley and Louise Moses, of Norfolk, were guests at the home of Charles Ingram, Sunday.

Mrs. John Luce returned home Wednesday with Mrs. Copeland, at Buckreef Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, of Thalia, announce the marriage of their daughter, Gladys Ethelyn, to James R. Miller, of Norfolk. The wedding service was performed at the parsonage of the Kempsville Episcopal Church at 4:30 p. m., December 10. Miss Thelma Smith was her sister's only attendant and Mr. Miller's brother was best man. The couple left for a short trip to Washington, after which they will be at home at the Leigh Apartments, in Norfolk.

Boy Scouts Seek Added Membership

Boy Scout Troop 60, of Virginia Beach, is interested in increasing its membership. It was learned this week. All boys of proper age wishing to join the local group are urged to attend the meetings, held at the Scout Hall.

Hugh Lynn Cayce, scoutmaster, is expected back next week after a long absence from the Beach.

Eastern Stars Hold Emma Gray Night

At the regular meeting of the Virginia Beach Chapter, No. 75, Order of the Eastern Star, last Tuesday, Mrs. Emma L. Gray, member of the International Temple Committee and Past Worthy Grand Matron of Virginia O. E. S., was presented with an honorary membership, the night having been previously set aside as Emma L. Gray night. Mrs. Gray was accorded the honors of her station and given a welcome into her new home chapter.

Mrs. Anna May Gregory delivered the welcoming address and presented Mrs. Gray with a basket of red roses. A crown of gold leaves, indicating her position as queen of the event, also was presented on behalf of the chapter.

Among those present were past grand officers and members from Virginia Chapter No. 22, Old Dominion No. 100 and Elizabeth Chapter No. 45. An enjoyable social hour was held at the conclusion of the meeting.

Parent Teachers' Will Meet Tuesday

The December meeting of the Oceana Parent-Teacher Association will be held next Tuesday afternoon, at 3:15, in the school auditorium. A program will be presented by Mrs. Farmer Morrison, chairman of the welfare committee, which will feature an address by Mrs. A. E. Ewell, county relief director.

Reports from the standing committees will be presented. All members and patrons of the school are urged to be present for the session.

Brother, You've Answered It

The Union League Club of Manhattan, the citadel of High Toryism, the members of which are all reactionaries admittedly opposed to all forms of social progress for the benefit of the masses and mainly corporation lawyers and financial magnates, has adopted resolutions accusing President Roosevelt of "working to overthrow the Constitution and the Republic." What effect would you say this action will have on the great body of the electorate?—Brooklyn Citizen.

SECRETARY WALLACE HOLDS FALSE PROCESSING FIGURES DENY FACTS

"One of the amazing things about the public attitude toward the farm program in general and the processing taxes in particular," says Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, "is the extent to which that attitude is not based on facts. I mean simple facts, not complex ones; facts which must be admitted whether you favor, oppose, or are indifferent to the program.

"An acquaintance of mine, wherever he finds a group of people complaining about high food prices and attributing the high price to the processing tax, asks these people to do a little estimating. Since they usually mention meat prices, he asks them to estimate how much the processing tax amounts to in a dollar's worth of beefsteak.

Information Inaccurate

"So far he has collected several scores of answers, mostly from city people, and the answers range from 3 cents to 65 cents. And yet there is not now, and never has been, any processing tax whatsoever on beef! Not more than one out of every 20 people this man has talked to know that simple fact."

"From a woman in eastern Ohio has come a protest against 'high prices of foodstuffs, notably at present, two staples, meat and potatoes.' Then she asks, 'How are we to pay the increased and increasing prices of these two named commodities, production of which is so decidedly curtailed when our purchasing power is yet at such low ebb?'

"Now what are the facts? First the facts as to curtailment programs. There is no curtailment program for beef, or veal, or lamb, or chicken. The curtailment program she could possibly be talking about is that involving pork, and that program, as now shaping up, calls for material increases in production.

Potatoes Not Yet Affected

"And as for the curtailment program on potatoes, not one pound of potatoes or one solitary acre of potato land has yet been affected by any such program, for the simple reason that the much-talked-of potato act has not yet gone into effect."

"The complaint about the price of potatoes is difficult to understand. It seems grotesquely inaccurate to talk about the high price of potatoes when consumers are paying about a cent and one-half a pound, and farmers are getting less than a cent a pound. In 1936, for example, consumers paid 3 1/2 cents a pound. I just don't believe that consumers want bargain foodstuffs when they know the farmer's shirt goes along with the bargain.

"It is so easy to forget what prices were a few years ago. It seems to surprise many people to learn that food prices today are considerably below the 1929 level.

Facts Overlooked

"If facts about prices, and about processing taxes, are frequently overlooked, facts about the conduct of the various adjustment programs are even more commonly misconstrued. One favorite story is that the farmers, at the direction of the AAA, plow under corn and burn their wheat. Farmers know that this simply isn't true, but those city people who don't know farmers and farm practices may often be fooled.

"In talking with city people I find misunderstandings as here illustrated almost universal. Meat prices, largely as a result of last year's extraordinary drought, have gone up rapidly. Nevertheless, several years of ordinary weather can easily result, even with the maximum of help from AAA, in exceedingly low farm prices in a few years. It behooves both consumers and farmers to cooperate to keep unusually wide fluctuations in weather from causing undue harm to either one. Right now the farmers are doing their best to increase the hog supply. The effect of this will be felt during the next year or two. By 1937 or 1938, however, with ordinary weather, hog farmers can be in much more position than city pork consumers think they are today.

"To bring about the desired state of continuing balance between farmer and consumer, it is necessary that neither farmer nor consumer be led astray by wild stories spread by interested parties who have little concern for consumer-farmer welfare."

Local Boy Stars In Augusta Game

Jimmy Frank, Virginia Beach's contribution to the prep school football world, proved one of the main cogs in the Augusta Military Academy's machine that last Thursday took the measure of an important Fishburne School eleven by a single touchdown margin, 6-0. The game, played on a muddy field, was a spirited struggle from the opening run, with Augusta carrying the ball time after time deep into their opponent's territory.

Although this is Jimmy Frank's first year at Augusta, he has played a leading role in the team's outstanding record throughout the entire season, proving himself a dependable, flashy and hard-running back. Last year, it will be recalled, Jimmy played end for the Oceana eleven.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, acting when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name, Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. Check drug stores. ©1931 C. N. G.

In Days Gone By

Two Years Ago With The Virginia Beach
News

Mrs. C. G. M. Bowe has taken the Howard cottage in Sea Pines from December 15th to April 15th. Mrs. Bowe will entertain a party of friends there during the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Charles E. Spence will spend the winter months with Mrs. Bowe.

The Red Cross membership drive is nearing a close and all the workers are asked to redouble their effort in order that the local chapter may go over its quota. Many of the chairmen of the committees throughout the county have not reported to Mrs. Samuel Simpson, general chairman of the membership committee, of the county, but it is expected that the organization will have at least 500 members at the close of the drive next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton Holland expect to move from the apartment on 16th Street where they live, to the Episcopal Rectory on 19th Street, about December 15th. Rev. Thomas Ridout will retain several rooms in the parsonage for his study but will live at the Focahontas during the rest of the winter.

Miss Fannie Stormont and Irvin Eckhart were married in the dining room of the St. Francis Hotel, at Frederick, Md., last Friday night. The marriage came as a surprise to the parents and many friends of both the bride and groom.

At a joint meeting of several county branches of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities met at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night to discuss ways and means of building an appropriate shrine at Cape Henry to mark the spot where the first settlement of English speaking people was established on this continent. Col. James Prentiss, Commandant at Fort Story, was the speaker of the evening. Col. Prentiss discussed the memorial and advanced the idea that no tall structure should be erected as the point is one of our country's most important defensive positions and to prevent the spot from appearing prominent either from the air or from ships, it is logical to have low rambling buildings and as much of the natural scenery preserved as possible.

At the meeting of the Military Board held in the Governor's office in Richmond Monday, it was decided that the state should not sell or dispose of in any other manner, the Rifle Range and camp sites consisting of several hundred acres, about two miles south of Virginia Beach.

Much credit is due the Virginia Beach Fire Department and members of the Coast Guard attached to the station here and a few volunteers that succeeded in checking the fire which threatened to demolish several buildings in the neighborhood of 17th Street and Atlantic Avenue. The fire originated in the Henderson building and had gained much headway before the town fire department was notified. The frame building was ruined by the flame and water, which was necessary to be applied to check the advance.

Blackwater News

Luther Gilbert, formerly of Blackwater, but now living in Plant City, Fla., reports that he is much impressed with the money-making possibilities that are now existing there, and thinks that the real form is just starting. Mr. Gilbert is engaged in local transportation and has a large fleet of trucks under his supervision.

Will Lovitt who lives near Blackwater bridge was very much surprised one morning last week to see an automobile tire and a man's cap in a large mud hole near his home. Mr. Lovitt was undecided whether some motorist lost them or whether he became stalled, and before help could arrive surmised and the cap and tire was a warning left to others.

HOLIDAY TRADE CONTINUES BRISK

Employment Reflects General Pickup With Steel Output Gaining Point.

A further rise in industrial activity with improvement more widespread among various lines was shown in Department of Commerce reports from more than 30 cities for last week. In the same period, retail trade was bearing out earlier predictions of a greatly increased volume.

Virtually all cities reported substantial improvement over last year, but in Philadelphia, Dallas, Atlanta and St. Louis, retail trade held to the previous week's level. Chicago reported the largest holiday shopping crowds since 1929. Boston, Detroit, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Charleston, New York, Denver, Jacksonville and the Pacific Coast reported holiday buying in full swing. Retail trade in the National Capital was further stimulated by the payment of Christmas Club funds. The distribution of $312,000,000 to 7,000,000 Club members throughout the country likewise was being felt. Dividend and interest payments to stockholders have been estimated at $435,000,000 for the month of December. Twin City wholesalers reported 25 to 50 per cent better holiday trade than last year with country merchants wiring for merchandise or visiting the markets in person rather than wait for salesmen. Wilmington reported 35 per cent better business than last year and the cold weather likewise stimulated the sale of wearing apparel and other seasonal merchandise.

Employment Gains
Employment reflected a pronounced pickup with steel output gaining a point during the week and rising to 87 per cent of capacity. This industry, so it was reported, now has 55,000 more men on payrolls than a year ago and is said to have reabsorbed 226,000 workers since the low point of the depression. The industrial employment index in Detroit rose to 107.8, compared with 62.4 a year ago. Considerable expansion was reported, including a $3,000,000 plant of the American Steel & Wire Co., in Joliet. Pittsburgh reported heavy rail orders and the largest number of blast furnaces of the year in operation. Kansas City announced the fourth addition to the General Motors assembly plant. Memphis reported addition of 800 workers to Murray Body Co., payroll. In Buffalo steel ingot production was 82.6 per cent ahead of last year. In Cincinnati, shoe production was 150 per cent ahead of the previous week and 115 per cent above 1934. Several new plants and expansions were reported from Los Angeles. There was considerable distillery expansion in Kentucky and Indiana. Atlanta reported Georgia cotton mills running full time with hundreds of additional workers. The rise in employment

U. S. Is World's Largest User of Christmas Trees

TWO million American homes will be brightened this Yuletide by Christmas trees from the forests of Northern Ontario. Most of November several thousand farmers and foresters were engaged selecting and cutting trees for the American market, the largest consumer of Christmas trees in the world. Forest experts state emphatically that the cutting of these trees constitutes no drain upon forest resources. Although the total annual cut amounts to nearly 10,000,000 trees in Canada, that number is less than is required to serve the toothpick industry each year. The photograph shows a couple of Northern Ontario youngsters eagerly watching the loading of a cargo of trees destined for the United States.

In private industry since the 15,071,000 unemployment peak of March 1933 was reported as 5,000,000 workers, but 817,000 new employables were added to relief rolls in the meantime. WPA projects were absorbing thousands of workers throughout the country.

Construction Ahead
Construction continued well ahead of last year, 783 cities reporting permits valued at $674,000,000 during the first ten months of the year or 84 per cent ahead of 1934. Residential building improved 162 per cent. Jacksonville, Fla., reported building permits exceeded the $3,000,000 mark for the first time since 1929. Tender crops in Florida were greatly damaged by the cold.

Burley tobacco crops were being marketed in Kentucky and Tennessee at slightly less prices than last year. In Chicago, 200,000 attended the International Livestock Exposition. Southern California income augmented by $100,000,000 citrus and walnut crop. Bank deposits and clearings continued to rise and automobile sales in many cities reached a new high in November.

MEAL OF THE MONTH

Baked Ham with Orange Sauce and Orange-Cinnamon Slices.

By MARIE GIFFORD
Armour Food Economist

HERE is a new way to serve that mild, flavored baked ham which every family will undoubtedly appreciate. It is the Meal of the Month for September and an ideal dinner throughout the autumn season.

The innovation is in baking the ham with an orange sauce and garnishing the platter with slices of candied orange pierced with cinnamon sticks.

Be sure that you have a mild cured ham made by the fixed roasting process which makes it unnecessary to parboil the meat. Wash the ham with a damp cloth. Do not remove the rind. Place the whole ham in an open roasting pan, fat side up. The oven should be very low (300° F.) Baked without covering, allowing 25 minutes to the pound just 45 minutes before the ham is done, remove the rind and pour off the fat from the pan. Score the top of the ham.

Then make a paste of one cup of brown sugar, juice of one orange and grated rind of one orange and spread this over the surface. Then complete the baking.

The orange slices for garnishing are boiled gently in a syrup made of 1 1/2 cups of sugar, 1/2 cup water, juice of one lemon and two sticks of cinnamon. Use three oranges cut in thick slices.

When the orange rind is clear, place one inch length of stick cinnamon in the center of each slice. Chill before serving.

To round out the September Meal of the Month we suggest cream of mushroom soup, spinach with cheese croutons (crisp croutons), pear in time-gelatin salad and graham cracker pineapple torte.

If you choose not to cook all the ham at one time and still want to enjoy the economy of buying a whole ham, your food dealer will be glad to cut the meat into three pieces for you. The butt may be baked as described above allowing perhaps 30 minutes to the pound; the center slices may be broiled for another meal and the family will enjoy the shank boiled with vegetables.

FIFTY STUDENTS ON HONOR ROLL

Kempville Schools Report Wide Gain Over First Period of Year.

The end of the second six-weeks period finds fifty students on the honor roll at Kempville High and Elementary School. This is a significant improvement over the first six-weeks average, when only thirty won this distinction. This number represents approximately 12% of the student body, which is a very good average especially since the honor roll requirements are rather stringent. The names of the students appearing on this distinguished list are given below by grades:

Second grade—Peggy Swindell, and Earl Parker.

Third Grade—Henry Yoder, Frieda Yoder, Herman Davis and Anna Swain.

Fourth Grade—Kenneth Brown, Billy Duplain, Harold Gibbs, John Rocky, Eula Lee Jervis, Doris Wolfe.

Fifth Grade—Dan Crain, Dan Makinson, Betty Jervis and Marie Swindell.

Sixth Grade—Barbara Makinson, Frances Price, Frances Abbott, Harvey Schrock, Elmore Lewis.

Seventh Grade—Ethel Brown, Jean Fenzelle, Pearl Mitchell, Sue Whitehead, Shirley Wolfe and Catherine Tice.

Eighth Grade, Section A—Mildred Halsey, Nora Burton, Louise McClannan, and Ann Eichelberger.

Ninth Grade, Section A—Marion Kreger, Anne Van Welde, Philip Whitehead.

Tenth Grade, Section B—Ellen Ayers, Eula Sawyer, Emmy Fountain, Nancy Williams.

Junior—Virginia Lee Slaughter, Evelyn Nuckols, Naomi Manning, Mary Lee, Thomas Land, Barbara Bryant, and Gladys Burton.

Seniors—Elizabeth Whitehead, Mary Phillips, Catherine Peele, Mary Ballance, and William Wallace.

Special mention should be made of the six students who made the highest average for their home rooms in the high school department. The name of each of these appears on the honor roll showing not only their faithfulness to classes but to the school as well. The students making this are: Mildred Halsey, Eighth Grade, Section A; Viola Hoffer, Eighth Grade, Section B; Anne Van Welde, Ninth Grade, Section A; Emmy Fountain, Ninth Grade, Section B; Evelyn Nuckols, Tenth Grade; William Wallace, Eleventh Grade.

The fact should be mentioned that Anne Van Welde, a sophomore, made the highest average in the entire school. With an average of 97 she has reason to be proud of the work she has done during the past six weeks.

Court House Pupils On New Honor Roll

Students named to the honor roll of the Court House School for the second period of the year yesterday were announced as follows:

Grade 1—Albert Bartee, Frank Kellam, Florence Coke, Virginia Dixon, Ruby Ewell, Margie Goodwin, Mary James, Etta Mae La Barrer and Anne Luford.

Grade 2—Floyd Lowry and J. E. Dixon.

Grade 3—Marilyn Burton, Margaret Hargrove and Alice Shipp.

Grade 4—Bonnie Flanagan, Rufus Jordan, Frances Ellis, Doris Murden and Doris Lowry.

Grade 5—Norwood Land and Norma Taylor.

Grade 6—Evelyn Hargrove.

La Nada Will Speak Over WMAL Sunday

Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, over Washington Radio Station WMAL, La Nada, head of the dancing school here in Virginia Beach which bears her name, will speak on "The Art of the Dance." Miss La Nada's speech will be made during the course of the Joe Brown Kiddies' Hour, one of the most popular programs presented in the Capital City area on Sunday, and a feature of the airwaves for three or more years.

In private life, La Nada is Mrs. Sidney J. Mitchell, formerly associated with the Cavalier Hotel as assistant manager.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, honorary vice-president of the Girl Scouts, is saluted as she arrives at the national Girl Scout "Little House" in Washington, D. C., to inspect the home-making work being done there. This includes baking, and baby care, carding, spinning and weaving, canning, bed-making and all the other domestic arts.

HIGHWAY FUNDS' SEASHORE PARK DIVERSION URGED BODY ORGANIZES

(Continued From Page One) statement followed on the heels of Shirley's assertion that the Cartwright Act of 1934 would prevent the taxing of motor carriers for schools or other general governmental functions. The act provides only that the state spend for roads an amount equal to that being spent by the states at the time the act became effective. June 18, 1934, Ozlin said.

Explains Legislation
"If Mr. Shirley is correct," he continued, "the Cartwright Act is in conflict with our own state constitution and the segregation plan which has been in effect since 1928."

Under the terms of the Cartwright Act, he insisted, "if the taxes from motor vehicles and fuels had been double in 1935 what they were on June 18, 1934, Virginia would have to expend no more than was set apart for the fiscal year, 1934, in order to escape the penalty of the act."

"I do again say that with the license fees, registration fees and gasoline tax," Ozlin continued, "together with Federal aid running close to $23,000,000 per year, our highway system will not suffer any material hurt by letting the general state revenues have the franchise and road taxes from commercial vehicles, since these revenues have suffered a decrease of more than $1,500,000 in the amount formerly received from railroads which until recently carried the passengers and freight now transported by commercial highway users."

Shirley Replies

Answering Ozlin, the highway commissioner said it would be well to ask "who furnished the shoes for little Annie and little Billy to walk to school last year and who built the roads on which little Tommy and little Susie rode to school last year, and who is doing the same this year?" Father, he said, worked on the roads to earn the money to buy the shoes and over the roads father built the children were able to ride to school, showing a marked correlation of schools and roads.

The issue threatens to become of political significance in the gubernatorial election of 1937. Many observers see in the developments a bid by Ozlin for the governorship. It will be remembered that Governor Peery came to his office by way of the chairmanship of the Corporation Commission.

Club "500" Features Specialty Dance Act

Saturday night's featured attractions at the Club "500", located on the Shore Drive Boulevard, one mile east of the Linnhaven Bridge, will include Peggy and De Ora, exhibition ballroom dancers, and Fontaine Alves, in a series of Hula and oriental dances. Music will be furnished by Kirby Smith and his orchestra, regarded as one of the best dance bands now operating in Tidewater Virginia.

education. Each month, the AAA, through its member clubs, teaches safety to over 5,000,000 school children in the "Tidewater" area alone. 2,500 teachers receive safety lesson sheets, together with 1,000 safety posters. There are now 70 schools cooperating with the safety movement, with a membership of 1,780 in this area.

"This is a worthwhile civic organization. For the dues paid yearly, the member contributes some portion to these civic services, but as outlined in a recent issue of 'Reader's Digest,' this association is truly the 'Motorist's Guardian Angel,' protecting him with a $5,000 bail bond, a $1,000 accident insurance policy, garages to render emergency road service and many official maps and tour services."

Mr. Everett will make his office at his home in Linnhorn Park temporarily. He may be reached by calling Virginia Beach 91-M or 362.

SEWING PROJECT WINS APPROVAL

ers. Any county resident desiring such, provided he is willing to furnish the necessary materials, may, by making known his desire to the local WPA office, have all details of construction handled by this agency without cost to him. The local group in charge of this project, now employing ten men, estimates that an approximate $50 latrines will be built in the county within the next year.

Athletic fields at Creeds, Oceana and the Court House schools will be graded with WPA funds. Preliminary work was begun this week by a force of men, who will put the fields into splendid shape for future athletic and gymnastic uses. This service is one which the government is offering to city and country schools throughout the entire country. Other Projects Considered

Other projects have been sent to Washington for approval, among which are the five street and curbing projects sought by the council of Virginia Beach and the creation of a water line from the Boulevard to Linnhaven. Approval on these, according to Mr. Dunn, is anticipated prior to the first of the year.

With the exception of the malarial control and drainage work now being done in the southern end of the county, most WPA activity of the moment centers about Virginia Beach, where men are engaged laying a new sewer line, repairing the street ends between Atlantic Boulevard and the ocean walkway and sheet piling certain sections of the walkway itself. It is expected that this type of repair work will continue throughout the late spring, all of which is being undertaken at a minimum of expense to the county and town.

TRANSIENT CAMP NOW UNDER WPA DIRECTION; 350 MEN GIVEN AID

AN Negro Project In Largest In State; $25,000 Spent Here Each Month.

DIRECTOR REPORTS FEW INSTANCES OF ILLNESS

Valuable Service Given to County in Drainage And Eradication Projects.

Effective this month, the Federal transient service became an integral part of the WPA setup, with the creation of State bureaus to assume charge of the many-sided activity of this relief organization. The change in status eliminates the word "transient" from the picture and puts those men there enrolled in the general classification of unskilled labor, who are paid a stated monthly wage from which the cost of lodging and food is deducted.

According to C. F. Anderson, local director, the Virginia Beach project henceforth will be known as Seaside Camp, the largest of the eight work camps established in the state, only two of which are for negroes. The men there enrolled—350 comprise the camp's allotment at the present—work 140 hours per month on the mosquito eradication campaign now being joined in the county under joint WPA-U. S. Public Health Service direction. All eradication and drainage projects are worked exclusively by these men, and current reports stress the effectiveness of the results which have been secured to date.

Burchard State Chief

Directly in charge of the work camps in Virginia is M. S. Burchard, of Richmond, Administration Assistant to William A. Smith, State WPA chief. The relief effort in the Second Congressional District, it has been pointed out, has no jurisdiction over this integrated part of the federal agency directing the fight against unemployment.

Princess Anne county is interested in this work to the extent of $240 per month, paid in salaries to four local foremen employed to direct the transient force. In contrast with this sum, the Federal government is expending monthly on the camp, in salaries and food costs, an approximate $25,000, the greater part of which is spent locally, both for supplies and for the men who draw $15 per month for their labor.

Drainage System Improved

In exchange for this expenditure, reliable observers report that the drainage system of the county will be improved by at least 25 years, while mosquito elimination

Only 3 Days Left To Contribute To The Christmas Party's Fund

Greater Number of Children Than Anticipated Results in Use Of Oceana School For Entertainment; Plea For Assistance Continues.

Reporting a total of 329 needy white children found in the county between the ages of four and sixteen, all of whom have been invited to attend the Christmas Party sponsored by the Woman's Club of Princess Anne county, Mrs. Edward H. Herbert and her hardworking associates today will swing into the final phase of their campaign to secure sufficient clothing, toys, food and supplies to insure a proper Christmas for those who will be present at the festivities.

In order to accommodate the increased number of children found over that anticipated by the committee, the Christmas Party will be held in the Oceana School instead of the Uhermer clubhouse as previously announced. Appropriate seasonal decorations will change the usually prosaic school building into a festooned and garlanded spot, filled with the spirit and joy of Christmas, even to a large Christmas tree and a very jolly Santa Claus, which role will be played by John Doyle. Decorations for the party will be handled by the Girl Scouts of the county.

$128.40 Collected to Date

To date, Mrs. Herbert reported yesterday, a total of $128.40 has been contributed in money, as well as many bundles of clothing and toys and food. This amount will be wisely spent to assure the greatest amount of happiness and comfort for the greatest number, but additional contributions must be had if the entire 329 boys and girls, not to forget their younger brothers and sisters who will not attend the Christmas party, are to be given some token or tokens indicative of the Christmas season. Only three days remain before the party, which will be held Monday afternoon, but the committee in charge will accept contributions up to the last minute.

Remember, they urge, that the need is very great, and the tragedy of insufficiency will be a blot on the otherwise perfect plans which have reached completion. The public response has been generous thus far, but the increased number of children makes imperative an even greater response in these closing days.

Added Funds Urged

Contributions may be sent to Mrs. E. H. Herbert, at the Norfolk Water Works; to Mrs. C. M. Hodgman, R. F. D. No. 2, or to the office of the Virginia Beach News. Remember the needy children in making your plans for the holiday season.

The completed program, as announced yesterday, includes several Christmas stories, to be told by Mrs. Stuart Johns; songs by Mrs. John E. Addenbrook; dances, The Bluebird, by Constance Crockett and The Toy Soldier; by Thirza Trant, and group singing of carols, led by Mrs. Addenbrook. The accompaniment for the vocal numbers will be played by the Rev. Reginald Eastman, rector of Galilee Church. Presents will be distributed by John Doyle in the role of Santa Claus.

Mrs. Herbert recently was informed by the Lions Club of Virginia Beach that its members had intended giving such a party as that

CHURCHES OFFER VARIED SERVICES

Local Congregations to Open Christmas Festivities In County Tonight.

Beginning tonight, churches of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne county will observe the Christmas season with a series of children's parties, pageants and special services which will continue through Christmas Day. The following announcements of such services were made this week:

First Presbyterian Church, Virginia Beach. The Christmas service will be held Sunday night, at 7:30 o'clock. The program will include a tableau of the Christmas story presented by a class of senior girls from the Sunday School. Those participating in the tableau are Merle Ambrun, Marian Brothers, Dora Janette, Mary Lee, Miriam Stith, Virginia Ann Trull, Ethel Ware, Marie Ware and Joie White.

The offering to be taken during this service will consist of toys and food for the needy in the community, and gifts of money will be sent to the executive committee of Ministerial Relief, an agency of the Presbyterian Church which serves the needs of aged ministers, their widows and orphans.

Tonight, at 7:30 o'clock, the children of the Sunday School will be entertained at a Christmas Party, at which time each member will be presented with a Christmas gift, candy and fruit.

Star of the Sea Church, Christmas. The service will be held at the midnight mass on Christmas Eve, beginning on the stroke of midnight. A simple rendition of all the well-known hymns and carols of the Holy Season will unfold during the mass, and the Manger of Bethlehem will be as realistic as in former years. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will follow after the mass.

The altar will be ablaze with lights and flowers. Poinsettias have been donated by two members of the congregation and their

COMMUNITY FUND OPENS CAMPAIGN

Virginia Beach Organization Seeks Assistance For Many Local Indigent.

Seeking to raise an amount not less than the $250 subscribed last year, the Virginia Beach Community Fund this week is mailing its annual appeal for assistance to representative citizens of the town and the surrounding community. According to H. G. Moore, chairman of the association, the need this year is extremely great, with the prospect that colder weather will bring an increased amount of suffering and hardship.

During the four years of its existence, the Community Fund has continued in great measure

VIGOROUS DRIVE FOR ROAD SAFETY BEGUN BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The following article on the safety campaign sponsored by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce is reprinted from the December, 1935, issue of The Commonwealth, official publication of the State Chamber.

SUDDEN DEATH—or slower, safer, saner driving for safety! Safer highways—or the destruction of profitable motor travel business!

Will the fighting force of aroused public opinion in Virginia demand effective highway safety with growing tourist profits, or countenance slaughter in traffic on our streets and roads with destruction of our new-born travel business?

The answer to that question lies on the doorstep of every citizen in the big cities and remote villages; on the counter of every business man in the urban centers and rural sections; at the gate of every scenic attraction and natural wonder, seashore and mountain resort, and historic shrine; on the desk of every public official;

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE LAGS HERE; NEW PLEA MADE

County Association Still Far Short of Goal Set for Present Drive.

PEERY URGES SUPPORT

Recites Need For Continued War on Disease.

With only $295.05 reported collected through last weekend in the annual Christmas Seal sale, the County Tuberculosis Association faces the last week of the campaign with the possibility of abject failure, unless a wider response is obtained from the general public. A goal of $616 has been set for Princess Anne county and Virginia Beach, which sum is to be raised by Christmas Day, but present indications of a greatly decreased total are now apparent.

Leading all local chairmen in the amount collected, Mrs. E. D. White, of Kempsville, reported a total of $98.20. Mrs. Edgar Trant, head of the Virginia Beach drive, was second with $79.45. Mrs. L. L. Hancock, of Creeds, came next with $46; Mrs. A. A. Dixon, of Seaboard, reported $33.40; Mrs. E. J. Smith's Lynnhaven unit collected $27.50, and Mrs. H. C. Old's collections from Lynnhaven, without any reported increase for the past week, remain at $29.50.

Prompt Returns Urged

Mrs. Rufus Parks, general chairman of the local drive, urged again that those who have not yet made their contributions to this worthy cause do so at the earliest possible moment. It is the desire of the committee to clear up as many of the accounts as possible by Christmas, and to accomplish such an end the cooperation of all workers and citizens is necessary. Great concern was expressed this week by Governor George C. Peery when he learned that the returns from the seal sale in this and other counties were not coming in as generously as he had anticipated.

1,948 Lives Lost Last Year

"Last year," he said, "Virginia lost 1,948 persons through deaths from tuberculosis. These people were, for the most part, young—308 of them were under twenty years of age. Between the ages of twenty and forty-four years there were 976 deaths from tuberculosis (268 of this number were from twenty to twenty-four years of age, just out of college). In the older ages there were fewer deaths from this disease which has been termed the 'toe of youth,' but 349 persons were its victims between forty-five and sixty-five years old. "Virginia cannot make provision for the care of all of its tuberculous victims, and the Virginia Tuberculosis Association and its county and city branches throughout the state are rendering invaluable aid in the prevention and

64 Years Of Service To Retire From Clerk's Office In January

Efficiency of Woodhouse and His Staff Widely Praised by Frequenters of Office; Norfolk Man Will Serve as Hudgins' Chief Deputy.

When County Clerk J. F. Woodhouse turns over the key to his office to W. F. Hudgins on January 1 and retires, with his staff, to private life, faces seen for many years in and about the County House will be missed by the clerk's office. In all, 64 years of experience will bid farewell to four familiar jobs, stepping aside for the new appointees of the incoming clerk.

It is not anticipated that any one of the present force will be asked to continue on her job by Mr. Hudgins. Only one of his appointees has been announced to date, but, as regularly happens in such a situation, an entirely new personnel is looked for.

For Jack Woodhouse, January 1 will mean the end of 24 years of association with Princess Anne's records and courts, eight of which were spent as a deputy and sixteen as the clerk elected by the voters. Members of the bar of this county

Norfolk city and county, who have worked closely with him during these years, have expressed sincere regret at his departure, praising his work as a county officer and his efficiency in handling the manifold details of his office. The condition of the records (Continued on Page Five)

OCEANA SCHOOL LEADS IN COUNTY

Attendance Honors For Second Successive Month Garnered by Pupils.

For the second successive month of the present school term, the Oceana School led all other county enrollments in the matter of attendance, reporting an average of 96.28 for the month of November, a slightly lower mark than that set for October. The Willoughby T. Cooke School, which placed fifth in the first month's report, landed in second place during this period, running a neck and neck race with the leaders and losing out by .98 of a point.

Charity continued in third place, recording an average attendance of 94.79, and Creeds, which last month was second among the eight schools, slipped to fourth place, with 94.21. Other schools and their averages were: Bayside, 93.74; Kempsville, 93.02; Court House, 92.74, and Blackwater, 92.

Home Room Leads Again

Tenth grade of Charity School, which last month won the individual room honors, repeated again in November, leading all other home rooms with a record of 99.2. Mr. Williams is the teacher in charge of the honored room. Second place went to the third grade class taught by Miss Hunter, of Willoughby T. Cooke School, the pupils averaging an attendance of 98.46 for the month. Other rooms in the first ten in the following order:

Eleventh grade, Creeds, taught by Miss de Witt, 98.4; second grade, Oceana, taught by Mrs. Peters, and Miss Bailey's seventh grade, Charity, tied for fourth place, with an average of 92.1; eighth grade, Oceana, taught by Miss Gornio, 91.83; fourth grade, Oceana, taught by Miss Ligon, 91.7; second grade, taught by Mrs. Butt, Willoughby T. Cooke, 91.64; Miss Dabney's fifth grade, Willoughby T. Cooke, and the Kempsville ninth grade, taught by Mr. Waring, were tied at 91.6; eighth grade, Creeds, taught by Miss Fickett, 91.5, and Miss Williams' sixth and seventh grade room, Blackwater, 91.

BOARD ACCEPTS BELANGA BID ON REFUSE REMOVAL FOR SHORE DRIVE

Salem Man Submits Lowest Contract For Collection of Garbage and Trash.

MEETING MARKS FINAL SESSION FOR OLD BODY

New Supervisors Attend: Organization Date Set For First Monday of Year.

Robert W. Belanga, of Salem, last Monday was awarded the contract for the collection of garbage in East Ocean View, Chesapeake Beach and Ocean Park by the Board of Supervisors. His bid of $974.50 for the work over a twelve-month period was considerably lower than that submitted by any of the other six bidders, and the contract was awarded him by the unanimous vote of the full board.

According to the specifications agreed upon at the November meeting of the supervisors, garbage collections will be made daily in these three sections of the county from May 15 to December 15, and semi-weekly during the other months of the year. Bond covering the amount of his contract must be posted by Mr. Belanga prior to final completion of the agreement. Other bidders and the amounts sought were: M. J. Farrar, $1,500; L. S. Gallup, $1,123; M. J. Murray, $1,260; George Hoffman, $1,400; Joseph Holland, $1,565, and Harold Netherlands, $2,400.

Swan Song For Board

The December meeting of the board marked the last session for all of the present incumbents save M. C. Mansfield, of Blackwater, who was reelected without opposition in the recent primary. Present gossip has it that he will serve as chairman of the new board, which will hold its organizational meeting Monday, January 6, at the Court House. W. F. Hudgins, supervisor from Kempsville, will take over J. F. Woodhouse's position as clerk of the circuit court, and George W. Dawley, of Pungo, Milton James, of Seaboard, and W. R. Payne, of Lynnhaven, will be succeeded by new members.

W. M. Thomas, of Kempsville, David Y. Malbon, of Seaboard, and L. H. Vaughan, of Pungo, three of the new incoming members of the board, were present at Monday's session. George Lawrence, of Lynnhaven, is the other new member.

Construction Foreman Elected

J. F. Miller, of Oceana, was elected foreman of the construction crew which will work on the second floor addition to the present clerk's office. Messrs. Dawley and Payne approved his selection. Hudgins dissented, and Mansfield did not vote.

According to WPA officials, materials for the new building will

Potato Committee Post For Etheridge

R. T. Etheridge, of Black Bay, this week received notice of his appointment to the Virginia State Potato Committee, charged with the administration of the potato control bill passed by the legislature. Notification of Mr. Etheridge's appointment, which is regarded as a splendid thing for Princess Anne county, will come through the office of H. B. Erick, of Blackwater, state potato chief.

In carrying out the provisions of the potato control act, the state committee will serve a twofold purpose, acting as a steering group in determining the potato policies for the administration of the act and as a review board to establish county quotas. The committee will play an important role in getting underway the first campaign of the new AAA setup.

Serving with Mr. Etheridge will be A. Preston Scott, of Cape Charles, and H. A. Willis, of Cooper, Norman Deane, of Chesapeake, and V. G. Shaw, of Deane, are alternates.

"THE VOICE of a majority, swaying the course of government does not insure good government except it be the voice of a well-informed and well-intentioned people."

A FINAL WORD ON THE CHRISTMAS PARTY

But three days remain before the staging of the first countywide Christmas Party by the Woman's Club of Princess Anne. The many contributions received during the past two weeks have aided materially in providing some bit of Yuletide joy for many unfortunate children, yet each and every dollar collected during these final hours will mean just so much more happiness to homes where there will be no Christmas unless your generosity insures the purchase of a few toys, needed clothing and, perhaps, a basket of food.

"Inasmuch as ye do it unto the least of these, ye do it unto Me." The dreadful spectre of poverty stalks at the waters' edge and over the hill, and the moans of hungry, poorly clothed children rise and swell even as the bells ring out the message of Christmas. Remember these children, we ask in this final plea, do some little thing for them which will still, if for a day, some bit of the anguish and the despair which only those steeped in poverty can know. Your holiday will be the happier for the gesture, and the smiles of gratitude that will light up your and pinched faces will bring each of us closer to the essential spirit which brought a new meaning to life more than two thousand years ago.

Charity for most of us during the year is an academic study, a careful weighing and checking of the many pleas for help which regularly fall about us. Let us rather, as we strive to recreate the old legend of "Peace on earth, goodwill to man" at this season, give to these needy children from hearts which recognize the close bond existing between the young and the innocent and the true meaning of the day which we are about to celebrate. Let us take the valuation of the child as our own in considering our contribution to the Christmas Party.

A PLEA FOR THE CCC CAMP

Unless announced plans are changed between this date and January 1, the Civilian Conservation Corps now working at Port Story and at the State Military Encampment will be shifted to some other section of the country, leaving in an uncompleted state the valuable work the boys have been doing under Captain Myers and Captain Jackson. Such a move is to be forestalled if possible, for the need for such labor is apparent to all familiar with the nature of their work.

At the Rifle Range, for example, an approximate fifty acres of ground, hitherto unusable for military tactics, have been reclaimed and put in proper order. According to Captain Jackson, if the corps can remain here, other fifty acres will be put into similar shape, so increasing the tactical area and usefulness of the encampment. Such additions, of course, will not eliminate the need for increased acreage demanded by modern military training, but they will insure a higher status of usefulness for the present site.

Captain Myers reports that a similar good work is being done in the Port Story area. He joins with Captain Jackson in urging interest on the part of county residents towards retaining the corps here until the work set out for them has been accomplished.

Brigadier-general S. Gardner Waller, Adjutant-general of the State, has appealed to Senators Glass and Byrd and Representative Darden for support in obtaining cancellation of the moving order. All have agreed to seek such a change in Washington, but the evincing of interest on the part of local people also is needed to insure success for the measure. It is our hope that such support will be forthcoming in vigorous fashion.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY

Just when we may look for a substantial and lasting recovery in our industrial life is problematical. It is due now. Since the days of the Thirties, probably before, there have been years of plenty and years of famine, and these will, in all probability continue until the end of time, should there be an end of time. The immutable laws of nature will continue to function and will in the future, as in the past, most largely control such matters. Politics and governmental policies throughout the world necessarily advance or retard, but usually these do not control.

That with which we are most interested are conditions as we find them in our own country. It is a fact that with us, as with others, there are periods of prosperity and periods of panic followed by depression. Since the foundation of our Republic, there have been six major financial crises followed by a reconstruction or liquidating process. Of course, there have been several minor depressions during which business would slow down but revive without serious consequences. The major crises occurred in 1820, 1837, 1857, 1873, 1893, 1907 and 1929.

It has been the custom of politicians to take advantage of a crisis and the following depression to harangue the people on the plea that the party in power was responsible for the dire calamity that had befallen the public, that the rascals should be kicked out and the protestors given their places.

We are all familiar with the full dinner pail slogan of the Republican party. As a matter of fact, no political party has a monopoly on prosperity, nor has either party anything to do with the crises. The Democrats were in control of the Federal government in the 1820, 1837, 1857 and 1893 panics; the Republicans in 1873, 1907 and 1929, but the crisis of 1893 broke in June after Cleveland's inauguration in March. Therefore, the causes, if political, (they were not), should be credited to the Republican party.

It will be noted that these crises occurred approximately—each twenty years and in every case they have been followed by depressions in business, which have invariably lasted just six years. Hence, we say that a revival of business is due now (the 1929 crisis broke in October, six years ago) and there are many indications that it has come; but has it? It would seem that there are many retarding influences yet to be smoothed out, but we have not the space to elaborate upon them.

All crises and the depressions incident thereto have largely been superinduced by high prices, suddenly restricted credits, and some times, accentuated by inelastic currencies. Values are relative. When credits are easy and money circulates freely, the temptation to speculate has been, through all time, irresistible among all classes; conservatism is thrown to the winds; the fever is contagious; cash and credit created through years of toil and self-denial are thrown into a maelstrom of speculation in the hope and expectation of easy money; values soar; the wise investor begins to unload; credits are restricted; loans are called; purchasers become nonexistent; the bottom drops out of the market and the inevitable crisis follows. Then comes the period of liquidation, foreclosures, receiverships and under-production.

Is not this as it should be? Should not these who lose pay the price of their folly?

Prior to the crisis of 1929, the government has taken no part in attempting to save those whose improvident folly has brought disaster. It has not thought that the General Welfare clause of the Constitution could be construed to justify the appropriation of money belonging to all to bolster up and save the improvident speculator; to the taking of one man's money and giving it to another.

It is the function of government to enact and administer laws for the protection of life and limb, and every one in the enjoyment of the fruits of his labor, to encourage those who "make two blades of grass grow where one formerly grew." Those who have violated our laws and unscrupulously taken from his fellowman should be, and have been, when discovered, punished. But why penalize with heavy taxes those who have made our nation the most thrifty in all of the world and waste it in wild, unound, governmental theories and speculations under the false plea of emergency? Why tax one man and attempt to exempt another? Can it be done? Is not every man, woman and child paying the tax in the high cost of living? The government can destroy the rich by punitive income, estate, inheritance and other taxes, under the plea of governmental necessity, for expanding bureaucracy, but when they are destroyed, who will pay the tax? When before in the history of our country has our government attempted to array class against class? Sow the seeds of discord and pave the way for the pulling down of the columns of our governmental temple, thus destroying not only the temple but the multitude as well? Is it not a parallel, in the misuse of its strength, to Sampson when he took his own life in order that he might slay the Philistine multitude?

The tragedy of our governmental policies lay not only in the exhaustion of its credit, the people's credit, which sooner or later must be paid by taxes, redemption or printing press money, all leading to the same end, but also in the greater loss of our constitutional guarantees—our liberty—and the substitution thereof, of tyranny and oppression. The former, in time, can be restored by a return to sane and sound principles, but the latter will never be regained. An inch of authority once assumed by any government, soon becomes an all. No government ever voluntarily surrenders a power once granted, assumed, yielded or arbitrarily taken. This is the great tragedy.

THE MANUFACTURERS

A great hue and cry has gone forth because our manufacturing interest has peaceably and lawfully assembled, announced a code of principles and decided to contend by all lawful means for existence.

Is there anything wrong in their so doing? Does not our constitution reserve to the people the right to peaceably assemble and petition for a redress of their grievances, and if need be, legally contend for their political rights? This is all they have done. Whatever privileges they have enjoyed in the past have been legally granted. They asked no special privilege upon this occasion, merely the right to exist without being hamstrung by the government.

Even a yellow dog will fight for the bone upon which his existence depends. Has there been any outcry against the veterans of foreign wars because they have peaceably assembled and organized to legally contend for what they consider their rights? Has there been any protest against labor for peaceably assembling and organizing for self-preservation? Then why this howl against the manufacturers for doing the same? The answer is envy, malice, the determination to destroy those who give employment to and put bread in the mouths of millions who otherwise would be destitute. Share the wealth, and a multitude of similar vagaries too numerous to mention.

There are evidences that the American people are beginning to think and in thought there is safety. Bishop Denny, in addressing a class of theological students, whom he was ordaining for the ministry, admonished them "that the rarest thing to be found in life is a thinker." Therefore, I admonish those who may read these lines to think. Think for the children whom they have brought into this world; think for those yet unborn; think to the end that you do not sell their birthright for a mess of pottage.

At The Water's Edge

By DON SEIWEL

THE SEASHORE STATE PARK

When, more than seven years ago, the Tidewater area of Virginia absorbed more than $100,000 to the Mountain Park project, and added substantial sums since that time to the Shenandoah National Park, it did so with the faith that a Seashore State Park would be created in the near future at or near Cape Henry. This section had every reason to believe such, for the State Commission on Conservation and Development had given its word that work would be begun here as soon as the necessary arrangements could be made.

We do not begrudge our contribution to the Western park, for none can question its need and its value, but, had we known that such damnable temporizing and delay were to mark the course of our own project—equally needed and equally approved in all sections of the state—we might have used that money for our own purposes in our own section. Then, at least, we would have had our park.

But this is all water over the dam. The money has gone into the Shenandoah Park, and we still are without even the definite assurance that our own project will be completed in the near future. Certain it is that even though the $13,000 sought to renew the option on the proposed property is forthcoming from the next session of the legislature, we have missed much in the way of Federal assistance which never can be regained. Today, because of the State's avoidance of the issue, a bare handful of men are working in the area, and there is every possibility that these will be recalled by the first of the new year.

We do not doubt that the Conservation and Development Commission has believed, and continues to believe that such a project is worthwhile and necessary, but the members have not measured up to their responsibilities or to their expressed promises in the creation of the park. They have allowed years to pass without any sign of action and now, unless they are goaded into a renewal of the option on the $200,000 worth of property, it is quite possible that they would forget the whole project. Fortunately, they will not be permitted to forget.

The proposed park is not merely a local idea, based on selfishness and a desire to have spent here an amount similar to that already expended in the western part of the state. The need for a seashore park has been expressed by every ranking official of the Department of the Interior and by park experts from all quarters of the country. More, the site selected for Virginia's park has been commended by one and all as the most suitable property to be found on the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to South Carolina, the ideal spot for a project for which a national need exists.

The Federal government stands ready to continue its expenditure of money in the development of the park if the title rests with the State. It is not to be expected that the Federal agency will consider pouring money into an area which might easily revert to private owners because of a lack of desire on the part of the Commonwealth to exercise its right of option, and, although $983,659 were spent here between October, 1933, and November of this year, there is little likelihood that another dollar will be forthcoming until definite action is taken on the project, one way or another. We can find no fault with the Federal agency for its stand; our quarrel rests entirely with the Conservation and Development Commission.

To continue Federal participation will not require an obligation to pay the $200,000 at this time; the whole question is one of intent and good faith. The commission had the property surveyed and two independent valuations placed on it. The commission can have it revalued now and, under the law, has the right of condemnation. Final determination of the value of the site, tract of land, other than that decided outright by the Cape Henry Syndicate in 1933, and the length of time consumed in the adjustment of this phase of the matter rests entirely with the commission. Now is the time for its members to announce in no uncertain terms just what their action is to be.

Although Virginia cannot be charged with laxity in the preserving of its many historic shrines and scenic splendors, it must be stated without argument that this immediate action has not received the consideration of others. America's history began in Princess Anne county, for it was at Cape Henry that the first permanent English settlers in America landed—on April 26, 1607—before proceeding to Jamestown. Yet, Cape Henry has not received the attention given to Jamestown, to Williamsburg or to Yorktown, with which it is so intimately associated.

The inclusion of this spot, greater by far historically than the much exploited Plymouth Rock, in the Seashore Park would make it at once the mecca for innumerable thousands of history-minded and recreation-seeking people, for both features can be found in the proposed area. It often has been our thought that the State is losing many millions of tourist dollars by its exclusion from advertising of this famous territory, which, more than any other location within Virginia's borders, is deserving of recognition.

The value of such a park to the development of Princess Anne county and Virginia Beach cannot be calculated, but some comparison is to be drawn from the increased revenues now pouring into restored Williamsburg, the Colonial National Monument at Yorktown and the Shenandoah National Park. We would not stress such a commercial side of the venture, but it is easily seen that the initial cost of development—most of which will be borne anyway by the Federal government—will be repaid many times over in the revenue to be collected from tourists.

All of the civic agencies operating in the county have expressed their approval of the project and have given it their heartiest support. Norfolk county and city have joined in the movement, as have all other sections of Tidewater Virginia, and assurances of cooperation have come from all parts of the state and nation. In the face of such united demands, we cannot see just what argument can be offered by the Conservation and Development Commission to delay further the desired action on the Seashore Park's development.

We would urge the active support of all residents and business interests within the county to the securing of legislative approval. Shortly after the convening of the 1936 assembly, the project will be presented, and the greater the body of supporters, the greater the weight of the argument. All must eventually benefit from such a park project as has been planned, with Princess Anne county certain to reap more than a just share of the returns.

It is not consistent, either with local pride or good business judgment, to delay further in proclaiming support for the measure. Too much delay already has robbed us of a right undeniably ours, and this is the time for action.

A 1913 PLATFORM FOR 1936

The National Association of Manufacturers concluded its convention at New York by adopting a "Platform for American Industry." By direct reference or by inference it attacks everything that has been done by the Roosevelt administration as unsound. In all 4,000 words there is not a single one mentioning with approval anything that has been done in Washington since March 4, 1933.

There is no word of praise for the bank reforms that were enacted in response to the frantic demand of business in 1933 for a banking system that the American people would trust; no word of approval for the billions of government money that were loaned to banks, insurance companies, railways and bond and security concerns, in default of which loans according to their own warnings at the time, they would have been forced into disastrous liquidation; not even a qualified recognition of the fact that, mistaken and ill-advised though some of the Roosevelt measures were, collectively they did have the effect of reversing the tide of pessimism that was engulfing the nation in the spring of 1933, and of initiating a return to confidence.

It takes belief that the Roosevelt administration has, as the manufacturers' manifesto suggests, been an unmitigated instrument of destruction—violative of everything that is sound in business practice, obstructing to recovery and repugnant to the basic principles of the American political system. Yet that is what this manifesto says or implies.

What does "the platform for American industry" propose? Specifically, it proposes nothing. Explaining the avoidance of any recommendations stated in terms of a repeal of this law or of an enactment of that law, it observes that "in opposing unsound economic and social measures it is unnecessary to propose alternatives." That makes things easier for the platform-designers but not for those whom the platform is supposed to enlighten.

Generally, "the platform for American industry" proposes what may be fairly described as a retreat along the whole legislative and operating front to that body of precedent and practice that was regarded by the more successful American manufacturers of the period 1900-1913 as the Bible and canon law of business. It is still best described by the term laissez-faire, despite the misuses to which that term has in recent years been put. It draws its economic philosophy, if not from McKinley and Hanna, then from Harding and Coolidge, and is as devoid of any recognition of the idea that domestic industrial evolution and world political change have altered the responsibilities of government, as the leaders of American industry in 1928 were of rottenness of the structure which supported our marvelous, permanent prosperity.

This is not to say that the platform of the manufacturers is an empty document. On the contrary, it criticizes much in the Roosevelt administration that needs criticism, and extols many a principle of economics and government that is basic—so basic, in fact, that most of them are the accepted axioms of the two major parties, and bulwarked by the Constitution. It is in the perplexing field of evolution—in the task of adapting old principles to new conditions, of recognizing the actuality of a radically changed domestic and international economy and accepting industry's changed responsibilities in it—as President Sloan, of General Motors, would have American industry do—that the platform of the National Association of Manufacturers fails. Worse, in this vital respect, it is very nearly a total loss.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

"THE KISS OF DEATH"

Mr. Hearst's search for a candidate to run against President Roosevelt in 1936 has a frantic quality. His growing dissatisfaction with the New Deal increases his nervous anxiety over the failure of the opposition to develop a candidate who stands head and shoulders above the crowd of prospects who are waiting for the lightning to strike. In his anxiety he goes about over the country in the role of a self-appointed nomination committee of one tapping prospective candidates on the shoulder, only to feel them shrink back from his touch.

He offered his blessing to Al Smith but the "Happy Warrior," who hasn't been so happy lately, didn't take kindly to the suggestion. He turned to former Governor Ritchie, of Maryland; Senator Byrd, of Virginia; and Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, lumping them together in a group of "outstanding Southern Democrats" from whom, he suggested, a standard-bearer for a combined Republican and conservative Democratic following might be selected. Mr. Ritchie responded with something in the nature of, "How nice!" Senator Byrd termed the suggestion "Absurd," and Governor Talmadge went on with his own private war against Mr. Roosevelt.

Senator Borah, who has been contributing to the literary creation of C. O. P. nerves by his disinclination to state definitely what he is going to do, became the object of Mr. Hearst's roving attention. But nothing has happened. Now Mr. Hearst places his finger upon Governor Landon, of Kansas, whose political star is in the ascendancy and who is regarded by many as the white hope of the Republican party in 1936. If Governor Landon does not respond promptly it is to be assumed that Mr. Hearst will move on to other fields in his frenzied portrayal of the role of the anti-New Deal finger man.

Governor Landon appears to possess many of the fundamental qualifications which are popularly associated with a Republican candidate for President. He is being talked about more and more because of his balanced state budget, of his business-like administration, of his conservative ideas of government. He has been regarded by many responsible observers as the most likely prospect for the Republican nomination. But will he be able to overcome the effect of the Hearst accolade? Will he shrink from it as others have done, or will he accept a Hearst endorsement which someone has strikingly characterized "The Kiss of Death?" The country will be interested to see which course the Kansas Governor will follow.—Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

Canine Carving Collects Cash

HERE is the result of the lucky day that Roscoe Borunda, New York sculptor, took her orange stick in one hand and a cake of soap in the other. "Sahki," the name of this beautiful sculpture, earned for its creator the first prize, professional class, of $250 in the Eleventh Annual Competition for Small Sculptures in White Soap.

Submitted along with more than 4,600 other carvings, by sculptors young and old, amateur and professional alike, "Sahki" is a striking example of the strides made in soap modeling since the beginning of the annual competitions twelve years ago.

The Twelfth Annual Competition for The Procter & Gamble prizes to total $2,500, will officially close on May 1, 1936, after which prize winning sculptures will be exhibited in libraries, museums and leading department stores throughout the country. Entry blanks for this competition may be obtained, free of

PROPHETS AND POETS
By Andre Maurois
Harper, 345pp. $2.00

A Review by Frank McLean, Norfolk Branch, The College of William and Mary.

Originally prepared as a series of lectures on the most significant and influential English authors of the 20th century, "Propheas and Poets" is an attempt to evaluate the work and ideas of nine writers: Kipling, Wells, Shaw, Chesterton, Conrad, Strachey, D. H. Lawrence, Aldous Huxley, and Katharine Mansfield.

Because the author, Andre Maurois, is not an Englishman he brings to his criticism both an advantage and a disadvantage, the effects of which are plainly visible throughout the book. The advantage is derived from the perspective which only a foreigner can command at a time when the authors under discussion are still with us, or have been but recently removed. In the case of Shaw, for example, the generation which has received his insults is hardly capable of viewing him with critical detachment. Much the same may be said about Wells, and Kipling and Chesterton. On the other hand, M. Maurois, adept though he is at understanding the English mind and the English speech, is still a Frenchman. A Frenchman cannot understand English psychology any more than an Englishman can understand French psychology. The deductions of a Frenchman about an Englishman are only relatively true, because, in spite of all that they can learn about each other, there are barriers of inheritance and temperament to be taken into consideration. M. Maurois' essays can be taken, then, as stimulating and thought-provoking. On the other hand, they do not say the last word on any of the persons discussed.

For many reasons I found the first four essays more interesting than those that follow. This may be because Kipling, Wells, Shaw, and Chesterton are really larger figures than the others, and so offer more grist for the critic's mill. Or it may be because these authors themselves have said more definitely than the others what they have to say.

The case of Kipling is especially interesting, because of the unusual course that Kipling criticism has taken. When Kipling was still a young man he was the most discussed and, perhaps, the most praised of living English writers. At an age when most successful authors are just coming into their greatest popularity, the tide of criticism turned, and Kipling was subjected to much damning with faint praise until it became a fashion to ignore him. He became known to everyone as the author of two or three overworked songs and of "It." It is doubtful if more than a negligible number of persons under twenty-five know anything at all about his prose. But within the last year or two the critics have again discovered Mr. Kipling. Today he is once more respectable, and it is highly probable that he may live long enough to find himself once more among the giants in popular esteem. M. Maurois thinks he belongs there, and has made a fine case for his client.

M. Maurois also believes that H. G. Wells is a greater artist than he has been generally considered. Of course, few persons who have tried to read Wells have been able to escape from his charm. But, with human perverseness, we have often attempted to account for our own lack of critical understanding by the belief that Wells was a clever rather than an artistic novelist, simply because Wells has possessed the power to be interesting and impressive while violating so many of our fixed ideas of what a novelist should do and say. Maurois sees many holes in Wells' theses and considers that his Utopian schemes are destined to amount to very little. On the other hand, he thinks that Wells, the artist, is an influence of great importance as well as a significant voice of his age and people.

Take as a whole, "Propheas and Poets" is not only a readable book; it is a suggestive series of criticisms and interpretations that is well worth while. Its greatest fault grows out of its raison d'être: originating as a course of lectures on individuals, it remains a series instead of becoming a unity. It lacks a summing up that will present an estimate of the group as a group; the nine authors are shown us as individuals, and not as a mass phenomenon of the early 20th century. But, while this is to be regretted, it is not a fatal fault. "Propheas and Poets" is a distinct contribution to the criticism of our times.

Next week, Armand de Caulaincourt's "With Napoleon in Russia" abridged and edited by George Libaire, will be reviewed by Stirling Barr. For loan of these books, apply to your local library, or the Extension Division, University, Virginia.

Tying A Gay Holiday Package

CAY ribbons made of colored Cellophane cellulose film in various widths will be used this year more generally than ever for the lovely bows and criss-crossings that make the Christmas package a delight even before it is opened. One of the most important things to remember when tying the holiday box or package is that the ribbon must be neatly tied to look its best.

The first step in tying a package is to cross the ribbon around the package, making the cross turn either near the top or bottom, or exactly in the middle, and tie tightly with a single knot, as shown in drawing No. 1. Then cut the ribbon from the roll.

Now start fashioning the bow separate from the package itself. Form the first loop as shown in drawing No. 2, holding it with the thumb and second finger of the left hand, trying the ribbon, very firmly, at the intersection, using the same two fingers.

Then continue the ribbon to make the second loop as shown in drawing No. 3. Keep it flat while making these loops and it is also quite necessary to keep the intersection of the ribbon, firmly after you add each new loop.

Repeat the process, adding an Charity: Elton Davis, president, and Mabel Brumley, secretary. An increase in membership is reported by the Charity club, which now lists 33 members.

Officers of the Kempsville club were reported several weeks ago. Richard Brown is president; Tommy Land, vice-president; Isabel Oliver, secretary, and Marcus Oliver, reporter. No information was available as to the new membership.

Club "500" Sponsors Yule Dance Series

Special Christmas night and New Year's Eve dances will be featured at the Club "500," located on the Shore Drive in the quarters of the old Hygeia Club. Manager Wakeley announced this week. Professional talent from New York night clubs will appear in the floor shows, with bands of considerable reputation on hand for the dancing.

Additional talent also has been booked for the regular Saturday night dances. Mr. Wakeley stated, which have been gaining in popularity throughout the entire fall. The New Year's Eve dance will be a reservation affair, and it is anticipated that it will be largely patronized by local people.

Alva, Scotland has stopped the use in the public library of book covers bearing liquor advertisements.

FOR A GAY CHRISTMAS MANTEL

Modern Home Decoration Service gummed tape and apply the silver paper.

A new handicraft for house decoration has appeared this holiday season. Drinking straws of Cellophane cellulose film are being made into Christmas trees, candle holders, and other ornaments for mantel, window, or table.

The tree illustrated is built on a 18" cone of cardboard, covered with silver paper. The trunk is an 18 1/2" dowel, tied at both ends with "three 6" wires, allowing 3/4" of wire to extend beyond. Cover dowel with silver paper and bend top wires inside cone, fastening with Scotch cellulose tape. Bend bottom wires sideways and attach to 6" cardboard circle. Then make 8" circle, cut from edge to center, lap to form cone for tree base. Cut the smaller circle from center, to make cone fit trunk. Fasten with gummed tape and apply the silver paper. Four blue and four white straws are cut 4" long and wound tightly at center with spool wire. Add other clusters on same wire until string fits lower edge of tree cone. Attach with Scotch tape. Continue adding strings of straws until top of tree is reached. The halo at top is made from wrapping of clear cellulose film, cutting a piece 4" x 12" and folding in 1/16" accordion pleats. Catch in center with spool wire, spread pleats and fasten one end together with folded tape. Other ends are taped to tree. Glue silver paper star on either side.

The matching candle holders are made of silver-covered cardboard. Cut trimmed with the transparent straws in the same manner, and accented with the halo.

RYE PRODUCTION BASE EXPLAINED

Three Types of Producers Are Included For Consideration In Schedule.

As most farmers do not have reliable figures on their past production, says County Agent H. W. Ozlin, the average past production for each farm in the rye adjustment program will be based upon estimates of yield made by the local committees. The average yield per acre used for this purpose will be that for the years 1928 to 1932 inclusive.

Use of two base periods, 1930-1932 and 1933-35, makes the program adaptable in general for three types of producers. These are: (1) those who harvested rye as grain in the first period, whether or not they continued to plant rye in the second period; (2) those who grew a little rye in the first period, but who increased rye-grain production sharply in the second period; (3) those who grew no rye in the first period, but have become producers of rye for grain in the second period.

For the first class of producers, the starting point is their average acreage of rye harvested in the first three years. If a producer planted rye in each year of the second period, his base acreage is his average for the first period. However, the base acreage is reduced 5 percent for each year of the second period in which no rye was planted. Thus, if he had a 100-acre average for the first period, and planted only one year out of the last three, his base acreage would be reduced 5 percent for each of the two years he did not plant, and his base acreage would be 90 acres.

Producers who grew little rye in the first period, but who grew it on a larger scale in the second period, may change the basis for determining their base acreage from the first to the second period. Producers doing this are guaranteed a base acreage of at least three-fourths of their average acreage in the first period. The maximum acreage a producer can be assigned under this plan is the average of the two highest years he had in the second period.

Within the limits of acreage available, farmers who produced rye in at least two years of the second period may, generally, receive acreage bases up to the average of their two years of highest acreage in that period. The average annual rye production for each new base period farm will be two-thirds of the acreage determined for the farm multiplied by the estimated yield per acre. The farm allotment, upon which benefit payments will be made, will be 30 percent of this computed average annual production.

For instance, a farmer with an acreage allotment of 25 acres and

Crystal Club Band In Oklahoma City

Word recently reached this office that Bill Allbrook and his orchestra, featured at the Crystal Club during the past summer, are now enjoying a two month vacation at the Skirvin Hotel in Oklahoma City. The band consists of the same personnel as during the summer, with Jimmy White and Amy Arnell featured soloists, and all are ready, their letter informs, to return to Virginia Beach.

For commercial reasons, the name of the band has been changed to Billy Brooks and His Orchestra, under which name it is being featured in prominent night clubs and hotels throughout the east and south. Following the Oklahoma City engagement, the band will tour through Louisiana, Texas and Florida, returning to the Crystal Club again in June.

Allbrook and his band are achieving tremendous popularity on their tour, and their number of radio engagements have increased greatly during the past few months. The work of the blonde Amy and the smiling Jimmy in their vocalizations continues to add to the popular appeal of the instrumental numbers.

"Mary" Christmas

(The wife of Santa Claus)
BETTY BARCLAY

We hear a lot about "Merry" Christmas and about old Santa but how about "Mary" Christmas for a change? Her sack is not filled with drums and bells, but with things to eat—holiday goodies, new and delicious.

It is she who suggests such goodies as hors d'oeuvres of pickles and asparagus, a novel cocktail and a macaroni stuffing for the fowl. Even the most expert roaster of turkey and baker of pie will appreciate the following recipes for holiday "specials."

Emergency Hors d'Oeuvres
Tiny asparagus tips
Pimiento
Sweet mixed pickles

For each serving, arrange on a small plate six tiny asparagus tips with ends radiating from center of plate, having tips toward edge of plate. In the center place a selection of several pieces of sweet mixed pickles. Garnish each asparagus tip with a tiny strip of pimiento.

Christmas Cocktail
2 cups cranberries
2 cups water
3 cloves
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup "violet" pineapple juice
1 lb. lemon juice
Crushed ice
Maraschino cherries

Cook the cranberries in the water with the cloves until berries burst, or about 5 minutes. Strain through a sieve lined with wet cheesecloth. Add the sugar and stir over low heat until the sugar is dissolved. Cool, and add the pineapple juice and lemon juice. Pour over crushed ice in glasses. Garnish with sliced maraschino cherries cut in circles. 8 servings.

Creole Ambrosia
A New Orleans Dish
3 cups orange sections, free from membranes
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1 drop almond extract
1/2 cup moist, sweetened coconut

Christmas Jam
3 pounds prunes
3 pounds seedless raisins
2 pounds sugar
3 oranges
1/2 pound sliced Brazil nuts

Soak prunes in water, cook and stone. Four two cups of water over the stones and let stand one hour. Pour off this water and add it to the prunes and juice, raisins, sugar, orange pulp and rind cut fine. Cook twenty minutes. Add nuts and cook one minute. Pour into clean, hot jars and seal. Plums in season may be used instead of the prunes.

And here is a macaroni stuffing for that holiday turkey. To most of you it is something new. It takes only a few minutes to make but Oh, how tasty!

Macaroni Stuffing
1 pound elbow or short-cut macaroni
4 eggs
3 tablespoons paprika
1 clove garlic
6 tablespoons shortening
4 or 6 onions, chopped fine
4 teaspoons salt
4 teaspoons poultry dressing

Cook macaroni about 6 to 8 minutes in 4 quarts boiling water, adding 3 teaspoons salt and 2 tablespoons shortening. Drain macaroni and add melted shortening. Then add eggs, onions and seasoning. Stuff mixture into turkey, not too tight.

This macaroni stuffing is not compact and heavy as are most stuffings, but has a very desirable lightness. It is easily digested, most nutritious, supplying a great deal of carbohydrate, a large amount of mineral matter and some valuable protein.

Pineapple Juice In Stuffing

Enhances Flavor of Turkey

By Jane Shaw

SERVED with plenty of delicious "stuffing", Christmas turkey is no longer the expensive item it was a few years back and there is real economy in buying a large bird, since it may be served in so many delightful ways.

Almost every woman knows how to prepare a turkey for roasting, but many do not know it is a good idea to get the bird ready the day before, not only to save time on Christmas day, but because the pungent stuffing imparts a fine flavor to the meat if it is allowed to remain over night, or for several hours, at least.

And here is an excellent stuffing recipe, calling for the use of natural, unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice which does much to enhance the flavor of our national table bird.

Apple Stuffing
8 large apples
2 1/2 cups day-old bread
2 teaspoons powdered sage
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup melted butter
2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice

Peel, core and chop finely the apples. Blend with the bread crumbs and seasonings, moisten with the pineapple juice.

This stuffing is also excellent with pork, duck or chicken.

And, by the way, a glass of natural unsweetened pineapple juice, with perhaps a dash of lemon, makes a delicious starter for any other meal.

Miss Joyce Coleman Dall will spend the Christmas holidays in Washington, D. C., with Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Reilly.

Mr. and Mrs. David Stormont and son, David Stormont, Jr., have gone to Miami, Florida, to pass the winter months.

TRANSIENT CAMP NOW UNDER WPA

will bring the feared malaria carrier under some semblance of control. Drainage also will curtail the breeding of the pest type of mosquito, found generally in the Virginia Beach area. Most of the work now being done with regard to the malarial type is centered about the southern end of the county.

The transients have been established in the cookrooms at the rifle range, where stoves have been installed and the quarters made fit for winter habitation. A surprising absence of illness and sickness is reported by camp officials and, when the camp was last visited, only one patient occupied the hospital. Good food, suitable living quarters and warm clothing, aided by work in the open air, are held responsible for the favorable health report.

Few Disorders
Since the establishment of the local camp last May 30, officials assert, only four of the men have been sent to jail. One, now serving a five-year term, was sentenced for stealing camp property, and the other three were fined up to ten days each for drunkenness. All other minor infractions of the rules have been handled satisfactorily by the camp executives. Under the spell of steady work and good food, there appears little effort on the part of the men to cause trouble. No cases involving use of the local jails have been reported in recent weeks.

The estimated monthly payroll of the camp will run over $5,000, all of which will be spent locally, in addition to the many thousands paid each week for food and camp equipment. It is the consensus of intelligent opinion that the camp, both in the work done and in the funds expended, is a distinct asset to Princess Anne county.

RURAL LIGHTING DATA PRESENTED

Only Seven and One-Half Per Cent of Homes Are Electrically Equipped.

Only a little over seven and a half per cent of Virginia's farms are lighted by electricity, the Virginia State Planning Board points out in its Natural Resources report, which is shortly to be delivered to Governor Peery, and in which it describes the need for additional investigation and research on the subject of the water resources of the state and presents figures pertaining to the known and undeveloped waterpower of the state. The counties of Fairfax, Norfolk, Henrico, Elizabeth City, Roanoke and Rockingham are the only ones in the state with 25 per cent of farm homes now electrically lighted, while more than 30 per cent of the State is well below the State average, several counties having 2 per cent or less of their farm homes electrically lighted. A map of power lines shows present facilities for distribution of power.

"As water is a limited factor in the growth of many activities and as its limiting effect has become more apparent with the increase in population and in the use of water for many purposes, the necessity for data relating to the supply of surface waters has become urgent and will increase as time passes and as the limits of possible use are approached," the Board comments.

Information Needed
"Intelligent and well directed planning requires this information. The more complete and accurate it is, the greater will be the assurance with which plans for the future may be made. The expense of preliminary investigation is usually an insignificant fraction of the entire cost of a project, but such work may frequently be the means of saving many times its cost in eliminating uncertain factors and providing sound bases for designs and plans."

Its report carries recommendations for the establishment of many stream gauging stations, the preparation of new maps to replace unsatisfactory material published almost fifty years ago and to cover new areas never mapped, and sets forth that stations for temperature and rainfall determination should be established in many places as the number of stations now in operation are inadequate to determine with proper accuracy the rainfall and temperature data needed. The modernization of recording stations, establishment of tidal gauging stations and studies of the chemical character of the surface waters are all included among the recommendations.

CLERK'S OFFICE STAFF PRAISED

maintained under his direction indicates highly satisfactory performance on his part.

His two deputies, Mrs. C. F. Simmons and Mrs. F. C. Casper, have been associated with the office for a total of 30 years. Mrs. Casper has served as secretary to the clerk and has been in charge of the general office routine. Late-ly, Mrs. Simmons has specialized in the preparation of indices and in the preparation and publication of court work. Miss Birdie Wood, who has served Mr. Woodhouse and the county for an additional ten years, has been in charge of all conditional contracts. Miss Jessie Smith, who has served as copyist for the office for almost three years, is the remaining member of the staff.

Tribute Paid Force
High tribute has been paid to these workers as well as to Mr. Woodhouse by those who have used the facilities of the office. Many frequenters to the record rooms confess that it will be difficult to accustom themselves to a new set of workers.

L. S. Beldon, of Craddock, for the last year deputy to A. B. Carney, Norfolk county clerk, has been selected as deputy by Mr. Hudgins. The Norfolk county man is expected to change his residence to Princess Anne some time after January 1, when he will take up his new duties.

Other appointees of Mr. Hudgins could not be learned this week. He and his deputy were sworn into office last Thursday by Justice B. D. White, of the Circuit Court.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilding, of Preston, England, claim a total of nine marriages, he having had five wives and she four husbands.

cure of tuberculosis. In 1934 these tuberculosis associations spent over $75,000 in the anti-tuberculosis campaigns in our state. I believe thoughtful people will wish to respond generously to the sale of Christmas seals and thereby help save the lives of our people who are suffering from tuberculosis, or exposed to its dangers."

Governor Peery remarked that "the Virginia Tuberculosis Association has mobilized the greatest number of volunteers since the World War to carry on the fight against tuberculosis," and he added, "I hope they will meet with the cooperation of everybody who can buy Christmas seals."

TREATY FAVORS COUNTY GROWERS

Canadian Fact Believed Impetus to Shippers of Local Vegetables.

Princess Anne farmers who grow spinach, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, celery, lettuce and other vegetables stand to benefit greatly from the recently approved Canadian trade agreement, according to information received this week from Washington. Because of the pact, it is pointed out, a great part of the $7,000,000 trade formerly enjoyed will be restored, thus proving a boon for commercial growers.

The bulletin reads as follows: "Growers of vegetables in the United States are afforded an opportunity by the recently signed Canadian trade agreement to obtain a substantial part of their former $6,000,000 trade with the Dominion, according to the Department of Commerce.

"Official Canadian statistics show that imports of fresh vegetables into Canada from the United States were valued at $7,816,000 during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1936. In the year ended March 31, 1935, this trade had declined to $2,750,000, a loss of $4,066,000," it was stated.

"Canada, it is pointed out, purchases approximately 90 per cent of the fresh vegetables exported from the United States. The shipment of these vegetables to the Canadian market extends throughout the year, but begins in considerable volume in November and reaches a peak during the months of March, April, May and June. Areas in the United States from which fresh vegetables are shipped during the period, November to June, should profit especially from the reductions in duties on these products, according to the Commerce Department. Imports into Canada are lowest during July, August, September and October, during which domestic fresh vegetables are readily available.

"Under the trade agreement recently concluded with Canada, the Canadian ad valorem duties have been reduced on some vegetable items by 50 per cent, while others have been placed on the free list. In addition, the minimum specific duties hitherto applicable during the season when vegetables from the United States compete with the Canadian will be entirely canceled, except on tomatoes.

"Probably of still more importance is the adjustment made with respect to valuations advanced during the competing season. On a number of vegetables, including tomatoes, the system of advances will be canceled entirely. On about a score of vegetables, Canada reserves the right to apply these valuations, but the agreement assures United States exporters that the additions to the invoice values will be at least one-fifth lower than heretofore. When the fact is considered that the ad valorem rates applicable to these reduced 'advance valuations' are also lower, as mentioned in an earlier paragraph, it is obvious that the reduction in total duty charges is substantial, it was stated.

"The changes in duties and other charges cover a large list of fresh vegetables. Among those which formerly enjoyed a good market in Canada are white potatoes, sweet potatoes, onions, cabbage, celery, lettuce, tomatoes, carrots, cucumbers and spinach. As vegetable production in Canada has increased but little in recent years, it would seem that with domestic prices benefitting somewhat from the reduced duties, renewed trade should approximate that of several years ago, according to the Commerce Department."

Pupils To Present Christmas Program

A Christmas program will be presented this afternoon in the auditorium of the Willoughby T. Cooke School, at Virginia Beach. Miss Mary Kellam announced yesterday. The program will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Carols of all nations will be sung by the children, led by Mrs. J. E. Addenbrook. Mrs. Stuart Johns will tell Christmas stories to the pupils and their guests.

Theater Previews

What happens when a shy and quiet young man suddenly tears loose and spends hundreds of dollars entertaining his best girl during a single night out is aptly revealed in Universal's comedy drama, "The Night Out," starring Edward Everett Horton, which opens today, December 20, for an engagement of two days. Supporting Horton in the feature attraction is beautiful Irene Hervey, cast as secretary to Horton's boss in a chain drug store concern.

Ken Maynard's first outdoor starring picture for Columbia, "Western Frontier," will also be shown today and tomorrow, December 20 and 21. It is a grim tale of cattle-rustling in the old West. Lucille Browne is Maynard's blonde leading lady.

Dick Powell, Fred Allen, Ann Dvorak, Paul Whiteman and his band, Patsey Kelly, Raymond Walburn and the Yacht Club Boys are among those contributing to the mirth and melody in "Thanks a Million," the 20th Century Musical which comes Sunday and Monday, December 22 and 23, to the Bayne Theatre. The story follows the adventures of a road troupe hitting the soft spots of America with Fred Allen as their presiding genius.

Tuesday, December 24, the Bayne Theatre presents Fox Film's comedy-drama, "Black Sheep," featuring Edmund Lowe, Claire Trevor and Tom Brown. The checkered past of six mysterious passengers aboard a transatlantic liner tangle in adventure that races to a whirlwind climax of uproarious fun!

"The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," a comedy drama starring Ronald Colman, Joan Bennett, Colin Clive, Nigel Bruce and others, will be the screen attraction at the Bayne Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, December 23 and 24. Colman is cast as a Russian royal refugee who wins a lot at Monte Carlo, then quits with the winnings. He falls in love with Miss Bennett, who with her brother have been sent to induce Colman to come back to play. She loves him too, but realizes too late to prevent his returning, losing all. However, the picture has a bright ending.

Stainless Steel Now Popular In Watches

Purchases of stainless steel watches by both men and women are reported to be steadily increasing—a further indication of the growing importance of the ultimate consumer to the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Stainless steel cases for wrist and pocket watches were introduced a few years ago, but the volume of sales remained small until recently when a big demand for the beautiful, never-tarnishing cases began to be noticed by retail jewelers located in all parts of the country.

Prominent among the reasons for the popularity of stainless steel watches are lower cost, especially when compared with gold which was advanced in price a year ago, and better wearing quality because of greater strength and hardness. Last, but not least, is the permanent resistance of stainless steel to tarnish or stain from any cause, a quality which is shared by solid gold and solid platinum, but not by plated materials which are more susceptible to wear.

Advertising What You Have To Sell

A YOUNG man living in one of the smaller cities recently decided to insert an advertisement in the daily newspaper in an effort to obtain a position. Some of his friends told him he was crazy. Boys were scarce as hen's teeth. Employers weren't going to bother to write or telephone prospective employees, even if they had a job open.

Within a week the young man had his job, and some of those who had prophesied failure most loudly were wondering why they hadn't thought of the same thing. It's doubtful, though, if they realized the real secret of his success, for he had used his ad to sell himself and his services just exactly as a manufacturer of grocery products uses advertising to sell his products.

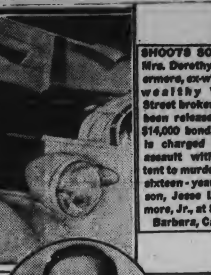

Before the young man wrote his ad he had sat down and studied his product—which in this case was his own self. He had decided to tell the prospective employer what he had to offer as an employee, and why he would be a credit to the business. In asking for a job he had advised more important than to put yourself in the place of an employer. He had told the employer what he could do, and why he was the best man for the job. He had told the employer what he could do, and why he was the best man for the job. He had told the employer what he could do, and why he was the best man for the job.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Opportunities for original greeting card snapshots are unlimited and a challenge to your ingenuity.

HOWEVER much we may jest our Spanish speaking neighbors for the expression "mañana" (tomorrow) as the time for doing anything, certainly when the time comes for Christmas shopping, it seems to be "mañana" throughout all America. This applies particularly to getting Christmas greeting cards ready.

It's the same old story every year. You solemnly resolve to have your greeting cards ready to mail early in December and end up by rushing frantically to a crowded store about December 20, to buy ordinary stock cards to serve as your Christmas greeting; no individuality; no signs of any thought on your part; just a greeting card of which probably millions were printed.

A Christmas card carrying a genuine greeting needs to be a very personal affair. Unless you are a hypocrite, your message is one of love and good will.

Have you ever stopped to consider the great advantage snapshot photographers have over ordinary folk when it comes to Christmas greeting time? Is there anything that will carry a personal message it is a photograph and your card will be unlike any others your friends may receive. There are many ways of using a snapshot in greeting cards. The photo finishers in your town are now prepared to make greeting cards for you—and inexpensive but attractive ones—using one of your own snapshots. It will pay you to investigate them, at least.

Mary E. Respass et al to R. D. Cooke, lot no. 2, block no. 17, plat of Virginia Beach. Securing $5400.

The opportunity for unusual and beautiful cards is without limit. It offers you your big chance to show your ingenuity. Above all see that your snapshot tells a story. Any one can point his camera and snap the shutter but it requires a little thought to get a real story-telling picture. Don't let your ingenuity run away with you in trying for an elaborate setting. That isn't necessary. Simple ideas are really the best and the chances are that they will "ring the bell" longer and longer than something pretentious or complicated.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ripe to Go

If you feel sore and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or powders and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they don't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-south feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels each day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. This blocks up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in 10 minutes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get this two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, among which it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the picture of a Little Liver Pill on the red label. Repeat a substitute. See drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Tureman spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lassiter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Baum, of New York, were guests of Mr. Baum's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Plant. Mr. and Mrs. Baum motored here from New York and on their return were accompanied by Miss Betty Plant, who will be their guest until Christmas.

J. R. Whitaker, of Enfield, N. C., and Penton Whitton Whitaker, of New Orleans, La., spent several days at the home of Mrs. R. L. Jennys at Rosemont.

Having sold his home on Virginia Avenue to Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lipscomb, H. M. Capps has started work on a new home at Oceana Gardens. The plans for Mr. Capps' new home call for an eight room Colonial Dutch style home. The home will be two stories and will face the Virginia Beach boulevard.

At a meeting of nearly fifty members of the Galilee Episcopal Church held Monday evening the building program for a large and new house of worship took definite form and the congregation voted to authorize the newly elected vestrymen to proceed at once with the necessary preliminaries in order that the church building might be ready for use before the coming summer season arrives.

W. M. Denning recently purchased the corner at Oceana on the boulevard and Little Neck road and work has commenced on the construction of a modern gas station and automobile accessory shop.

Plans of the county school board were made public today for the building of a $50,000 high school building at Oceana which is expected to be completed and ready for use when the institution opens for the 1937 session.

Through the Fain Manufacturing Company of Norfolk, a $137,000 apartment house will be built at Virginia Beach. The Alcazar Apartment Corporation has been formed and will construct the 42-unit apartment house. The building will be constructed according to a Spanish design and will be completely furnished.

Seven Conventions Booked at Cavalier

Seven organizations to date have definitely closed negotiations with the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach, for their 1936 conventions, and twice as many are in prospect for the year, Sydney Banks, manager of the hotel, announced.

Notable among the conventions recently booked is that of the Virginia State Bar Association. The Cavalier was selected at a meeting of the executive committee last week in Richmond. The convention will be held sometime in August, and will bring approximately 400 delegates and members of their families to the Cavalier.

Another important convention is that of the Phi Kappa Psi, national fraternity. The Cavalier Hotel was selected by the executive committee for their June convention. Three hundred delegates are expected, and the dates decided upon are June 24-27, inclusive. All final arrangements will be made December 28 when the national executive committee will meet at the Cavalier.

Another convention scheduled for June is that of the All-Southern States Chiropodists. About 400 delegates will attend from the entire Southern area. Dr. Harry R. Bybee, of Norfolk, is chairman of arrangements for the three-day meeting which probably will be held the second week in June.

In February, the Retail Clothiers and Furnishers of Virginia will hold their winter meeting at the Cavalier, bringing between 200 and 300 delegates for a three-day session.

In April, the annual Cape Henry Pilgrimage will bring many guests to the Cavalier. 250 guests attending the services.

The Potomac States Bakers and the Baltimore Bakers Club will hold their summer meeting at the Cavalier in May, and during the latter part of September, the Manor Club, of Washington, has made reservations for between 30 and 60 members who will stay several days and hold their annual meeting. Additional inquiries concerning the hotel are being received each day. Mr. Banks said and all signs point to an unusually busy year.

Attend some church and Sunday School this Sunday.

SHOW IS AIDED BY STATE GROUP

Poultrymen of Virginia Represented in Forthcoming New York Exposition.

Virginia will be prominently represented in the forthcoming Poultry Industries Exposition, to be held in the Port Authority Building, New York City, February 4 to 8, under the auspices of the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Council.

Widely known members of the State's extensive poultry industry are taking active part in the formulation of plans for the exposition and the State officially is arranging a display to show poultrymen who attend not only from Virginia but from the entire northeast, the activities of the State's agricultural department in behalf of its commercial poultrymen.

Chairman Named

State committee chairman from Virginia who are making every effort to assure adequate representation from the State in the Poultry Industries Exposition are the following: Carter M. Keane, Kilmarcock, egg show; Miss Hallie Hughes, Blacksburg, 4-H demonstrations; T. E. Burke, Salem, V.O.A.G. exhibits; H. B. Bowles, Charlottesville, breeders' exhibits; C. W. Wampler, Harrisonburg, turkey exhibits; W. S. Denmore, Roanoke, baby chick show; Hollis Shomo, State Department of Agriculture, Richmond, dressed poultry exhibits; Harry L. Moore, Virginia Agricultural Extension Division, Blacksburg, educational exhibits; and J. J. Bowers, Rt. 3, Roanoke, standard breed exhibits.

The Poultry Industries Exposition will be the first in which the interests of the producer, the distributor and the consumer of poultry and poultry products are combined, and will display to commercial poultrymen and laymen alike the supplies, equipment and services vital to the poultry industry. The Federal government and each of the 13 State governments in the area included in the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Council are preparing graphic representations for the exposition, which is designed to appeal principally to the commercial producer of poultry and poultry products.

The displays and demonstration will involve the use of the most modern commercial equipment for the efficient handling of poultry, as well as the methods employed for protection against disease and parasitic enemies. Concurrent with the exposition will be a series of lectures and clinics arranged for visiting poultrymen which will present the most authoritative speakers and poultry experts in the country.

VIGOROUS SAFETY DRIVE IS BEGUN

of Virginia in 1934, and the more than 600 who have been killed already in motor vehicle accidents in the state this year, each died an individual death of agony.

And when you call up that mental picture of a blood-splattered stretch of cold, hard roadway littered with a tangle of smashed and twisted steel and human flesh, do as J. C. Furnas in—And Sudden Death has dared you. "Take a look at yourself as the man in the white jacket shakes his head over you, tells the boys with the stretcher not to bother and turns away to somebody else who isn't quite dead yet."

As has been previously pointed out in "The Advancing Edge," the A. E. F. in eighteen months' fighting in France during the World War lost 50,510 in killed and 182,674 in wounded. During the eighteen months ended June 30, 1935, motor vehicle accidents in the United States killed 51,200 people and injured 1,304,000! For our uncontrolled peacetime traffic hazard we are paying a greater price nationally in death blood and human misery than the savagery of war cost us in 1917-18.

The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce would impress these facts into the consciousness of every Virginian—public official and citizen alike—with the hope of thereby stirring up an insistent, too-to-be-denied public demand for safety on our highways.

With this in view, the State Chamber will issue a special three-color triangular-shaped automobile sticker. These stickers, three inches in size, will contain the State Chamber's traffic slogan, "Slower, Sober, Saner Driving for Safety, in amber letters on a green and red background.

Permission to issue this sticker has been granted the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce by John G. Rhodes, Jr., director of the state Division of Motor Vehicles, with the stipulation that, when used it is to be placed in the right-hand corner of the windshield of the motor vehicle just above the official state inspection sticker. No advertising matter of any kind will be carried on the sticker.

Issuance of the sticker has been made possible by Garrett & Masie, Inc. of Richmond, who have made up the forms and printed the first lot of 10,000 as their contribution to the State Chamber's efforts to promote safety on the highways of Virginia. This first lot will be distributed by the State Chamber to its own members and through the local chambers of commerce and civic clubs to their members who desire to take an active part in the safety drive.

Additional quantities of the sticker in lots of 1,000 or more on orders approved by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce will be furnished at cost by Garrett & Masie to all state and local organizations, business concerns, and responsible citizens participating in the campaign to make Virginia's highways safe for all travelers.

It is hoped that eventually every motor vehicle operator in Virginia will carry one of these stickers on his windshield as a traffic creed for himself and a constant reminder to himself to drive safely and protect human life.

In a forward to the British highway code, the Minister of Transport says that "In every human activity there is a standard of conduct to which in the common interest we are expected to conform."

"The Highway Code, he says, is the standard of conduct for the road. Its provisions are a simple summary of the best and widest experience, each one of them written down in the resolute desire to prevent that kind of mistake or thoughtless action which may result in some one's bereavement or suffering.

"Respect for the Code and for the spirit underlying it," he says, "is so much a moral duty that its practice should become a habit and its breach a reproach."

The first five provisions of the British code of which there are a total of 107, applicable to all users of the road, are as follows:

1. All persons have a right to use the road for the purpose of passage.
2. As the manner in which you use the road affects a large number of others, show care and courtesy at all times and avoid unnecessary noise.
3. Accidents are inevitable unless due allowance is made for possible errors on the part of others.
4. Before using the road be sure that your alertness of sense of caution is not affected by alcohol or fatigue.
5. Keep your dog under proper control whether it is on the road or in a vehicle.

In Virginia, to supplement the State Chamber's traffic slogan, slower, sober, saner driving for safety, special emphasis might well be placed on dimmed lights in the country and less noise in the city. Blinding headlights on our highways at night constitute one of the major safety menaces in Virginia, while nerve-shattering, raucous, shrieking, and totally unnecessary horn-blowing by day is a major cause of accidents in our cities. The British code admonishes motorists to dip their headlights when meeting other vehicles on the road or following another vehicle and not to use their headlights unnecessarily, especially in lighted areas. This unusual and valuable compilation of traffic "do's" and "don'ts" also cautions motor vehicle drivers not to sound their horns unnecessarily or race their engines when standing still. Sounding the horn, it says, does not give a driver right of way.

As a result of the traffic anti-noise drive in New York, the monthly motor vehicle accident record has been reduced more than 20 per cent. In London, similar good results have followed the campaign against useless noises on the streets.

CHURCHES OFFER VARIOUS SERVICES

vid coloring will blend with the dark hues of the evergreens. Towards the end of the midnight mass, all lights will be dimmed except those on the altar and the manger.

The second service, without music, will be held at 8:15 on Christmas Day.

Galilee Episcopal Church. Because of difficulties with the furnace, the Christmas pageant has been canceled this year. However, now that the furnace has been repaired, services will be held as usual on Sunday, with Holy Communion offered at 8 a. m., and the morning prayer service at 11. The hour of Sunday School has been changed to 9:45.

The midnight choral service will begin at 11:30 Christmas Eve, the Rev. Eastman stated this week, and Holy Communion will be offered on Christmas Day at 10 o'clock. Complete details of the Christmas service will be published early next week.

Virginia Beach Methodist Church. The Christmas entertainment for the children will be given Monday night, at 7 o'clock, in the church. There will be a Christmas tree and a Santa Claus, who will distribute gifts to the children.

A short program will be presented by the children, including songs and recitations, and a short movie will be shown. Each child will be given a stocking filled with candy, nuts and a gift from the teacher. Mrs. S. B. Poteat is chairman of the entertainment committee.

The Young Woman's Bible Class of the Sunday School will present a pageant, "The Promised One," at 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Special Christmas music will be sung by the choir, directed by Richard Carroll. The cast of the pageant will include Elizabeth Wadsworth, Margaret Parker, the Rev. B. B. Blaud, William Wright, Mr. Walker, S. B. Poteat, Roy Dudley, R. V. Dudley, Onwin Dudley, Fletcher Litchfield, Orpha Parker, Mary Parker, Ruth Griggs, Hugh McTurner, Walter Eason, Sam Myers and Arville Capps.

Kempville Episcopal Church. The annual Christmas entertainment will be presented Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the church. A pageant portraying the birth of Christ will be given, and the Junior vested choir will sing the Venite. Additional Christmas music will be sung by the choir.

At the conclusion of this program, the entertainment will continue at the Parish House, where a Christmas tree and Santa Claus will be waiting to distribute gifts and candy to the children.

Kempville Baptist Church. The Sunday School will present the annual Christmas entertainment Monday night, at 8 o'clock. The program will be in the form of a white Christmas, each person attending to bring something for the poor, the package to be wrapped in white paper. The program will consist of a one-act play, entitled, "The Spirit of Christmas," a pantomime, vocal numbers and recitations. Mrs. George Smith and Miss Anne Herrick are in charge of the program.

Old Donation Church. The annual Christmas pageant will be given Sunday afternoon, at 4:30 p. m., with the program in the form of a candlelight service.

The pageant will consist of living pictures of the Holy Child attended by the shepherds and the wise men who came from afar to bring gifts, and the angels. The choir and audience will sing Christmas carols. Mrs. Rufus Parks is chairman of the program.

London Bridge Baptist Church. A Christmas cantata will be held in the church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The pageant is entitled, "The Great Deliverer," and it will be given by the members of the Bible School assisted by the Church choir. The program is being directed by Mrs. Charles Spence and Miss Marjorie Meade, church pianist. At the Sunday morning service, the pastor will discuss the subject.

Lions Plan Benefit Celebration, Dance

A New Year's Eve celebration and dance, sponsored by the Lions Club of Virginia Beach, will be held at the New Pinewood Hotel.

"No Room in the Inn," and the choir will furnish appropriate music.

December 31, from 9:30 o'clock. Proceeds of the evening will go to the eye glass fund of the local club.

Favors will be distributed, and a floor show will be presented by the La Nada School of Dancing.

Snow Halts Christmas Party Plans; Will Be Held At End Of Week

Impossible Roads Necessitate Change in Program for Celebration.

CHILDREN ARE NOTIFIED OF DELAY BY POSTCARD

Additional Contributions Received; Gifts and Toys Wrapped For Party.

The Christmas Party, sponsored by the Woman's Club, which was to be held yesterday afternoon at the Oceana High School has been postponed until Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Edward H. Herbert, president of the club announced yesterday morning. The heavy fall of snow would make a large attendance impossible, and in order that none of the invited children will be overlooked, the Saturday date was agreed upon.

All of the invited children have been notified of the change in plans by postcard. The same transportation directions issued for yesterday will hold for Saturday, since the committee has agreed to follow through on that day as originally planned.

Roads Impossible

Postponement of the festivities, Mrs. Herbert stated, was not determined until reports of impassable roads had been received from those sections of the county which will provide most of the children. She expressed regret for herself and her committee, but she asked that all children be assured that the party will go on as scheduled on Saturday. Selection of an earlier date was impossible because of engagements reported by the members of the committee in charge.

In the meantime, additional contributions have been received, bringing the formerly reported total of $128.46 up to a new high of $160.40. Of this amount, $30 was contributed by the Rotary Club, $2.50 by Barr's Pharmacy, $2.50 by Barr's Store No. 2, $2 by Dr. G. M. Meredith, $1 by Dr. C. Z. Corpenning and $3 by friends. Other contributions of clothing and toys also have been received.

Packages containing toys and clothing have been wrapped individually for every child invited to the party, now totaling 360. The clothing, Mrs. Herbert reports, is warm and of good quality, and the toys are of such nature as to provide many hours of enjoyment for the unfortunate boys and girls who will receive them. In addition, fruit and candy and nuts will be distributed at the party by a real Santa Claus.

GROUP HOSPITAL PLAN AVAILABLE TO BUSINESS GROUPS IN COUNTY

With 22 business and professional groups and 600 subscribers on its rolls in the two months it has been operating, the Tidewater Hospital Service Association is pushing forward its enrollment plan to include residents of both Princess Anne and Norfolk counties.

The group hospital plan is available to organized groups of five or more workers in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne county at a cost of about three cents a day or $10 a year, payable quarterly in advance. The subscriber is thereby guaranteed 21 days of free hospital care during the period of his contract and is protected from the embarrassment of paying a hospital bill he cannot afford.

The purpose of the plan, according to William R. Lowe, managing director, is to assist the man of moderate income in the problem of paying his hospital bill. He pointed out, he added, the plan will be helpful to the hospitals in cutting down the amount of charity treatment.

"The man of moderate income," said Mr. Lowe, "is perhaps more in need of a suitable hospital plan

Children Will Meet At Kandos' Corner

Virginia Beach children who have been invited to the Christmas Party, now scheduled for Saturday afternoon, will meet at Kandos' corner, Seventeenth and Atlantic Boulevard, at 1:30 o'clock on that day. Mrs. Oliver Brown, transportation chairman for the Beach, announced yesterday.

All children are urged to be there promptly, in order that the opening of the program will not be delayed.

BIRTHDAY BALL PROPOSED HERE

Mrs. Edward H. Herbert Named Chairman of Anti-Paralysis Entertainment.

Last summer, when the threat of infantile paralysis hung over Virginia Beach and Princess Anne county, residents had a taste of the terror which such disease can strike in a community which it visits. Later in the winter, on the occasion of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday, the community will be given an opportunity to provide itself with means of helping the victims of infantile paralysis to receive the after-treatments that overcome some of their handicaps and often restore them to a full measure of usefulness as citizens able to provide for themselves or others.

On that occasion, there will be staged locally a Birthday Ball for the President, proceeds from which will be used for the type of treatment favored today to insure relief for paralysis victims. The Woman's Club of the county will bring the formerly reported total of $128.46 up to a new high of $160.40. Of this amount, $30 was contributed by the Rotary Club, $2.50 by Barr's Pharmacy, $2.50 by Barr's Store No. 2, $2 by Dr. G. M. Meredith, $1 by Dr. C. Z. Corpenning and $3 by friends. Other contributions of clothing and toys also have been received.

Packages containing toys and clothing have been wrapped individually for every child invited to the party, now totaling 360. The clothing, Mrs. Herbert reports, is warm and of good quality, and the toys are of such nature as to provide many hours of enjoyment for the unfortunate boys and girls who will receive them. In addition, fruit and candy and nuts will be distributed at the party by a real Santa Claus.

The program for the Christmas Eve services, which will begin at 11:30 o'clock, is as follows: Processional, Adagio, Pledges, L. Reading: Gloria Tibi, Charles Gounod; Praise Be to Thee, O Christ, I. Playel; Hymn: It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, R. S. Willis; Offertory, Silent Night, F. Gruber; Offertory, Sentences, All Things Come of Thee, O Lord, S. B. Whitney; Sanctus, G. M. Garrett; Communion Hymn, Let All Mortal Flesh Keep Silence, French Folk Song; O Little Town of Bethlehem, sung during Communion; Gloria in Excelsis, old chant; Sevenfold Amen, John Stainer; Recessional, Angels from the Realms of Glory, H. Smart.

Holy Communion will be administered on Christmas Day, in Gallie Church, at 10 o'clock. Catholic Midnight Mass Midnight mass will be recited in the Star of the Sea Church on Christmas Eve, beginning at the stroke of midnight. A simple rendition of all the well-known hymns and carols of the Holy Season will unfold during the mass, which will present the Manger of Bethlehem as in former years. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will follow after the mass.

The second service at the Star of the Sea Church will be held Christmas morning, at 8:15 o'clock. The annual Christmas Eve carol service will be held at Eastern (Continued on Page Four)

BEHOLD, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord . . .

BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS. Each week of the year it is the purpose of the Virginia Beach NEWS to bring to the people of Princess Anne county good tidings from its several communities; news which will cement into a firmer bond of unity all persons residing here; news which will carry far afield the story of our county and the spirit of progressiveness which is carrying it on to a worthwhile destiny.

It is the wish of the publishers of the Virginia Beach News that this will be a most happy holiday season for all members of the county family, a time of joyousness, presaging a future filled with good things for you all. Each member of the staff joins in wishing our readers. . . .

Merry Christmas

Happy New Year

CHRISTMAS EVE SERVICES NOTED

Gallie and Star of the Sea Churches Plan Midnight Sessions.

The midnight choral service, originally planned for Gallie Church tonight, will be held in the Virginia Beach Methodist Church instead, the Rev. Reginald Eastman announced yesterday. A furnace breakdown is responsible for the change in plans, he added. Holy Communion on Christmas morning and next Sunday's services also will be held in the Methodist Church, the pastor stated. Services will be as usual, with the exception of early Communion next Sunday morning, which will not be held.

Choral Program

The program for the choral service, which will begin at 11:30 o'clock, is as follows: Processional, Adagio, Pledges, L. Reading: Gloria Tibi, Charles Gounod; Praise Be to Thee, O Christ, I. Playel; Hymn: It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, R. S. Willis; Offertory, Silent Night, F. Gruber; Offertory, Sentences, All Things Come of Thee, O Lord, S. B. Whitney; Sanctus, G. M. ## Priceless Early Records Reveal Origins Of Princess Anne Life Restored Volumes Contain Court Orders of County's Famous Witch Ducking Scene; Full of Interest For Historian And Scholar.

Back in those good old days of Colonial Virginia, when redskins lurked behind every tree—or so it must have seemed to the newly arrived colonists from England—residents of Princess Anne county approached their royal courts mostly for the dual purposes of registering the marks used to identify their livestock and to press for action against the witches—which, apparently, stood ever ready to evoke their magic and potent charms upon the good citizens. Such, at least, is suggested by a hasty perusal of the first two volumes of court orders to be written in Princess Anne county, then under the rule of Lady Anne, Queen of Great Britain and her many possessions.

This priceless collection of local happenings, which dates back to 1691, the year in which our county became a political division free from the control of Norfolk, and which continues through 1714, rests in the vaults of the County Clerk's office, to which it was recently returned after undergoing an extensive process of restoration. Now, with each of these early pages placed on a double sheet of finest silk, the whole bound attractively and durably with three-ply veneer and callskin leather, the records are preserved for posterity in the original form bequeathed to us.

Restoration Needed

Time and usage were combining to crumble into useless powder these early historic records—priceless documents for historians and scholars—when J. F. Woodhouse, clerk of the court, suggested their restoration to the board of supervisors. W. J. Barrow, recently associated with the Virginia State Library and now employed by the Newport News Marine Museum, was commissioned to do the needed work, and the beauty and efficacy of the completed job speak of his patient toil and his skill. Several years ago, Mr. Barrow had been employed to restore the first four volumes of the registered county deeds, the first two originals of which are now in Richmond. All of the restored volumes are uniform in size and binding.

Because of Mr. Woodhouse's interest in these old records, Volume One of the restored court orders bears this foreword: "These volumes were restored by the Board of Supervisors of Princess Anne county in honor of John W. Darden, Jr., stated that the Coast Guard had submitted an (Continued on Page Four)

Dunn Transferred To Norfolk Office

F. W. Dunn, formerly general manager for WPA in this area, has been transferred to Norfolk, it was learned yesterday.

Ralph Wilkins, head of Work Progress Administration project in Portsmouth, will assume the position held by Mr. Dunn. He will have under his jurisdiction all projects developing in Portsmouth, Princess Anne and Norfolk counties. Offices for the local area will be maintained in the City Market Building, in Portsmouth.

COUNCIL CHECKS LICENSE ACTION

Discusses Latest Norfolk Ordinance, But Withholds Local Tax.

Suggestions that a local town automobile license ordinance be passed to protect residents using Norfolk streets from purchase of a Norfolk city license were discussed informally at the special meeting of the Virginia Beach council last Friday night, but any possible action was delayed until after January 1. Councilman sentiment appeared to favor the proposal, in the event that Beach residents working in Norfolk are subjected to the newly-created tax on non-resident vehicles.

The Norfolk ordinance calling forth such discussion was passed at the November meeting of the city council. It provides that all automobiles and trucks owned by persons living outside of the city limits but using the city's streets regularly in the pursuit of their business shall be subject to the same license fees as Norfolk citizens.

License Equals That of State

On private passenger motor vehicles, the city tax is forty cents for each one hundred pounds of weight, with a minimum tax of eight dollars. Trucks are subject to a sliding scale, ranging from $15 for a one-ton or less capacity to $30 for a two-ton carrier. For trucks over two tons, an additional fee of $7.50 per one-half ton will be charged.

Although Norfolk officials have stated that the license law is aimed chiefly at the commercial vehicles using the streets from outside of the city's limits, it is pointed out that such discrimination cannot be relied upon. Taxing of non-commercial vehicles will work a definite hardship upon Virginia Beach and Princess Anne county residents working in Norfolk. (Continued on Page Four)

Council Seeks Highway Funds For Maintenance of Through Roads.

LIQUOR PROFITS VIEWED DISTRIBUTED UNFAIRLY

Guest Tax to Provide For No-construction of Sewage System Proposed.

Engaging in informal discussion with members of the Virginia Beach Town Council relative to legislative matters of local interest expected to be introduced at the coming session of the general assembly, Harry Davis, assemblyman from this district, last Friday night assured the councilmen of his support for all bills in which some phase of program for Virginia Beach is concerned. The Friday night meeting was a special session called by Mayor Roy Smith for the completion of all business facing the council in 1936.

Given most prominence in the discussion was the project outlined by Mayor Smith before the Virginia League of Municipalities this past fall, whereby a present ruling granting $15,000 per mile of through highway to each town of a population greater than 3,000 would be repealed and a lower limit established to include Virginia Beach. Support of the municipalities' league has been secured in the passage of the bill which will be introduced to the legislature early in the session.

Davis Promises Support

Mr. Davis promised to advocate a change in the highway funding ruling to include in the grants all towns having a population of 1,000 or more. The many small town representatives in the assembly, he said, would look with favor on the proposed amendment, and he forecast its approval without difficulty. Four and one-half miles of through highway lie within the corporate limits of the town, which would mean a saving to taxpayers of an approximate $67,000 annually, an amount sufficient to insure maintenance of the roads without additional expense on the part of the community.

The matter of a redistribution of ABC profits on the basis of sales rather than the present population apportionment also was discussed at length. Although the local ABC store grossed $141,649.75 last year, of which $46,113.66 represented net profit, a mere $673 was returned to Virginia Beach.

Reapportionment Sought

It was argued that the wide discrepancy in population statistics during the summer season and the winter months worked an undue and undesired hardship on Virginia Beach. (Continued on Page Four)

SCENIC ATTRACTIONS OF VIRGINIA SAID SPOILED THROUGH IGNORANCE

Virginia, with varied and wonderful scenery, has suffered as a scenic state because man has selfishly and ignorantly done his worst toward spoiling or detracting from the land and seascapes which he so enthusiastically describes. Major Charles J. Calrow, consultant-director of the Virginia State Planning Board pointed out at the Ninth Publicity and Advertising Conference sponsored by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

"In many cases we find that the goods we have advertised are beyond question on the shelves, but we are in no position to deliver them and retain satisfied customers because the clean packages in which the Creator of Nature's wonders delivered them to us, have been defaced and soiled," he said.

Major Calrow also called attention to the need of state forests. We need forests, he said, not only as a reserve supply of materials for our wood working industries, but as field cover for birds and sanctuaries and reserves for game. He deplored the pollution of Virginia streams to an extent where they are often no longer filled with fish.

"The areas thus affected are populous areas with many of the people having time for sports, people to whom fresh-water fishing should appeal," he said. "We cannot banish existing industries or refuse to accept new ones. We need industries because they mean livings for our people, so the situation is one which must be balanced with some regard for a balance between the interests of both sides. It is a situation calling for closest cooperative action." The creation of scenic highways was also proposed. The need for additional facilities for the sport fishermen in the saltwaters of the state was suggested. Major Calrow called attention to the instability of holding visitors here within the state, by developing an interchange of visitors on both sides. He also called for cooperative advertising.

THE WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Tomorrow, on Christmas Day, the national drive for funds to combat the dreaded disease of tuberculosis will come to an end. No one single force in our life, not even the casualties of war, can compare with the white plague in the toll of death and destruction recorded annually among the peoples of the earth, where the disease leads in the causes of death, its sudden snatching of youth from the enjoyment of their rightfulness due—it is between the ages of sixteen and twenty-four that the greatest toll is taken—forces tuberculosis to stand out as a menace which knows no bounds and respects no class.

Yet, science confronts us with the proof that its alleviation and elimination are possible. All of the suffering and death which we see about us each year is needless, a wasteful expenditure of human lives which blots the shield of civilization. Many are the cures and recoveries reported each year, but the field is large and great is the work which remains to be done before tuberculosis can be brought under control.

No one agency is more capable of fighting the white plague than the National Tuberculosis Association, whose many branches throughout the United States are now engaged in their annual sale of Christmas seals, the chief means used to raise the funds needed to carry on the work of physical salvation. The results accomplished here in Princess Anne county by our own group have been most effective and, granting a similar continuation of activity, we may look forward to additional reports of restored happiness and vitality.

The goal set for the county is still far from realization. The amount sought—$616—is not an extravagant sum to expect from the county residents, and, if the proper spirit of cooperation is shown, there is still a chance that the goal can be realized. Those who have not yet made their contributions are urged to do so without delay, for every dollar received will be put to a useful purpose. The dollar you have not contributed might save a life if it were available, and, with such a thought in mind, we join the county association in pleading for action on your part.

To check and hinder this work at a time when splendid results are apparent will be nothing short of criminal. Consider the need, we ask, and then determine what course you will take relative to the appeal made this year.

WORLD OPINION SCORES-A VICTORY

When the British government determined to drop the infamous peace proposals submitted to Ethiopia and Italy, it took the only course left open if that government was to continue as an honorable body. The speech reached by the Anglo-French overtures, which imposed an impossible burden upon an invaded Ethiopia while giving to a blustering Italy at least one-half of its drastic demands, was too great even for the British people, accustomed to this type of diplomacy, to stomach, and their righteous indignation at this blot upon their country's honor reflects quite well the force of world opinion regarding the pact.

To most of us, Ethiopia is little more than a name, suggestive of a disease-ridden country and a valiant little king who calls himself the Lion of Judah. But, familiar or no, to permit the imposition of such an unjust burden as that proposed upon the tiny kingdom was a step for which no honorable individual or nation could stand. Integrity, defense of home, the honor of nations, all were set aside by the proposals, which placed a premium upon unprovoked aggression and opened to conquest by the larger powers every small kingdom and republic which exists in the world today.

We do not believe in war, but we must appeal the course taken by Haile Selassie in refusing to blank the proposed tender of peace. For him and his nation, victims of a madness which eats upon the human brain of Mussolini, to have accepted the pact would have been a sign of infidelity to the ideals of national existence, for there is no peace so hollow as that which robs the victim to an even greater extent than did the war which preceded it.

The world applauds his stand, and the cause of Ethiopia has not been harmed by his reaction to the proposal. Stricter sanctions against Italy are now in the making, and, if we judge the temper of the world correctly, they will be imposed soon with no little ceremony.

It is unfortunate that the world must be tormented by wars at the Christmas season, but the principles of honor and justice cannot be denied by a mocking gesture to the spirit of the Yuletide. Right, after all, is right, and wrong is wrong, and never the twain shall meet.

A TAX ON GUESTS

Richard Crane's proposal that legislative sanction be sought to permit the imposition of a one percent tax on all tourists' hotel bills totalling more than $10 for their stay here, said money to be used for the reconstruction of the town's sewage system, offers a medium of additional revenue which will bear closest investigation. The suggested tax is too small to work a hardship on Virginia Beach guests, yet it would insure sufficient funds to undertake a project badly needed, which otherwise must be paid for by local residents.

The problems which Virginia Beach, as a resort community, faces are different from those of the ordinary town or city inasmuch as a constant population of not more than 2,000 must provide the facilities needed to take care of a summer peak load estimated at not less than 25,000. The tax burden necessitated by such a condition places an unfair hardship upon local residents, for, unless the desired facilities are provided for the summer tourists, the town may not hope to garner its share of the vacation trade, which in turn must spell ruin for local business.

What could be fairer, then, that these same vacationists contribute in some small part to the advantages which they enjoy here? Without unnecessary publicity, the tax could be absorbed in the hotel rate and turned over to the town without the visitor being aware of it. There is nothing unjust about such a proposal, nor could a legitimate complaint be leveled at those imposing the tax, for the amount collected from each individual would be negligible. Yet, how far it would go to augment the funds annually collected by the town!

Council will do well to investigate the matter and to give it careful consideration. Its imposition and the collection of proper funds from the highway department through roads will bring welcome relief to local tax payers, while assuring the town of improvements which must be had, regardless of the source of the funds to be collected.

The investigator who thinks old-age pensions will be paid for chiefly by city dwellers appears to foresee a kind of Town's End plan. —Norfolk Virginian Pilot

Prohibitionists contend that a clothe-line is not the only place now to see three sheets in the wind. —Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

IN WHICH WE EXPRESS A NOTE OF APPRECIATION

Today, there hovers over the county of Princess Anne a spirit of happiness and good-fellowship which wreathes in smiles the faces of those who live in high and low estate. It is the season of Christmas, the festive Yuletide, when the whole world bows in homage before the Manger in Bethlehem, where more than two thousand years ago, man was given a code of conduct and morality which surpasses in beauty and effectiveness the philosophic utterances of other of the world's great teachers.

"Peace on earth, good will to men." Here is the keynote of the Christmas season, a sentiment which has withstood the ravages of time and which today, despite the many instances of war and ill-tempered humors, looms more likely of accomplishment than at any other period in our history. Slowly, but with an effectiveness which cannot be denied, the ideal of peace is supplanting the ideal of war, and the doctrine of the Christ stands paramount in our daily lives.

What a contrast between the old Mosaic law of an "eye for an eye" and the doctrine of love and charity for one's neighbors! The difference in the philosophies is the progress made by civilization since the beginning of time, and the true accomplishment of the ideal will mean a status of living such as even the dreamer may not today visualize. And inexorable progress will bring about its fruition, for, though man's feet are caught in the mud and roots of a practical existence, his thoughts aspire ever to the stars, where peace everlasting prevails.

Such is the message of Christmas, and the desire it arouses in the human breast makes clear the reason why it has come down to us unchallenged through the years.

As we contemplate the generous response made to the appeal issued in recent weeks for the Woman's Club's Christmas Party for underprivileged children, we are moved to comment again upon the basic sympathy for those less fortunate than ourselves which underlies a common humanity. During recent months we have been beset by pleas for contributions for a multitude of charities, yet, there were many who could not let this latest plea go unheeded, with the result that Saturday will be a happy day for more than three hundred local children who otherwise would have been overlooked.

Warm clothing, toys, fruit and candy will be passed out at the party, and Santa Claus will really live. Life will be given a new meaning for the innocent uncertainties who are the recipients of your generosity. What is even more important, the money saved from Saturday's party—the major portion of that contributed—will be spent during the coming months to insure proper clothing for all children of school and pre-school age. No child will go without sufficient garments, if his lack of such is called to the attention of the Woman's Club.

So will the aftermath of the Christmas Party be felt locally during the remaining months of cold winter. Each penny spent thus far has been expended wisely, and the balance will be protected with jealous care by its guardians. No trust has ever been more faithfully performed than has the matter of these Christmas contributions.

Mrs. Herbert and her associates have asked us to extend the heartfelt appreciation of the Woman's Club to all who helped make the party a success. Without such cooperation, the good ladies insist, the splendid and gala occasion could not have been possible. All who contributed, whether in money, toys, clothing or food, may take some bit of the joyousness apparent Saturday afternoon as their very own, happy in the thought of the good accomplished, satisfied that a gesture of good-will had been made towards the county's unfortunate boys and girls.

But we would reserve the greater part of our appreciation for the splendid performance of Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. Hodgman, Mrs. Adenbrook and every other club member who gave generously of her time and her ability. Without their inspired leadership, there could have been no party and, while we would not minimize the added good done by the outside contributions, the quality of the leadership available and the results of many hours of hard work react in great measure to the credit of those who fostered the celebration. For them is reserved the satisfaction which comes from the knowledge of a good deed done well.

PASTORAL

This is my Christmas Eve of love.
I know
The old years are concluded, and I follow, Swinging my lantern on the crusted snow,
The setter tracks that trail across the hollow.
Lantern and starlight and the light within Shall shine upon sharp clamps of leafless plum,
The river darken where the ice is thin.
It matters not. My Christmas Eve has come.
Safe from the cold, Love, lean upon my breast.
The ox is warm within his weathered stall.
The sheep are drowsing like white flowers pressed Bloom against bloom along the creviced wall.
Be quiet, Love, and never waken lest
We hear some lost and lonely creature call.

SCATTER IN DEATH

When I had died I was a waterfall Flying my flag over the jagged wall.
Unfurl'd I ran to meet
The precipice
With spangled waters
Silvering the abyss,
Across my plumage
Colored sunlight blew
And blunder mist clung to me,
But I broke through.

I plunged forever through the waiting air, Jettied in showers of spray love and despair,
Cascaded the passions
Pent in the skull,
Dissonant company
Chamelled too full.
Scattered in death
All fury and suspense,
Fling out, bright drops,
Into inconsequence.

AN UNPUBLISHED POEM BY EMILY DICKINSON

We grow accustomed to the dark
When light is put away,
As when the neighbor holds the lamp
To witness her goodby.

A moment we uncertain step
For nervousness of the night,
Then sit our vision to the dark
And meet the road, erect!

And so of larger darkness—
Those evenings of the brain
When not a moon disclose a sign,
Or star come out, within.

The bravest grope a little
And sometimes hit a tree Directly in the forehead,
But, as they learn to see,

Either the darkness alters—
Or something in the sight
Adjusts itself to midnight—
And life steps almost straight.

Kempville Pupils Distribute Cheer

Students at Kempville have shown the true Christmas spirit this year in their liberality in giving to the various worthy causes in which the school has participated.

Contributions in cash have been made to the Junior Red Cross and the Tuberculosis fund. The contributions of $4.50 to the former and $5.52 to the latter show considerable improvement over the amounts given last year.

To the drive for food, launched by the school a week ago, to help the needy families represented in school, the response was very gratifying. When the final call was made Friday, before school was dismissed for the holidays, it was found that the amount thereof in gave each student representation. There were more items than there were students in school. The contributions included canned vegetables, fruits, and meats, staple foods, such as flour, meal, sugar, etc., and fresh fruits, candy, nuts, etc.

Ten baskets were packed according to the size of the family to which they were to be sent. These baskets will be delivered on Christmas Eve with the note: "Kempville Elementary and High School Junior Leagues wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Lions Club Dinner

A New Year's Eve celebration and dance, sponsored by the Lions Club of Virginia Beach, will be held at the New Pinewood Hotel, December 31, from 9:30 o'clock. Proceeds of the evening will go to the eye glass fund of the local club. Favors will be distributed, and a floor show will be presented by the La Nada School of Dancing.

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

If you had your own and the world would not, don't swallow a lot of pills, natural water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you healthy, content and buoyant and full of smiles.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more permanent downy get at the cause. The reason for your downy and out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels a day.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and out." They are wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Don't take for three pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of imitations. Beware of cheap ones. © 1931 C. H. Co.

WELFARE REPORT MADE AT OCEANA

Mrs. Ewell Address Parent-Teacher Association on Community Needs.

Mrs. A. E. Ewell, director of relief for Princess Anne county, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Oceana Parent-Teacher Association, held in the school auditorium Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ewell presented most forcefully the definite need for a welfare program in the county in order that little children may not be denied proper clothing and sufficient nourishment. She urged the cooperation of all civic groups to the end that some of the suffering in the county might be alleviated.

Mrs. Farmer Morrison, chairman of the welfare committee, presented a report of the work of her committee during the current school year. She reported that through the activities of her group a number of children had been given clothing which enabled them to continue in school.

The committee, supplemented by other interested individuals, meets weekly in a sewing class to make garments for these children in the school community. She also reported that the school lunchroom was furnishing free lunches to those unable to buy food and who showed signs of undernourishment. Various other welfare activities, including the giving of baskets of food to the poor at Thanksgiving and Christmas, were reported.

purpose of aftertreatment of victims of infantile paralysis and of scientific research to find the cause and cure of the disease. He has consented to do so again this year, when an effort will be made to stage such a ball in every community.

In the past two years, more than two million dollars have been raised and expended, a large part by the more than 5,000 communities who have participated in the balls and the balance, under the direction of the President, for the work of the President's Commission on Infantile Paralysis Research, for the great work of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation.

The President has approved the suggestion that seventy per cent of the proceeds raised by each local Birthday Ball be retained in the community to be disbursed to local or adjacent orthopedic hospitals, or for the treatment of local infantile paralysis victims, as the committee in charge decides. This allotment was first made last year; the plan worked well and has been approved throughout the country. Thirty per cent of the proceeds will be turned over to the national committee for delivery to the President to be presented by him to the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation for the continuation and extension of its part in the fight against the disease.

The local community is fortunate in having secured the services of such an outstanding personage as Mrs. Herbert for the chairmanship of its committee. Additional data on the details of the ball will be presented early next month.

PROPOSED BILLS INTEREST BEACH

ginia Beach in the distribution of such moneys on a population basis, since only the static population was considered in the apportionment. However, the increase in population during the summer months calls for a greatly increased expenditure of funds for police and fire protection and other modern services, which must be paid for by the constant residents. A committee of the council plan to discuss some change in the present law with T. McCall Fraser, head of the ABC board, in the near future.

A bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting at three horse tracks within the state will be introduced at the next session of the legislature. Mr. Davis, whether or not the bill will be phrased so as to include dog tracks is not now known, although Mr. Davis plans to discuss this project with the bill's sponsor, Delegate McHugh, of Charlottesville, before the calling of the assembly. Councilmen were divided in their opinion on the return of the dog track to Virginia Beach, the general sentiment seemingly one of approval.

Guest Tax Outlined
Discussing a proposal outlined to him by Richard Crane, of Westover, a local property owner, Willard Ashburn presented a novel tax scheme used largely today in European resorts for the collection of sufficient fund to insure completion of needed public utilities. It is Mr. Crane's thought that a one per cent tax on all hotel bills amounting to $10 or more would permit the floating of a special bond issue for the reconstruction of the town's sewage system, such tax to be absorbed in the bill as charged by the hotel keeper and then turned over to the town by him.

It was estimated that more than $25,000 could be collected annually under such a scheme, without imposing any undue burden upon those who vacation here. Where hotel bills are less than $10 for the entire stay of the vacationists, there would be no tax. Members of council pointed out that if this surcharge could be included in the hotel rates it could be collected without the guest being aware of its imposition.

Committee to Investigate
A committee composed of William Crockett, Russell Land and Stanley Smith was appointed by the Mayor to investigate the possibilities of such a tax and to report back to the council at the next regular meeting. If approved, a special legislative sanction will be asked during the coming session.

The possibilities of a scheme whereby Virginia Beach's lawless population would be determined by a census taken on July 1 and then again on January 1 and then equalized was discussed. The Mayor and the town's attorney were asked to investigate the constitutionality of such a measure and to report their findings to the council at the January meeting. Mr. Davis also expressed the belief that a proposed bill to prevent liquor advertising in the newspapers of the state would fail to win approval.

COUNCIL CHECKS LICENSE ACTION

Local License Proposed
It had been proposed that the town approve a license ordinance of a nominal value of one dollar, plus the cost of the tag, in order to protect the citizens living here. The law does not permit a double tax to be imposed and, if such a Virginia Beach tag were available, it would save local people from seven to fourteen dollars annually.

The Tidewater Automobile Association has expressed its vigorous opposition to the new ordinance, and has promised to fight against its imposition on the grounds that it is discriminatory and unfair. Members of the local council were equally vigorous in their protests, some threatening to fight the law in the courts in the event that an attempt is made to force them to buy the Norfolk tags.

Whether or not any action will be taken relative to the passage of a local ordinance will depend in large part upon the course followed by Norfolk, it was stated. Should a general move be made to tax out of city cars, as has been threatened and as is permissible under the law, it is held possible that Virginia Beach will move to protect its residents.

Theater Previews

Friday and Saturday, December 27 and 28, "A Night at the Opera," a M-G-M picture brings the inevitable Marx Brothers to the screen of the Bayne Theatre. Besides the Marx Brothers there are three Broadway stage favorites—Allen Jones, Elvira Carls and Walter Flag—whose singing voices will thrill you as they sing songs from the group operas. There's romance, too, as the Merry Madcaps upset an entire opera company just to bring two young lovers together.

"So Red the Rose," Paramount's screen version of Stark Young's famous novel of the War Between the States, is coming to the Bayne Theatre Sunday and Monday, December 29 and 30. Margaret Sullavan plays the role of a Southern girl who is faced with the loss of her sweetheart when the War casts a barrier between them. Randolph Scott plays opposite Miss Sullavan; and Walter Connolly, Janet Beecher and Dickie Moore head a large supporting cast.

John Boles and Dixie Lee are co-starred in the romantic leads of the screen's gayest extravaganza, "Redheads on Parade," which will be shown Tuesday, December 31 at the Bayne Theatre. The story revolves about a fantastic movie producer and his imaginative press-agent who launch the world's greatest campaign to popularize red hair. In order to put over their big production spectacle, gorgeous round-up of tantalizing redheads—prize beauties from every State. Tunesome hits... flashing fun... toe-twitching dances.

New Year's Day and Thursday, January 2, the Bayne Theatre will present a double feature—"Here Comes the Band," with Ted Lewis and his orchestra; and George O'Brien in Zane Grey's "Thunder Mountain."

"Here Comes the Band" is a dramatic story dealing with the reunion of army band, a young composer, a stolen song and a musical lawsuit that restores it to him. It is packed with lilting song hits and rollicking comedy. Thrills, adventure, romance abound in "Thunder Mountain," which presents George O'Brien as the two-fisted fighting hero of the Idaho gold strike. The picture features Barbara Fritchie and Frances Grant as O'Brien's leading ladies.

PRICELESS EARLY RECORDS BOUND

Proctor Woodhouse, Clerk of the Circuit Court, in appreciation of his services and interest in the records of this county. The names of the present board are then added.

Although the various brand marks used and the other court transactions of the day make interesting reading for the student of early Princess Anne county, the main attraction of the restored volumes lies in the court proceedings relative to the New World's first celebrated "witch ducking," which took place in 1706. Mistress Grace Sherwood was the unlucky woman, subjected to the indignities of total submersion in a local pond because of a community belief in her alleged supernatural powers.

In those days, when witch scares were as common as Red scares are today, the judicial treatment was a simple and an effective one. The suspected dupes of the devil were bound in a chair of massive oak and tossed into the deepest portion of the lake or river. If she failed to return to the surface, a verdict of not guilty was rendered, although the poor lady would not be there to hear it; if she came above water, it was a prima facie sign of guilt, and burning at the stake or some such similar death then awaited her.

Mistress Sherwood came to the surface and was hauled from the water by her judges. By all odds, she was guilty of the heinous crime as charged, but her tormentors must have relented, for the early deed book shows that she later died a natural death, bequeathing her property to a son.

Other incidents of equal questionable and charm lie within the covers of these two volumes, awaiting their recounting by a future student.
